"This is a dream come true ... I am here to provide leadership, to create an environment for these athletes, both athletically and academically, that they can flourish in ... our team will be disciplined, our team will play hard, our team will play fast, they will have a lot of fun, but they will do it with class ... it will be something that you can always be proud of as Cal boosters, alumni and supporters. I have a goal and a vision that the University of California, through hard work and dedication, can get to where we are competing for the Pac-10 championship and at a national level. I am going to put together a staff that is going to care for the young men both on and off the field, that are great teachers, interested in their academics, interested in these kids in how they grow up, and that we can make an impression on their character that will last further than just the University of California ... again, I want to let you all know just how excited I am to be here, and how much of a great opportunity I believe that this is, that we can get this turned around and headed in the right direction."

- Jeff Tedford introductory press conference, opening statement, Dec. 12, 2001

Just over seven years after those introductory words, Jeff Tedford has not only built the California football program into one of the top programs in the Pacific-10 Conference, but he has also lifted the Golden Bears into the national picture, all while remaining true to his ideals of playing with class and excelling in the classroom and in the community.

Under Tedford's leadership, the Bears have climbed into the AP National Top 10 in four different seasons, finishing in the Top 25 three times. The program has advanced to six straight bowl games for the first time in history, winning four of those to make Tedford the first Cal mentor with more than two bowl victories. Cal's 58 wins in the past seven seasons are the most in a seven-year stretch by the program in over 80 years; in the seven years before Tedford's arrival, the Bears had 21 victories total.

In addition, Tedford has had 74 players recognized as academic all-conference, including four first-teamers in 2008. Senior Alex Mack also won the 2008 Draddy Award, which is presented to the top scholar-athlete in all of college football.

Of the 126 seniors who have played for Tedford, 112 (89%) have earned their degrees and/or gone on to NFL careers. All of this from a team that won just one game in 2001, the year prior to his arrival. The California football renaissance rates as one of the most impressive turnarounds in college football history.

Tedford's success with the California program has resulted in local devotion and in national attention. Cal set an average attendance record in 2006 at 64,318, while the Bears set a season-ticket record with 41,366 tickets sold in '07. The last 31 games at Memorial Stadium have each featured over 50,000 fans, and Cal averaged 61,634 fans in 2008.

Nationally, the Golden Bears have had multiple Heisman Trophy candidates, including J.J. Arrington in 2004, Marshawn Lynch in 2006 and DeSean Jackson in 2007. In 2006, the Bears had a pair of players collect national awards. Jackson was the recipient of the inaugural Randy Moss Award for the top return man in the country, while Daymeion Hughes earned the Ronnie Lott IMPACT Trophy, an award which equally recognizes athletic performance and the personal character attributes of the player. Mack is considered by many to be the top center in the nation for 2008 and has received first-team All-America recognition the past two years.

Since Tedford's arrival, Cal has risen to No. 2 in the Pac-10 in television exposure, a dramatic increase over the years before Tedford. Seventy-two Cal games have been televised in seven years under Tedford; in the seven years prior to that, 40 Cal games were televised. National television broadcasts have more than doubled in that time. In 2007, for the first time ever, all 13 Golden Bear contests were televised, and every game has been on TV again in 2008.

Despite his success, Tedford remains devoted to being a mentor to the young men on his team.

"Football is more than a game," he said. "I think it teaches so many values for young people as they move on into life - teamwork, sacrifice, dedication, hard work - all those things are very valuable to their futures. I'm going to be a person that they can trust and talk to while they're here, but I really, really hope that when they leave, they understand that they can come back and ask me for anything and count on me in any situation."

His legendary work-ethic shows the coach's drive, which is not geared towards individual success. His true goals are for success as a team, and success for his student-athletes.

"Jeff is the hardest worker I have ever encountered in this business," Director of Athletics Sandy Barbour said. "He is not going to be outworked, because he believes he owes that to his student-athletes."

That relentless drive developed in Tedford as a young football player in Downey, Calif., and at Warren High School. After a solid high school career, the undersized quarterback went on to a standout two-year stint at Cerritos College and a record-setting two-year stay at Fresno State.

After receiving a B.S. degree in physical education from Fresno State in 1983, Tedford played pro football in the Canadian Football League for six seasons with Hamilton, Calgary, Saskatchewan and Winnipeg.

Eighty-nine percent of the seniors to play for Tedford have earned their degrees and/or gone on to NFL careers.

Tedford has used his own signal-calling experience to build a reputation as a quarterbacks guru. During his 17-year collegiate coaching career at California, Oregon (1998-2001) and Fresno State (1992-97), Tedford has been integral in the development of six NFL first-round draft picks: Trent Dilfer, Akili Smith, Joey Harrington, David Carr, Kyle Boller and Aaron Rodgers. In 2004, Rodgers, an under-the-radar junior-college transfer like Tedford, ranked No. 8 nationally in passing efficiency, completing 66.1 percent of his passes for 2,566 yards and 24 touchdowns.

Despite his success with quarterbacks, Tedford's teams feature balanced attacks and have become notorious for their ferocity on the ground. In his last 10 years as a coach, Tedford has seen 11 1,000-yard rushing seasons by his tailbacks. In 2004, J.J. Arrington broke Chuck Muncie's school record with 2,018 yards, which ranked No. 1 in the NCAA. In 2007, Justin Forsett's 1,546 rushing yards were the second-best in Cal history, following up back-to-back 1,000-yard seasons from Marshawn Lynch. Sophomore Jahvid Best has piled up 1,394 yards so far in 2008, No. 4 on the Cal list.

While offense has been Tedford's forte, California's defense has toughened considerably during his reign as well, allowing an average of just 22.1 points per game during his seven-year tenure, second-best in the Pac-10 over that period.

In 2005, the Golden Bears led the Pac-10 in scoring defense, allowing just 21.2

points per game, while the current squad has 23 interceptions – most at the school in 55 years – and is giving up just 20.2 ppg.

Prior to his arrival in Berkeley, Tedford was a highly regarded offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at the University of Oregon, where the Ducks finished ranked No. 2 nationally in 2001.

Tedford played an integral role in the rise of the Oregon program during his four-year tenure in Eugene – a period in which the Ducks posted the Pac-10's best record of 38-10 while finishing progressively better each year (8-4 in '98, 9-3 in '99, 10-2 in '00 and 11-1 in '01). During his first season as offensive coordinator, the Ducks set school records in passing yards, total offense and points scored. Tedford's passing acumen was clearly evident in the rapid development of Smith, who earned Pac-10 Offensive Player of the Year accolades in finishing second in the nation in passing efficiency and later being chosen third in the 1999 NFL Draft by Cincinnati.

Duck quarterbacks A.J. Feeley and Harrington combined to pass for 3,131 yards and 24 TDs on the Sun Bowl champion team that ranked 13th nationally in scoring in '99, while the 2000 team tied for the Pac-10 crown and defeated Texas in the Holiday Bowl. Tedford's last Oregon squad, which bagged wins over Colorado, Washington State, UCLA and Wisconsin en route to a No. 2 ranking, showcased one of the nation's premier quarterbacks in Harrington, who won Pac-10 Offensive Player of the Year honors and a fourth-place finish in the Heisman balloting.

In 1992 as quarterback coach at Fresno State, Tedford began honing the skills of Dilfer, who quarterbacked Baltimore to a Super Bowl victory in 2001. Under his guidance, the Bulldogs' quarterback earned first team All-WAC honors for an offense that led the nation in scoring (44.2 points per game), ranked second nationally in total offense (541.9 yards per game) and beat USC in the Freedom Bowl. A season later, Tedford moved up to offensive coordinator, and Fresno State ranked third nationally in scoring and total offense in earning an Aloha Bowl invitation. Dilfer ranked first nationally in passing (173.1 rating) and won the WAC Offensive Player of the Year award; the Bulldog signal caller later was chosen by Tampa Bay with the sixth overall selection of the 1994 NFL Draft.

"I believe Jeff's one of the finest minds in all of football," said NFL veteran Dilfer. "He's certainly the finest coach I've ever been around. He's a great leader and great teacher. He has very high expectations for himself and the people around him. And he will work tirelessly to meet those expectations. Jeff taught me more about toughness and the game of football than any coach I've ever played for, and I've had some awfully good coaches. To this day, I still consult him on all major issues that I'm facing in football."

Tedford's coaching career began as a volunteer assistant at Fresno State in 1987, spending two years there before joining Calgary in the CFL in 1989. He served as an offensive assistant with the Stampeders for three seasons, including the 1991 team that advanced to the Grey Cup title game.

Despite his tremendous success as a coach and a mentor, Tedford still follows a basic philosophy, "We try to focus on one game at a time and try to reach our full potential" and still values each and every member of his football team, "whether it be the guys who are suited up, the guys who are going to play 50-60 plays or the guys who aren't going to play at all, I want them all to understand that they are very, very important to the success of the program. Their contributions are invaluable."

Tedford's hard work and dedication not only inspire his players to give the same toward the success of California football, it has made him a role model to the young men who are part of the Cal program.

"Coach Tedford wasn't just a coach, I think of him as more like a father figure," All-Pac-10 linebacker and current Green Bay Packer Desmond Bishop said. "He taught us lessons about life. He taught us to have integrity, to have character. He prepared us to be men."

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

SANDY BARBOUR

As Director of Athletics at the University of California, Sandy Barbour oversees an Athletic Department that ranks as one of the most successful in the country with a mission that seeks to match its level of excellence with that attained by the University as a whole.

Built upon four pillars – to teach, to serve, to compete and to excel – Cal Athletics strives to combine high athletic achievement with the academic rigors of the No. 1 public university in the country, and to do so with integrity, passion, respect, teamwork, innovation, diversity and professionalism. The department is charged to not only be a campus and community leader, but also to be a place where individuals can grow to their utmost potential.

Under Barbour's leadership, the Golden Bears have developed into a model program that has become a mainstay among the Top 10 in the annual NACDA Directors' Cup standings. Cal matched the school's best-ever finish in 2007-08 with a seventh-place standing, a ranking buoyed by seven sports that ranked among the Top 5 nationally. The Bears were also seventh in 2005-06 and ninth in 2003, '04 and '07.

"Sandy Barbour was my first appointment at Berkeley, and I consider it a privilege to have her as our athletic director," Chancellor Robert J. Birgeneau said. "Under her leadership, our student-athletes are excelling on and off the field, supported by a department committed to excellence, equity and comprehensive compliance with the rules."

Since Barbour began her tenure in Berkeley on Sept. 15, 2004, Cal programs have captured nine national team championships and 25 individual titles. In 2007-08, the Bears repeated as champions in men's rugby and water polo, while Cal athletes won a school-record 11 individual crowns in 2006-07.

In addition, the Cal football team has won three consecutive bowl championships – the Las Vegas Bowl in 2005, the Holiday Bowl in 2006 and the Armed Forces Bowl in 2007 – and shared the Pac-10 championship for the first time in 21 seasons in 2006.

Overall, Cal supports a 27-sport program with more than 800 student-athletes and a budget in excess of $60 million.

On the academic front, nearly half of Cal's student-athletes maintain a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or higher, and 14 of Cal's 27 programs earned cumulative GPAs higher than their historical average. All Bear teams also surpassed the required minimum score in the most recent Academic Progress Report, and more than 175 student-athletes have earned academic all-conference recognition in each of the last four years.

In May of 2007, the NCAA certified a comprehensive self-study of Intercollegiate Athletics at Cal, confirming that the athletic department is operating in full compliance of the organization's operating principles. This recognition demonstrates that the University is committed to sustaining a broad-based, nationally competitive athletics program that supports student-athlete academic needs and interests.

Named one of the "100 Most Influential Women in Business" in the Bay Area by the San Francisco Business Times, Barbour has also been chosen a 2006 Woman of Distinction by the East Bay Business Times and the 2006 National Association of Collegiate Women Athletics Administrators (NACWAA) Division I-A National Administrator of the Year.

Barbour is an active member of several committees on both the national and conference levels. Currently chair of the Pac-10 Finance Committee, she is also a member of the Pac-10 Executive Committee and the Pac-10 Television Committee and served as vice president of the conference for 2007-08. In addition, Barbour is on the NACDA Executive Committee, the NCAA Diversity Leadership Strategic Planning Committee, the NCAA Women's Basketball Discussion Group and the WBCA Defensive Player of the Year Selection Committee.

Prior to moving to Berkeley, Barbour was the deputy director of athletics at Notre Dame, serving as the university's senior athletic administrator from July 2003 to September 2005. She previously held an associate athletic director position there starting in 2000.

Barbour's career in intercollegiate athletic administration spans 26 years, beginning as a field hockey assistant coach and lacrosse administrative assistant at the University of Massachusetts in 1981. She has since served as assistant athletic director at Northwestern and in 1991 was recruited to Tulane as an associate athletic director.

In 1996, Barbour was appointed Tulane's director of athletics at age 36, and during her three years overseeing the program, Green Wave teams won 12 conference championships. In her first year in the position, the school captured four conference titles, a feat never before accomplished in Tulane history. She also hired Tommy Bowden as head football coach during her first year. Bowden proceeded in 1997 to post the Green Wave's first winning season (7-4) in 16 years, and then directed the school to a 12-0 record, a Conference USA championship and a No. 7 national ranking the following season as the 1998 Liberty Bowl champions.

In her position at Notre Dame, Barbour oversaw facilities and event operations for the school's 26-sport program, including football game management and the department's two golf courses. She was also responsible for developing, maintaining and implementing Notre Dame's $127 million athletics facilities master plan.

Additionally, her role at Notre Dame included responsibilities for women's lacrosse, men's and women's cross country, indoor and outdoor track, men's and women's swimming and men's golf. She also assisted with the administration of women's basketball.

Born Dec. 2, 1959, in Annapolis, Md., Barbour grew up in a military family. Her father was a career aviator in the U.S. Navy, and her family lived in various U.S. locations, as well as in Western Europe during her childhood.

Barbour graduated cum laude in 1981 with a B.S. degree in physical education from Wake Forest, where she was a four-year letterwinner and served as captain of the field hockey team. She also played two varsity seasons of women's basketball.

Barbour earned advanced degrees at both Massachusetts (an M.S. in sports management in 1983) and Northwestern's Kellogg School of Management (an MBA in 1991).

Between master's programs, Barbour served as assistant field hockey and lacrosse coach at Northwestern from 1982-84. She also held the position of director of recruiting services during that period, before being promoted to assistant athletic director for intercollegiate programs in 1984, a position she held until 1989.

Prior to joining Tulane, Barbour worked in programming and production for FOX Sports Net in Chicago during the summer of 1990.

ATHLETIC ADMINISTRATION

STEVE HOLTON

Deputy Director of Athletics

Steve Holton, who brings a vast background in intercollegiate athletics to the Golden Bears, joined the Cal staff as deputy director of athletics in May of 2005. His duties include oversight of business operations, facilities, game management, capital projects and sport management.

Prior to moving to Berkeley, he served as director of athletics at Northern Arizona for 10 years. During his tenure there, NAU claimed three combined Big Sky Conference All Sports Trophy competitions and captured more than 40 conference championships. In addition, the school also set records in graduation rates, student-athlete grade-point average and fund raising.

Holton began his athletics career as an administrative assistant at Michigan from 1981-82 before becoming director of marketing and promotions at Houston for two years. While at UH, he was responsible for the marketing of all athletics programs, highlighted by the famous "Phi Slama Jama" slogan used to promote the three-time Final Four teams featuring Clyde Drexler and Hakeem Olajuwon. He later served as associate athletic director at Long Beach State from 1984-93.

Holton holds a bachelor's degree in political science from Western Michigan and a master's in sports administration from Ohio University. He and his wife, Judi, reside in the Berkeley area.

TERESA KUEHN GOULD

Deputy Director of Athletics

Teresa Gould, who joined the Golden Bear staff in the Fall of 2001, serves as Cal's Deputy Director of Athletics, as well as the Department's Senior Woman Administrator.

In her capacity at Cal, Gould oversees the budgetary and operational needs of various intercollegiate varsity teams, including both Men's and Women's Basketball, providing guidance and support to each program's Head Coach. In addition, Gould oversees several administrative units and the University's multi-media agreement with International Sports Properties (ISP).

Before moving to Berkeley in September of 2001, Gould served as Associate Commissioner of the West Coast Conference in San Bruno, Calif. In seven years with the WCC, she managed the league's television, marketing and corporate sponsorship efforts, as well as administered conference championships and served as staff liaison to various coaches groups. She was a member of the NCAA Division I Management Council for two years during her tenure at the WCC.

From 1992-94, Gould worked for ESPN Regional Television in Charlotte, N.C., as Conference Relations Coordinator. In this role, Gould served as the liaison to several NCAA Division I conferences. In addition, Gould was Director of Championships and Media Relations for the Midwestern Collegiate Conference in Indianapolis from 1990-92, Public Relations/Promotions Assistant for the Iowa Games Sports Festival (1989-90) and Assistant to the Coordinator of Football Recruiting at Iowa State University (1987-90).

Gould received her bachelor's degree in Journalism and mass communications from Iowa State University in 1990 and is currently working on her master's degree in education at the University of California. Gould is married to Cal running backs coach Ron Gould.

FOTI MELLIS

Senior Associate Athletic Director

Foti Mellis, who has more than a decade of experience in the compliance field and has worked at Cal since 2002, serves as the Athletic Department's Senior Associate Athletic Director for Intercollegiate Services.

In his role, Mellis oversees Cal's Compliance Services, Student Services and Information Systems units. In addition, he is the department's liaison to the campus for admissions, financial aid and student judicial affairs, and he supervises a number of Cal's intercollegiate programs.

During his tenure at Cal, Mellis has reorganized and enhanced Cal's compliance operations, and implemented a student-athlete database networked to all staff and the campus. He also coordinates a rules education program for department staff and boosters.

Mellis arrived at Cal after spending four years as assistant AD for compliance at Arizona State, where he oversaw all areas of compliance with the program's 22 athletic teams. Prior to his stay in Tempe, he spent two years at the University of Tulsa as director of compliance from 1996-98. Mellis began his compliance career at Northwestern in 1994, spending one year as an intern and a second year as a compliance assistant.

A graduate of UC Davis, Mellis held various positions with the Aggies from 1989-94, including assistant men's basketball coach, academic advisor and assistant to the athletic department administration. He received his bachelor's degree in managerial economics in 1990 and his master's in education in 1996, both from UC Davis.

DAVID ROSSELLI

Associate Athletic Director

David Rosselli manages the front-line fund raisers and day-to-day operations necessary to develop annual and major gifts for the California Athletic Department. He currently oversees all fund-raising related to the Student-Athlete High Performance Center. With nearly 20 years of fund-raising experience, Rosselli has led the Cal development team to record-breaking fund-raising totals in each of the last three years.

The Cal athletic development team consists of 17 people, one of the largest departments in the country. Under his direction, Cal has undertaken ground-breaking strategies to boost donor income for the department.

Rosselli arrived at Cal in June 2004 after leaving his post as associate athletic director for development at Santa Clara University, where he led the campaign to build the Broncos' new Steven Schott Baseball Complex. In addition to his athletic development experience, Rosselli spent eight years as the director of development for the Schools of Engineering and Business at the University of the Pacific in the early 1990s.

Also an accomplished broadcaster, Roselli has 20 years of radio experience, including six years at KNBR Radio in San Francisco and time spent as the host of Cal's football and men's basketball postgame radio programs.

DAWN WHALIN

Associate Athletic Director

Dawn Whalin, who joined the Golden Bear Staff in 1991, serves as Cal's Associate Athletic Director for Human Resources & Finance. She oversees a staff of 16 that manage the purchasing, payables, travel, human resources, payroll, business contracts, budgets, financial reporting and risk management, as well as the administration of youth camps, for the department.

During her time at Cal, Whalin has filled several roles in the business office, working her way up from an administrative assistant to the business manager to her current role. She has also worked with the information systems unit as a computer programmer, including the Bear Hunt of the 1990s, and she continues to consult on programming projects, most recently automating financial aid processing and developing the department's intranet. In addition, Whalin acts as a liaison between the department and ISP Sports.

Whalin graduated Phi Beta Kappa, earning her bachelor's degree in economics, with minors in business and mathematics, from the University of Oregon in 1991. She has long ties to Berkeley, having been born and raised in the city and having graduating from Berkeley High School. Her parents are both Cal graduates, and her 13-year old nephew Garrett yearns to be a Cal graduate.
