COACHING STAFF

Head Coach JOANNE BOYLE

Joanne Boyle, the 2007-08 Russell Athletic/WBCA Region 8 Coach of the Year, has guided the California women's basketball program to the distinction of being one of the top-10 teams in the country in her three seasons at the helm. This year's Cal team has earned the highest ranking in school history, grabbing the No. 2 pre-season spot in Athlon Sports magazine.

Boyle enters 2008-09 with a 68-28 record in three years in Berkeley, giving her the best winning percentage (.708) of any of the eight women's basketball coaches in school history and a six-year career record of 135-57 (.703). A member of the State Farm/Wade Trophy selection committee, Boyle became the third individual in school history to be honored as Pac-10 Coach of the Year in 2006-07. She has registered more wins in her first three seasons at Cal than the Bears tallied in the six seasons (63) prior to her arrival.

Under Boyle's direction, Cal has registered three consecutive NCAA Tournament berths (2006-08) for the first time and consecutive seasons with at least 20 wins for only the second time in school history (the other years were 1980-81 and 1981-82). In 2008, Cal also advanced to the final of the Pac-10 Tournament for the first time.

Boyle's 2007-08 Cal team carved its place in the national spotlight and in the school record books. The Bears set Cal records for wins in a season (27-7), winning percentage (.794), Pac-10 victories (15-3) and Pac-10 finish (2nd), and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 1993. No. 3-seeded Cal defeated No. 14-seeded San Diego, 77-60, in the first round of 2008 NAAs before losing to No. 6-seeded George Washington, 55-53, in the second round on a buzzer beater.

Last season, Cal was ranked in the top 10 for 13 straight weeks in the Associated Press poll and 12 consecutive weeks in the USA Today-ESPN coaches' poll, including rising to an all-time program-best ranking of No. 8 in both polls. The Bears were tabbed No. 13 (AP) and No. 14 (coaches) in the preseason polls.

Since Boyle's arrival on the West Coast, Cal has emerged as one of the Pac-10's statistical leaders. In 2007-08, Cal ranked among the top-five teams in 13 categories for the second straight season and was No. 1 in four areas. For the third consecutive year, Cal established school records for field goal percentage defense (35.1%, 1st Pac-10) and scoring defense (54.3 ppg, all-time Pac-10 record). Cal's 155 three-pointers made in 2007-08 broke the previous school record of 135, established in 1995-96.

After registering the program's first winning record and post-season berth in 13 seasons in 2005-06, the following year's team surpassed that standard. The Philadelphia native led the Golden Bears to a 23-9 overall record, marking Cal's first 20-win season in 15 years and falling only one win from matching the 1983-84 team (24-8) for the previous most wins in school history. Eighth-seeded Cal fell to ninth-seeded Notre Dame, 62-59, in the opening round of the 2007 NCAA Tournament.

Under Boyle's tutelage, Cal players have received 12 conference postseason honors, highlighted by center Devanei Hampton being chosen the 2006-07 Pac-10 Player of the Year and guard Alexis Gray-Lawson securing the 2005-06 Freshman of the Year award. Hampton became the 10th freshman in conference history to be named first-team All-Pac-10 and earned the honor a second time as a sophomore. Forward Ashley Walker joined Hampton on the 2006-07 All-Pac-10 squad.

After her first season at Cal, Boyle was named an assistant coach for the USA team that competed in the 2006 FIBA Americas U20 Championship for Women and was elected a member of the WBCA Board of Directors. With Boyle on staff and Hampton on the 12-player roster, the USA defeated Brazil, 96-54, to claim the FIBA Americas title with a 5-0 record.

Boyle was hired at Cal April 15, 2005, after serving three seasons as head coach at Richmond, where she directed the Spiders to three consecutive 20-plus win seasons, including a 23-8 record and the program's first NCAA berth in 14 years in 2004-05. The Spiders finished with a 12-4 record in the Atlantic 10 in Boyle's final year, their best mark in the four years since they joined the conference. In January 2005, the program received its first-ever national ranking – No. 25 in the ESPN-USA Today-WBCA Coaches' Poll.

In 2005, Richmond earned the program's first at-large bid and third overall invitation to the NCAA Tournament. The 11th-seeded Spiders lost to sixth-seeded Florida State, 87-54, in the first round. Also in 2004-05, Boyle coached Richmond to victories over Virginia, Liberty and Dartmouth – all NCAA Tournament qualifiers – and fielded a team that led the Atlantic 10 in three-point field goal percentage (35.1%) and ranked in the top five in the conference in 13 statistical categories. For Boyle's efforts, the Richmond Times-Dispatch named her the Virginia State Coach of the Year.

Boyle recorded a 67-29 mark (.698) in three seasons at Richmond. In addition to the 2005 NCAA Tournament, she led the Spiders to the WNIT quarterfinals in 2003 (21-11) and to the WNIT semifinals in 2004 (23-10). Her 2003-04 team paced the conference in six statistical categories, including scoring offense, scoring margin, field goal percentage and assist/TO ratio. At 17.9 assists per game, Richmond ranked 10th in the nation.

Under Boyle's guidance, six Richmond players were selected All-Atlantic 10, with Kate Flavin receiving first-team honors in 2004 and 2005.

Boyle was hired by the Spiders in April of 2002, inheriting a team that posted a 14-16 overall record the previous year and hadn't enjoyed a postseason appearance since 1990-91. As she did at Richmond, Boyle brought a winner to Berkeley in her inaugural year at the helm, snapping a streak of 12 straight losing seasons.

Boyle also has a proven track record as a recruiter, inking Blue Star Index's 12th-ranked recruiting class in the country for Richmond in 2004-05. She signed Crystal Goring, who was rated the No. 6 best player nationally by Blue Star and earned McDonald's and WBCA All-America honors.

Before accepting her first collegiate head coaching job at Richmond, Boyle was an integral part of Duke's rise to national prominence as an assistant coach for nine seasons. The season before Boyle's arrival in 1993-94, Duke compiled a 12-15 record and finished last in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Two seasons into her stint in Durham, N.C., the team notched 20-plus wins (22-9) for the first time in 10 years and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

With Boyle on staff, Duke garnered eight straight NCAA Tournament berths, highlighted by appearances in the 1999 national championship game and the 2002 semifinals. The Blue Devils reached the 20-win plateau seven times, twice amassed at least 30 victories, were ranked in the top 10 nationally four straight years, grabbed four regular-season ACC championships and advanced to the 1998 NCAA Elite Eight and to the 2000 and 2001 NCAA Sweet 16.

Kodak All-Americans Michele VanGorp (1999), Georgia Schweitzer (2001), Alana Beard (2002 and 2003) and Iciss Tillis (2003) were among the players who benefited from Boyle's presence at Duke. Beard was selected the 2003 Kodak Player of the Year.

Fueling Duke's rise on the national scene were four straight top five recruiting classes from 1999-02.

Duke's success in 2001-02 was particularly rewarding for Boyle, who faced a unique personal challenge off the court. In late November, Boyle suffered an arteriovenous malformation (AVM) in her brain, which resulted in brain surgery and a lengthy hospital stay. The genetic condition is a capillary deficiency that causes an eruption of blood vessels which produces stroke-like symptoms and bleeding within the cerebellum. An AVM differs from a clot in that an AVM cannot reappear.

Surrounded by her team, friends and family, Boyle fought valiantly to overcome her illness. Her recovery process was more rapid than her doctors had predicted. Her steely resolve, coupled with intense physical and speech therapy, enabled Boyle to return to her role on the Blue Devils' bench within a month. Not long after that, she was on her way to San Antonio, Texas, with the team for Duke's second Final Four appearance in four years.

Prior to coaching at Duke, Boyle played professional basketball overseas for division one teams in Luxembourg and Germany before returning to the United States after three years. During her European stay, she also won two league championships.

Boyle, a four-year letterwinner at Duke, graduated in 1985 with a degree in economics and obtained a master's of science degree in health policy and administration from North Carolina in 1989. She ended her playing career ranked second on the Duke scoring charts and second in assists. Her 75 steals during the 1984-85 campaign remained the highest single-season total until Beard broke the mark in 2000-01.

Assistant Coach CHARMIN SMITH

Second Year at Cal
 Birthday: May 2
 Hometown: St. Louis, MO
 High School: Ladue High School
 Alma Mater (year): Stanford (1997)

Charmin Smith, a former Stanford assistant coach and standout player, became an assistant coach for the California women's basketball team during May of 2007. Smith, now in her second season with the Golden Bears, serves as the team's recruiting coordinator, oversees the growth of the Bears' guards and assists with all aspects of the program.

In Smith's inaugural season in Berkeley in 2007-08, Cal set a school record for wins in a season, finishing the year with a 27-7 mark. The Bears also recorded their best-ever Pac-10 record (15-3) and showing (2nd), and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament. Smith helped junior guard Alexis Gray-Lawson earn second-team All-Pac-10, and sophomore guard Natasha Vital garner honorable mention all-conference and Pac-10 All-Defensive accolades.

Smith came to Cal after serving as an assistant coach for three seasons with the Cardinal and spending six years playing professionally. During Smith's tenure as an assistant at Stanford, the Cardinal posted an 87-16 (.845) record and made a pair of NCAA Elite Eight appearances. In addition to her duties with recruiting, scouting and player development, Smith was heavily involved in various community service activities, including a program to assist the victims of Hurricane Katrina.

As a coach at Stanford, Smith played an integral role in the development of three of the Pac-10's top posts – Brooke Smith, Jayne Appel and Kristen Newlin – and in the spring of 2007, she switched her focus to working with the Cardinal guards, including three-time Pac-10 Player of the Year Candice Wiggins.

Smith was a star player for Stanford from 1993-97, helping the Cardinal to three NCAA Final Fours, as well as three Pac-10 titles. Following her playing career, she joined the professional ranks in the ABL from 1997-98 as a member of the Portland Power. She also played three years in the WNBA with the Seattle Storm and the Minnesota Lynx, and one year in the Swedish Basketball League. In May of 2008, Smith attended a 10-year reunion of the first Lynx team.

Smith began her coaching career in 2003 as an assistant coach at Boston College, helping the Eagles to one of their most successful seasons in school history. During her lone season, Boston College won its first Big East title and received a No. 3 seed in the NCAA Tournament, advancing to the Mideast Regional semifinals.

In addition to her on-court experiences, Smith worked for two seasons as a production assistant and editor with NBA Entertainment, where she aided in the production of several national NBA broadcasts.

A four-year letterwinner at Stanford, Smith earned her bachelor's and master's degrees in civil and environmental engineering from the school. The St. Louis, Mo., native was a two-time recipient of the Coaches' Award (1994, 1997) and was named the team's Most Improved Player in 1995.

Assistant Coach JENNIFER HOOVER

First Year at Cal
Birthday: October 12
Hometown: Roanoke, VA
High School: William Byrd High School
Alma Mater (year): Wake Forest (1991)

Jennifer Hoover, a 14-year NCAA Division I coaching veteran whose stops have included Virginia and Memphis, was named an assistant coach of the California women's basketball team in June of 2008.

Hoover, who was chosen one of the top-50 all-time greatest women's basketball players in Atlantic Coast Conference history in 2002, works with all aspects of the Cal program, including on-court coaching, recruiting and scouting. With extensive post experience as a player and coach, Hoover will oversee the development of the Bears' post players.

Hoover came to Berkeley after spending the 2007-08 season as the associate head coach at Memphis. Her husband, John, served as the director of operations for the Memphis women's basketball team last season.

After her first stint as an assistant coach at Memphis in 2002-03, Hoover was hired at the University of Virginia as the director of basketball operations and was promoted to assistant coach after less than a year. Hoover became the Cavaliers' recruiting coordinator and helped them finish the 2006-07 season with a 19-15 overall record, falling to eventual WNIT finalist Wisconsin in the quarterfinals, 84-78. While at Virginia, Hoover learned from legendary head coach Debbie Ryan, who is a member of the Women's Basketball Hall of Fame.

Hoover helped Virginia record two 20-win seasons. The ACC team bounced back from a 13-16 record in her first year in Charlottesville, Va., with an NCAA appearance in 2004-05 and back-to-back WNIT berths the next two seasons. She also helped Virginia ink junior college All-American center Aisha Mohammed and the 2006-07 ACC Rookie of the Year, Monica Wright. Wright also was a McDonald's All-American.

Hoover, who also handled on-court coaching, scouting, player development and summer camps at Virginia, started her coaching career at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, working there from 1994-96 prior to becoming an assistant at Virginia Commonwealth for two seasons (1996-98). She then spent two seasons at East Carolina (1998-00) before moving to James Madison (2000-02), where she helped the Dukes to the WNIT Final Four.

Hoover then made her first stop in 2002-03 at Memphis, where she recruited and coached the Lady Tigers' post players. She also oversaw academics and the mentor program until she left in August of 2003 to join Ryan's staff at Virginia.

In her playing days, Hoover was a three-time All-ACC honoree at Wake Forest. The forward/center still holds the Wake Forest career records for points (1,728) and rebounds (1,006), and is the only women's basketball player at Wake Forest to surpass both the 1,000-career point and rebounding marks. Also a member of the ACC Academic Honor Roll, Hoover was named a Fast Break All-American during her junior and senior seasons, and was a member of the South team that won the bronze medal at the 1989 Olympic Festival in Oklahoma City, Okla. She helped Wake Forest to the second round of the 1988 NCAA Tournament, playing under her maiden name, Jenny Mitchell.

Following her collegiate playing career (1987-91), Hoover played professionally overseas for the Solna IF Basketball Team in Stockholm, Sweden, from 1991-92. She played the 1993 season with Athletes in Action on the USA Fall Exhibition Tour and the Australian spring tour before starting her coaching career.

A native of Roanoke, Va., Hoover graduated from Wake Forest in 1991 with a degree in communications. In 2007, she was selected to the Wake Forest Athletic Hall of Fame.

Hoover met her husband, John, on the recruiting trails in March of 2000, while he was an assistant coach at New Mexico Junior College. They reside in Lafayette, Calif., with their daughter, Maggie, and a Mastiff named Butkiss.

Assistant Coach KEVIN MORRISON

Second Year at Cal
Birthday: August 6
Hometown: La Verne, CA
High School: Damien High School
Alma Mater (year): Cal Poly Pomona (1994)

Kevin Morrison, who spent seven years as a successful California Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) coach, joined the California women's basketball program as an assistant coach in June of 2007.

Morrison contributes to all facets of Cal's program, including recruiting and scouting, and serves as the team's academic liaison. Morrison switched from coaching the post players last year to developing the wings and guards.

During his first season at Cal in 2007-08, the Bears set school records for wins in a season (27-7), Pac-10 victories (15-3) and Pac-10 finish (2nd), and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament. Morrison helped posts Devanei Hampton and Ashley Walker earn first-team All-Pac-10 and garner an assortment of All-America recognition.

Prior to his current role, Morrison served as the president and head coach of the West Coast Elite AAU girls' basketball team. In addition to serving as the program's recruiting coordinator, he provided individual coaching and instruction to the team's members.

For three years prior to joining the Cal staff, he had also been the director and editor of Grass Roots Journal, the top Western Regional scouting service. The service had over 93 Division I schools as subscribers, featured fall and spring showcases, and the Grass Roots Sports Basketball Academy.

During his three years with West Coast Elite, he coached 44 players who went on to play college basketball, including six McDonald's All-Americans and three Gatorade State Players of the Year. The McDonald's All-Americans include Stefanie Gilbreath (Cinco Ranch HS, TX - USC), Brianna Gilbreath (Cinco Ranch HS, TX - USC), Michelle Harrison (Mountain View HS, UT - Stanford), Italee Lucas (Centennial HS, NV - North Carolina), Ashley Gayle (Bishop Gorman HS, NV - Texas) and Abi Olajuwon (Marlborough School, CA - Oklahoma). Harrison, Lucas and Gayle were named Gatorade State Players of the Year in 2006, 2007 and 2008, respectively.

Morrison served as a consultant for Blue Star Basketball, working as a camp director and tournament director for various events. He also was a varsity girls' basketball assistant coach for Upland High School (2002-03) and Charter Oak High School (2000-02).

A 1994 graduate of Cal Poly Pomona with a degree in social work, Morrison spent over nine years as a social worker and high school guidance counselor.

Director of Operations SARAH HOLSINGER

Sarah Holsinger enters her fourth year as the director of basketball operations for the California women's basketball team after serving two seasons in the same capacity at James Madison.

Holsinger is responsible for all aspects of basketball administration. Her duties include coordinating team travel, game-day management, assisting with special events and on-campus recruiting visits, overseeing community service projects, acting as a liaison with opponents, and providing budgetary and administrative support to the coaching staff. She also supervises managers and practice players

Assistant Director of Operations ANGELA NILES

Angela Niles is in her second season as California's assistant director of basketball operations. Niles came to Berkeley after a three-year stint as the administrative director of the Ford Institute for Integrative Coaching at John F. Kennedy University. Her duties at Cal include overseeing the recruiting database, alumni and donor relations, supervising student assistants and directing the ball kids.

With the Ford Institute in Pleasant Hill, Calif., Niles oversaw admissions, registration and graduation for the distant learning programs. Additionally, she managed all accounting and budget functions related to the organization.

Video Coordinator JAMES ROGOL

James Rogol begins his first season as the video coordinator for the California women's basketball team after spending the past six years with the University of Virginia's Athletic Video Services as a student production assistant and as a producer/editor.

Rogol's duties at Cal include overseeing film exchange, breaking down film for the coaches and utilizing his editing skills to produce highlight videos and awards nominations.

At Virginia, Rogol coordinated the staffing of the university's multiple in-arena video board productions for basketball, baseball, soccer and lacrosse. On game days, he frequently worked on the production crew as the engineer in charge, camera operator or and is the director of Cal's basketball camps and the Collier's International Classic.

Originally from Luray, Va., Holsinger played basketball and lacrosse at Bridgewater College in Virginia and was a member of the Eagles' 1999 Old Dominion Athletic Conference championship basketball team. Following graduation, she was hired as head junior varsity girls' basketball coach at Eastern Mennonite High School in Virginia for the 2002-03 season.

Holsinger earned her bachelor's of science degree in allied health science and nutrition and wellness from Bridgewater College in May 2002. She obtained her master's degree in kinesiology with a concentration in sports administration and coaching from James Madison in May 2004.

Prior to working for the Ford Institute, Niles was a project manager for Title Nine Sports, a women's apparel company in Emeryville, Calif.

Niles played basketball and softball at Bishop O'Dowd High School in Oakland, Calif., and basketball at Cal State Hayward. She also competed in basketball and threw the javelin, discus and shot put at Mt. San Antonio Junior College in Southern California.

The Oakland native earned her bachelor's of science degree in criminal justice from Cal State Hayward in 1993 and her master's degree in integrative health education from John F. Kennedy University in 2005.

An avid African and Afro-Cuban drummer, Niles has performed at events and festivals around the Bay Area.

video replay operator. Additionally, he produced live Webcasts of the school's sporting events for ACC Select.

Rogol's duties as producer/editor further developed his Web video expertise. He shot and edited game stories, season-highlight videos and other packages for VirginiaSportsTv.com. One of Rogol's marquee assignments was creating a half-hour, narrated DVD commemorating the 2006 Virginia men's lacrosse national championship season. A frequent contributor to the nationally televised "Cavalier Sports Weekly," he was credited as the associate producer during the 2007-08 season.

While an undergraduate at Virginia, Rogol worked for four years as a video assistant for the school's football program. The Framingham, Mass., native also assisted the men's and women's lacrosse teams with their video analysis, capturing a national title with the men's program in 2006.

Ann Caslin, MA, ATC, joined the Cal sports medicine staff in the fall of 2005 as an assistant athletic trainer. She currently works with the women's basketball and women's tennis teams.

Prior to her arrival at Cal, Caslin served as a graduate assistant athletic trainer at Stanford from 1997-99 and as an assistant athletic trainer at Vanderbilt in Nashville, Tenn., from 1999-05.

Caslin earned her bachelor's of science degrees in both kinesiology and physical education with an athletic training option in 1996, and a single subject teaching credential in physical education in 1997 from Cal State Hayward. In addition, Caslin earned her master's of arts degree in human performance/athletic training from San Jose State in 1999.

Caslin, a Bay Area native, currently resides in Albany.
