MEN'S 2004 SEASON OUTLOOK

Senior Wayne Wong

BEARS LOOK FOR SECOND CONSECUTIVE 20-PLUS WIN SEASON

The Cal men's tennis team guided by head coach Peter Wright, look to uphold the excellence and tradition that people have come to expect from the Cal tennis program. Since the late 90s, the Bears have consistently improved, building up to last year's team which tallied a dual meet record of 21-5, finishing the No. 4 ranked team in the country.

But with the departure of five seniors due to graduation from that highly-ranked team, coach Wright and the Bears face new challenges in 2004.

"We lost quite a few key figures from a year ago, but we do have a strong mix of upper classmen and newcomers that should blend in nicely this spring," the coach says.

Despite a large influx of young talent, the Bears are still optimistic, and rightfully so. Upper classmen Conor Niland, Balazs Veress and Wayne Wong are poised to lead this promising group to, yet another, NCAA bid this spring.

Niland enters the spring as one of the hottest players in the region. After a breakout sophomore campaign, which saw the native of Limerick, Ireland go 27-12 - including a commanding 18-6 record on courts No.1 & 2 - Niland entered the fall rated No. 25 nationally. Sparkling during the three month long tournament schedule, Niland proved he was worth such a high ranking. Niland brought home the ITA All-American Consolation Championship, as well as the ITA Northwest Regional title. From October 10 -20, Niland was the finest player in the country, winning 10 matches in a row, in dominating fashion, dropping just two sets out of 22 total. He finished the fall tournament schedule, 12-4, and charges into the spring ranked No. 3 in the region and No. 10 nationally.

Veress and Wong are two seniors looking to finish their careers on a high note. Veress is coming off a 19-14 season last year, drawing many of the tougher opponents on the Bears' slate. He reached the round of 16 at the NCAA Championships, in 2003, and entered the fall ranked No. 83 nationally. Veress, nagged by an injury, never quite put it all together in brief and spotty fall action, posting a 3-4 record. But he's confident that a healthy spring would lead to increased productivity for he and the Bears. Veress finds himself No. 19 regionally and No. 91 nationally.

Wong enters the spring ranked No. 24 in the region, and is labeled by opposing coaches as a player on the rise. After a very promising beginning to his Cal career, going 24-14 as a sophomore, Wong was forced to miss much of the 2002-03 season due to injury. But the time away from the court has only fueled Wong's fire and passion, winning his first three matches back this fall en route to a 6-2 overall record. Those six victories ranked second on the team behind Niland this fall.

Behind the Bear "Big Three," Cal returns only one other player, junior Patrick Briaud, with collegiate dual meet experience.

Briaud went 9-14 as a sophomore last spring. Though his record was below .500, the experience he gained was invaluable and will be used as a springboard to launch himself into the spring of 2004. During the fall, he picked up three encouraging victories against worthy opponents, and reached the round of 32 at the ITA Northwest Regional Championships. Under the tutelage of Wright, Briaud looks to blossom and become a contributing factor in the Bears' success.

One other Bear, senior Kuni Minato, has collegiate experience.

After transferring from the College of the Desert in Palm Desert, Calif., Minato sat out all of last season. But after a promising fall, which saw him compile a 4-3 record in tournament play, he seems poised to make his presence felt this spring.

With just five returnees, and out of those, only two with experience playing on courts No. 1 or No. 2 - the Bears will have to look to their youth to provide much needed depth. But Cal has a talented group of five newcomers to choose from in Tyler Browne, Jacob Leivent, Andreas Petersen, John Pettit and spring admit Daniel Sebescen.

Coach Wright is very high on his new class of players and was pleased with how competitive they were in the fall facing some of the best players on the collegiate level. The five are comprised of four freshmen and a junior. All four that were eligible to compete in the fall came away with confidence-building wins in each tournament they competed in. Browne and Leivent stepped to the forefront early, making the round of 16 at the ITA Northwest Regional and tallying records of 5-4 and 5-3, respectively.

In doubles action, Browne quickly found a partner in Dean Wallace, posting an 8-2 mark. The tandem won their first six matches, making the Bulldog Classic final. The two also stacked up well against the region's elite, advancing to the round of 16 at the ITA Northwest Regional.

The team of Niland and Veress should be formidable in the spring, as well. The tandem competed in only five matches this fall, but in those matches they registered wins at the Audi Napa Valley Tennis Classic and the Icy Hot/ITA All American event.

Briaud has also proved that he has a knack for doubles. In 2003, with seven different partners, Briaud compiled 23 wins to only 13 losses. He may be counted on again to secure much needed victories in doubles competition.

Wright will rely on youth to fill in the holes left by the departure of a talented senior class. But despite the losses, the team is more confident than ever that they'll continue to compete at a top level, behind the consistent play of Niland and the rapid development of young stars.

MEN'S HEAD COACH

PETER WRIGHT

Head Coach 11th Year at Cal

Considered one of the best teachers and tacticians in men's collegiate tennis, Peter Wright has developed a reputation for getting more out of his players than perhaps any coach in the country.

Wright's coaching talent hasn't gone unnoticed. Pac-10 Coach of the Year in 2001 and in 1997, he received his first coaching award in 1994 when he was named Wilson/ITA Regional Coach of the Year for guiding the Bears back to postseason play after Cal had missed the Big Dance the previous two seasons. Wright and the Bears have been a fixture in the NCAA Tournament almost every year since.

The ninth coach in the 111-year history of Cal tennis, Wright has compiled a 140-92 (.603) career record during his tenure in Berkeley. Over the past two seasons he has put together a pair of the most successful teams in Cal's recent history. Wright's 2003 team ended the season ranked fourth nationally, and boasted two All-Americans three all-conference selections. Their 21-5 record last spring surpassed their 2002 mark of 19-7, which at the time was considered the school's all-time best squad since joining the Pac-10. In that season the Bears finished in second-place, which is California's best-ever showing in the competitive league. 2002 also marked the first time that Cal enjoyed a series sweep of UCLA since 1953 and the first time ever that the Bears beat Stanford, UCLA and USC in the same season.

Prior to taking over as Cal's head coach in May 1993, Wright spent five years as an assistant with the Golden Bears. As a head coach, Wright has excelled at recruiting, a key ingredient in returning Cal to the nation's tennis elite. In 1994 he recruited Michael Hill, an All-American and NCAA singles quarterfinalist. In 1998 and 2001, Wright's team made a run to the NCAA Round of 16. Also in 1998, he inked a pair of Top 10-ranked juniors in Robert Kowalczyk and John Paul Fruttero, who led the Bears deep into the NCAA Championships – all the way to the quarterfinals. Again, in 2004, Wright has another crop of talented freshmen ready to make their mark on the Cal history books.

A four-year letterman during his collegiate career at Cal, Wright worked his way to the No. 1 singles position in the Bears lineup before joining the men's professional tour in 1986. As a pro, Wright played in such Grand Slam events as Wimbledon, the French Open and the Australian Open. In addition to a doubles victory over Pete Sampras, Wright's career highlights include matches with Andre Agassi, Goran Ivanisevic, David Wheaton, Marc Rosset, Jonas Bjorkman and Tim Henman.

Many of Wright's career highlights as a player have come during international competition, where he represented Ireland in Davis Cup from 1988-95. His parents, Stanley and Elizabeth, were born and raised in Ireland, allowing Wright to compete as an Irish national. He has won several Irish national singles and doubles championships, and was instrumental in Ireland's upset victories over Greece, Spain and Belgium when Ireland captured the 1992 European Cup. Wright has also served as Ireland's Davis Cup captain since August 1995. However, his biggest thrill in the arena of international tennis may have come in 1996, when he spent the summer in Atlanta serving as head coach of the Irish Olympic tennis team.

Wright also serves as vice president of the YTA, whose mission is to inspire innercity kids to achieve their full potential through a quality program of tennis and academic support. YTA is part of the NJTL program founded by tennis legend Arthur Ashe. Wright is also on the board of directors of the Intercollegiate Tennis Association and is a member of the NCAA Division I Men's Tennis Committee.

A Bay Area native, Wright was born in San Francisco on Dec. 8, 1963, and earned a B.A. in social science from Cal after returning to school in 1991. His wife of 11 years, Fionnuala, is a former Irish national singles and doubles champion and a former member of the Irish national basketball team. The Wrights reside in Berkeley with their sons, Thomas and Michael, and daughter, Carly.

ROGELIO "JUN" HERNANDEZ

Assistant Coach
5th year at Cal

In his fifth season as an assistant coach and second with the men's team, Jun Hernandez brings his experience as a player and on-court hitting coach to the men's squad.

Under the tutelage of women's head coach Jan Brogan, Hernandez spent three seasons as an assistant coach with the Cal woman's team, earning the Northwest Region's ITA Women's Assistant Coach of the Year award in 2002. He has also spent the summers of 2000, 2001, and 2002 as a hitting coach for professional tennis player Martina Hingis.

As the top assistant at USD four years ago, Hernandez played an instrumental role in guiding then USD junior Zuzana Lesenarova to the 1999 NCAA singles title.

Prior to USD, he was the assistant tennis pro at the Rancho Bernardo Swim & Tennis Club, giving private lessons to players of all abilities.

A 1995 graduate of San Diego State, Hernandez played No. 2 singles and No. 1 doubles for the Aztecs in 1994. He won five men's open singles titles and two men's open doubles events during 1997 in Southern California.

After four years as an assistant with the women's team, Jun Hernandez brings his experience as a player and on-court hitting coach to the men's squad.

WAYNE FERRIERA

Volunteer Assistant Coach
5th year at Cal

Wayne Ferriera continues as an assistant coach with the Cal program while still playing on the professional tour. A 14-year ATP Tour veteran, he finished the 1995 and 1996 seasons ranked in the Top 10 in the world.

Ferriera has been one of the most successful players on the pro circuit in the 1990s, having won 20 career titles since turning pro in 1989. Ferriera's career prize money tops $8 million. His highest ever ranking in singles was No. 6 (1995) and in doubles No. 11 (2000).

One of his 2003 highlights came in August when Ferriera saved three match points to defeat Australian-star Lleyton Hewitt, (6-3, 4-6, 7-5), to claim the Mercedes Benz Cup title at the UCLA Tennis Center.

Two seasons ago, Ferriera turned in one of his most consistent performances, advancing to the fourth round in every 2002 Grand Slam event. He finished the year with a No. 38 ranking in singles and No. 52 in doubles.

Ferreira competed in a flurry of events in 2001, including the Australian Open and U.S. Open. In January, he advanced to the quarterfinal round at the Australian Open by defeating 26th-ranked Ivan Ljubicic of Croatia and No. 83 Albert Coska of Spain.

Wayne and his wife, Liesl, live in Berkeley with their son, Marcus.

MEN'S 2003 SEASON IN REVIEW

2003 All-American
Robert Kowalczyk

BEARS POST BEST SEASON IN 12 YEARS

The California men's tennis team advanced to its fourth consecutive NCAA postseason appearance and 37th overall in 2003. As the #4 seed in the tournament, Cal steamrolled through the first two rounds at regionals, defeating Sacramento State, 4-0, and Boise State, 4-1, to advance to the Sweet 16 for the 11th time in the program's history. The Bears defeated Ohio State, 4-1, in the Sweet 16, but ran into a red-hot Stanford squad in the quarterfinals and dropped a 4-0 decision to end their season.

In one of the most competitive conferences in the country, the Pac-10, Cal finished with a 4-2 slate and a third place finish. Against Stanford and UCLA, the conference's top two finishers, the Bears split the season series, but lost both of the conference matches against the two rivals.

Cal started the season on a promising note, upsetting #4 Stanford, 4-3, in only the team's second dual match of the year. The Bears used the momentum from that victory to their advantage as the team cruised out to a 6-0 start before dropping a heartbreaking 4-2 decision to #6 Florida in the quarterfinals of the National Team Indoor Championships. Cal responded, however, with a sweet 4-3 victory over #8 Duke in the consolation match the following day to take a fifth-place finish and spark another six-match win streak. During that six-match stretch, the Golden Bears completed their first sweep in the desert since 1998, defeating ASU, 4-3, and Arizona, 6-1.

Individually, Cal players recorded some impressive performances over the course of the year, highlighted by sophomore Conor Niland. The native of Limerick, Ireland finished the year ranked #36 with a team-leading 19 dual wins (7-2 on court No. 1, 11-4 on court No. 2 & 1-0 on court No. 3) while leading the squad in overall victories with a 27-12 record. His efforts did not go unnoticed as he was named to the first team All-Pac-10 squad as well as being selected to represent the Bears at the NCAA Singles Championships in Athens, Georgia.

Senior All-American Robert Kowalczyk completed perhaps his finest performance as a Golden Bear, placing tied for first on the squad in dual wins (19-3), while tallying a career-high in overall wins with a 26-10 mark. His 11-0 slate in Pac-10 dual play was tops on the team while his #57 national ranking was second highest on the squad. Kowalczyk was named second team All-Pac-10 while garnering his first selection to the NCAA Singles Championships as the first alternate and his second consecutive selection for the NCAA Doubles Championship. Teamed with partner Steve Berke, the duo achieved a #8 national ranking as well as being named 2003 All-Americans.

Senior All-American John Paul Fruttero made a return to the lineup in late March and made a run at the Pac-10 Championships, advancing to the semifinals with upset victories over #76 Pim van Mele of ASU and #27 Matt Hanlin of Washington. The team captain earned his fourth consecutive All-Pac-10 nod as he received honorable mention honors.

After beginning the season as the No. 1 starter, junior Balazs Veress spent time at courts one through five while tallying a 11-8 dual match mark. Overall, the product of Budapest, Hungary finished the year with an 19-14 overall singles record and 17-11 in doubles—including a 15-5 slate in dual match doubles play.

The team was also bolstered by the additions of senior transfer Steve Berke from Yale and freshman Or Dekel from Israel. Berke compiled an 11-7 overall singles slate while Dekel finished his first season at 16-9.

In doubles, Berke and Kowalczyk posted a 12-9 record and a #8 national ranking, while Dekel teamed with Kowalczyk in April to advance to the finals of the Pac-10 Doubles Invitational.

Returning players, junior Wayne Wong and sophomore Patrick Briaud, stepped in nicely when needed, recording 21-7 and 9-14 overall singles records, respectively. Wong claimed the singles title at the USD Tournament in the fall while Briaud teamed up with Fruttero down the stretch to advance to the quarterfinals at the Pac-10 Championships in April.

MEN'S TENNIS TRADITIONS

From its founding in 1892 to 2001's amazing run to the NCAA Round of 16, the men's tennis program at the University of California has enjoyed a long and proud tradition of excellence.

The Bears have been a force on the national collegiate tennis scene since 1925, when Cal won its first national team title. Cal swept the national championships that year, as Bud Chandler brought the Bears their first national singles title, while Gervais Hillis and Gerald Stratford completed the tennis triple crown with a national doubles championship. In 1926, Cal finished fifth in the nation as a team, with Chandler successfully defending his singles title, then teaming with Tom Stow (Cal's head coach from 1933-46) to capture the doubles championship.

Cal has been ranked among the nation's Top 10 teams 21 times, including seven seasons in which the Bears finished among the nation's top three. A total of 18 Golden Bear players have won national championships, bringing home a collective four singles and 13 doubles national titles. Since 1980 alone, the Bears have won two national team indoor titles (1980 and '89), two national singles titles ('80 and '85) and two NCAA doubles championships ('90 and '91).

That tradition of excellence extends to the Golden Bear coaching staff as well, as several former players found their own national success before guiding the champions of the future. In 1980, eventual head coach Scott McCain won the ITCA All-American Championship, a feat duplicated five years later by his pupil, Steve DeVries. A member of the Cal's '80 national indoor championship squad, McCain coached his own Cal team to the national indoor title in 1989, and guided Matt Lucena to NCAA doubles titles in 1990 (with partner Doug Eisenman) and '91 (with partner Bent-Ove Pedersen).

WIDE WORLD OF CAL

Cal Bears pervade the world of pro tennis. From coaches and officials to agents and media, Berkeley alums contribute significantly to the international tennis community. A few notable alums currently active in the game have made their impact in the world of tennis.

Marty Davis ('80) worked for the ATP for many years and is now head coach at UC Santa Barbara. Scott McCain ('80) is one of the USTA's preeminent coaches, traveling the pro tour and working with such rising stars as Paul Goldstein. As Goldstein puts it, "I got my undergraduate degree at Stanford, and my master's on the tour at Cal."

Larry Stefanki ('79), another Bear-turned-coach, has worked with three players who've been ranked number one in the world: John McEnroe, Marcelo Rios and, now, Yevgeny Kafelnikov. Mike Bauer ('81), a coach with the German Tennis Federation, works with the likes of former Top 10 player Anke Huber. John Hubbell ('77) and Steve DeVries ('87) are a USTA National coaches. Peter Herb ('61) is the longest-standing employee of the USTA, having served an epic, nearly four-decade term at the helm of its Northern California section. Jim McManus ('63) was one of the founders of the ATP and has been an ATP employee for more than 20 years. He's currently an executive vice president. Tom Barnes ('69) is a longstanding official, having served as a linesman, referee and, most recently, tour supervisor. Tom Ross ('79) is a senior vice president with Octagon, one of the sport's leading management firms. Over the years, he's represented many top male players, including Stefan Edberg, Michael Chang, Mark Philippoussis and Lleyton Hewitt. Bob Mansbach ('78) has been working for CBS Sports for two decades, most notably as coordinating producer of its U.S. Open coverage, as well as all other CBS tennis broadcasts. Harold Hecht ('86) probably produces more televised tennis than anyone in America, including USA Network's coverage of the French and U.S. Opens, as well as a slew of events for Fox (Miami, Indian Wells and more). Brad Douglas ('89) is one of the more prominent feature producers in television, working for USA Network at the U.S. Open, TNT during Wimbledon and others throughout the year.

What is it that makes Cal people such a part of the tennis world? Bill Wright, now the coach at the University of Arizona, coached Cal from 1974-86. These were among Cal's finest years, including regular finishes in the Top 10, highlighted by reaching the NCAA final in 1980.

According to Wright, Cal people have a continuous love of the game. "I think this goes back to the junior days of a lot of our players," Wright says. "Guys like Marty Davis, Chris Dunk, Scott McCain, Mike Bauer and, later, Peter Wright, weren't on the top of the world when they were 14. They played other sports, had balanced lives, and when they came to Berkeley, they had a lot of tennis ahead of them."

Wright also credits Cal's demanding academic standards. "No one makes it easy for you at Berkeley, no matter if you're an athlete or student or anything," Wright says. "Berkeley people are more free-spirited. You've got to grub for everything, and that builds a hunger and a tenacity."

MEN'S ENDOWMENTS

THE EDWARD G. CHANDLER SCHOLARSHIP

Established by the Chandler family in the fall of 1994, the Edward G. Chandler Scholarship, like the Chang Family Scholarship, fulfills the University's longtime goal of creating new men's tennis endowments.

Designed in honor of its namesake, three-time national tennis champion Edward "Bud" Chandler (singles 1925 and '26, doubles '26), the Chandler Scholarship is presented to the men's tennis player who excels both in the classroom and on the courts, "conducting himself in a gentlemanly and sportsmanlike manner." For the second straight year, this year's recipient of the scholarship is sophomore Conor Niland.

The Bears only NCAA singles champion, Chandler graduated from Cal in 1926 and immediately began competing on the men's tennis circuit. In a matter of months, he had reached No. 5 on the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's national charts, but despite being rated as one of the best players in the country, retired from the circuit that fall to enroll at Harvard Law School.

In 1929, Chandler returned to the Bay Area and resumed his tennis career by claiming the 1930 and '32 California Singles Championships. He paired with former Cal teammate Gerald Stratford to win the 1939 state doubles title and took home 10 national titles over the next 40 years, including the USTA National Indoor Doubles championships in 1970 and '80.

A 1986 inaugural inductee into Cal's Athletic Hall of Fame, he was inducted into the Northern California Tennis Hall of Fame in 1974 and the Intercollegiate Tennis Hall of Fame in 1985.

Contributions to the Edward G. Chandler Scholarship total $189,183 to date.

THE CHANG FAMILY SCHOLARSHIP

On November 10, 1996, the "Franklin Templeton Chang Challenge," a benefit exhibition between Michael Chang, the world's No. 2-ranked tennis player and John McEnroe, one of the sport's all-time greats, was held indoors at Cal's Harmon Gym with proceeds going to the Chang Family Scholarship. The event was a rematch of the inaugural 1994 event, which funded 25 percent of the men's tennis scholarship endowment in the Chang family's name.

Michael Chang

Thanks to the active involvement of Franklin Templeton, Chang's sponsors, Prince and Reebok, several thousand Bear Backers filling Harmon Gym and a live national TV broadcast on Prime Sports, the 1996 "Franklin Templeton Chang Challenge" was one of the biggest events ever to hit Cal's athletic program, generating an additional $140,000 in contributions to the endowment.

Intelligence has been the cornerstone of Chang's success. Yet even if the pursuit of knowledge has brought Chang to the summit of professional tennis, equally important to the Chang family is their commitment to education.

"The whole idea of the tennis was to use it as a means of getting into a good school," said Carl Chang (Cal '91), Michael's brother, coach and practice partner.

"In our family, education is the number one priority," said Michael. "Make no mistake, I have every intention of attending college when my pro career is over."

Accordingly, the scholarship is designed to reward both on-court prowess and academic achievement.

The genesis of the Chang Family Scholarship occurred several years ago, inspired by then-coach Scott McCain, current coach Peter Wright, Carl, who earned a varsity letter each of his four years at Cal, and Advantage International Vice President Tom Ross (Cal '79), Michael's agent.

"The Changs wanted to give something back to Berkeley," said Wright. "For an athlete of Michael's stature to donate his time to something like this is unprecedented."

Due to the success of the "Chang Challenge," their vision has now become a reality. Senior John Paul Fruttero became the third Cal player to benefit from the Chang Family Scholarship.

Contributions to the Chang Family Scholarship total $215,949 to date.

ENDOWMENTS & SCHOLARSHIPS

Other endowments and scholarships benefiting California tennis include:

- The Levy Scholarship.
