

Women's Basketball Discussion Group and the WBCA Defensive Player of the Year Selection Committee.

Prior to moving to Berkeley, Barbour was the deputy director of athletics at Notre Dame, serving as the university's senior athletic administrator from July 2003 to September 2005. She previously held an associate athletic director position there starting in 2000.

Barbour's career in intercollegiate athletic administration spans 26 years, beginning as a field hockey assistant coach and lacrosse administrative assistant at the University of Massachusetts in 1981. She has since served as assistant athletic director at Northwestern and in 1991 was recruited to Tulane as an associate athletic director.

In 1996, Barbour was appointed Tulane's director of athletics at age 36, and during her three years overseeing the program, Green Wave teams won 12 conference championships. In her first year in the position, the school captured four conference titles, a feat never before accomplished in Tulane history. She also hired Tommy Bowden as head football coach during her first year. Bowden proceeded in 1997 to post the Green Wave's first winning season (7-4) in 16 years, and then directed the school to a 12-0 record, a Conference USA championship and a No. 7 national ranking the following season as the 1998 Liberty Bowl champions.

In her position at Notre Dame, Barbour oversaw facilities and event operations for the school's 26-sport program, including football game management and the department's two golf courses. She was also responsible for developing, maintaining and implementing Notre Dame's $127 million athletics facilities master plan.

Additionally, her role at Notre Dame included responsibilities for women's lacrosse, men's and women's cross country, indoor and outdoor track, men's and women's swimming and men's golf. She also assisted with the administration of women's basketball.

Born Dec. 2, 1959, in Annapolis, Md., Barbour grew up in a military family. Her father was a career aviator in the U.S. Navy, and her family lived in various U.S. locations, as well as in Western Europe during her childhood.

Barbour graduated cum laude in 1981 with a bachelor's of science degree in physical education from Wake Forest, where she was a four-year letterwinner and served as captain of the field hockey team. She also played two varsity seasons of women's basketball.

Barbour earned advanced degrees at both Massachusetts (an M.S. in sports management in 1983) and Northwestern's Kellogg School of Management (an MBA in 1991).

Between master's programs, Barbour served as assistant field hockey and lacrosse coach at Northwestern from 1982-84. She also held the position of director of recruiting services during that period, before being promoted to assistant athletic director for intercollegiate programs in 1984, a position she held until 1989.

Prior to joining Tulane, Barbour worked in programming and production for Fox Sports Net in Chicago during the summer of 1990.

Teresa Kuehn Gould, who joined the Golden Bear staff in the fall of 2001, serves as Cal's deputy director of athletics, as well as the department's senior woman administrator (SWA).

In her capacity at Cal, Kuehn Gould oversees the budgetary and operational needs of various intercollegiate varsity teams, including both men's and women's basketball, providing guidance and support to each program's head coach. In addition, Kuehn Gould oversees several administrative units and the university's multi-media agreement with International Sports Properties (ISP).

Before moving to Berkeley in September of 2001, Kuehn Gould served as associate commissioner of the West Coast Conference in San Bruno, Calif.

In seven years with the WCC, she managed the league's television, marketing and corporate sponsorship efforts, as well as administered conference championships and served as staff liaison to various coaches groups. She was a member of the NCAA Division I Management Council for two years during her tenure at the WCC.

From 1992-94, Kuehn Gould worked for ESPN Regional Television in Charlotte, N.C., as conference relations coordinator. In this role, Kuehn Gould served as the liaison to several NCAA Division I conferences. In addition, she was director of championships and media relations for the Midwestern Collegiate Conference in Indianapolis from 1990-92, public relations/promotions assistant for the Iowa Games Sports Festival (1989-90) and assistant to the coordinator of football recruiting at Iowa State University (1987-90).

Kuehn Gould received her bachelor's degree in journalism and mass communications from Iowa State University in 1990 and is currently working on her master's degree in education at the University of California. She is married to Cal's running backs coach, Ron Gould.

Deputy Director of Athletics/SWA TERESA KUEHN GOULD

Steve Holton, who brings a vast background in intercollegiate athletics to the Golden Bears, joined the Cal staff as deputy director of athletics in May of 2005. His duties include oversight of business operations, facilities, game management, capital projects and sport management.

Prior to moving to Berkeley, he served as director of athletics at Northern Arizona for 10 years. During his tenure there, NAU claimed three combined Big Sky Conference All Sports Trophy competitions and captured more than 40 conference championships. In addition, the school also set records in graduation rates, student-athlete grade-point average and fund raising.

Holton began his athletics career as an administrative assistant at Michigan from 1981-82 before becoming director of marketing and promotions at Houston for two years. While at

Deputy Director of Athletics
STEVE HOLTON

UH, he was responsible for the marketing of all athletics programs, highlighted by the famous "Phi Slama Jama" slogan used to promote the three-time Final Four teams featuring Clyde Drexler and Hakeem Olajuwon. He later served as associate athletic director at Long Beach State from 1984-93.

Holton holds a bachelor's degree in political science from Western Michigan and a master's in sports administration from Ohio University. He and his wife, Judi, reside in the Berkeley area.

Senior Associate Athletic Director
FOTI MELLIS

Foti Mellis, who has more than a decade of experience in the compliance field and has worked at Cal since 2002, serves as the athletic department's senior associate athletic director for intercollegiate services.

In his role, Mellis oversees Cal's compliance services, student services and information systems units. In addition, he is the department's liaison to the campus for admissions, financial aid and student judicial affairs, and he supervises a number of Cal's intercollegiate programs.

During his tenure at Cal, Mellis has reorganized and enhanced Cal's compliance operations, and implemented a student-athlete database networked to all staff and the campus. He also coordinates a rules education program for department staff and boosters.

Mellis arrived at Cal after spending four years as assistant AD for compliance at Arizona State, where he oversaw all areas of compliance with the program's 22 athletic teams. Prior to his stay in Tempe, he spent two years at the University of Tulsa as director of compliance from 1996-98. Mellis began his compliance career at Northwestern in 1994, spending one year as an intern and a second year as a compliance assistant.

A graduate of UC Davis, Mellis held various positions with the Aggies from 1989-94, including assistant men's basketball coach, academic advisor and assistant to the athletic department administration. He received his bachelor's degree in managerial economics in 1990 and his master's in education in 1996, both from UC Davis.

Dawn Whalin, who joined the Golden Bear staff in 1991, serves as Cal's associate athletic director for human resources and financial services. She oversees a staff that manages purchasing, payables, travel, human resources, payroll, business contracts, budgets, financial reporting and risk management, as well as the administration of youth camps, for the department.

During her time at Cal, Whalin has filled several roles in the business office, working her way up from an administrative assistant to the business manager. She has also worked with the information systems unit as a computer programmer, including the Bear Hunt of the 1990s, and she continues to consult on programming projects, most recently automating financial aid processing and developing the department's intranet. In addition, Whalin acts as a liaison between the department and ISP Sports.

Associate Athletic Director
DAWN WHALIN

Whalin graduated Phi Beta Kappa, earning her bachelor's degree in economics, with minors in business and mathematics, from the University of Oregon in 1991. She has long ties to Berkeley, having been born and raised in the city. Whalin is a Berkeley High School graduate, her parents are both Cal graduates, and she currently resides in Berkeley.

Chancellor ROBERT J. BIRGENEAU

Robert J. Birgeneau became the ninth chancellor of the University of California, Berkeley, on Sept. 22, 2004. An internationally distinguished physicist, he is a leader in higher education and is well known for his commitment to diversity and equity in the academic community.

Before coming to Berkeley, Birgeneau served four years as president of the University of Toronto. He previously was dean of the School of Science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he spent 25 years on the faculty. He is a fellow of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences, the Royal Society of London, the American Philosophical Society and other scholarly societies. He has received many awards for teaching and research and is one of the most cited physicists in the world for his work on the fundamental properties of materials.

In 2006, Birgeneau received a special Founders Award from the American Academy of Arts and Sciences along with President John Hennessy of Stanford University and filmmaker George Lucas. Established in the 225th anniversary year of the Academy, this award honors men, women and institutions that have advanced the ideals and embody the spirit of the Academy founders — a commitment to intellectual inquiry, leadership and active engagement. In 2008, Birgeneau and President Nancy Kantor of Syracuse University received the 2008 Carnegie Corporation Academic Leadership Award as “Champions of Excellence and Equity in Education”.

A Toronto native, Birgeneau received his bachelor's of science in mathematics from the University of Toronto in 1963 and his Ph.D. in physics from Yale University in 1966.

He served on the faculty of Yale for one year, spent one year at Oxford University, and was a member of the technical staff at Bell Laboratories from 1968 to 1975. He joined the physics faculty at MIT in 1975 and was named Chair of the Physics Department in 1988 and Dean of Science in 1991. He became the 14th president of the University of Toronto on July 1, 2000.

At Berkeley, Birgeneau holds a faculty appointment in the Department of Physics in addition to serving as Chancellor.

He and his wife, Mary Catherine, have four grown children and eight grandchildren.

HAAS PAVILION

IN MEMORY OF
WALTER A. HAAS, JR.

1916-1995
SON OF CALIFORNIA

On the same site where beloved Harmon Gym stood for more than 60 years, the Walter A. Haas Jr. Pavilion has risen as a state-of-the-art sports facility that retains the old building's famous spirit.

The $57.5 million basketball arena opened in the fall of 1999 and has 11,877 seats - almost twice the capacity of its predecessor. And although the structure is 37 feet taller and 28 feet wider than Harmon, it continues to keep fans close to the action.

"The transformation of Harmon Gym into the Haas Pavilion is a magnificent addition to our campus," said former Chancellor Robert Berdahl. "The moment you walk in you feel the vibrancy of the place, but you instantly feel a very real connection to the past that is just wonderful."

Haas Pavilion is very much an assertion of Cal's commitment to athletics - from the administration and faculty, down through the alumni who made the entire project possible.

When the construction of Haas was first proposed, alumni and fans wanted to ensure that the intimidating homecourt advantage Harmon provided could be maintained in a building twice its size. Haas was created specifically with this in mind.

Consequently, sound-baffling devices were omitted intentionally, and designers built the arena with the last row of seats just 88 feet from the floor.

Nearly 2,000 club seats with chair backs were installed in the arena. Fans also enjoy wider corridors and a quadrupling of the number of restrooms and concession areas. The arena features two high-resolution video boards, more than 50 television monitors throughout the building and a team store. The elegant Haas Club Room, which overlooks Evans Baseball Diamond, provides a spacious banquet area.

Cal student-athletes are also able to take advantage of large locker rooms, a newly renovated weight room (2008) and an athletic training facility. In addition, the facility houses offices for the administration and coaches.

The idea of a new building to replace the aging Harmon Gym, which was built in 1933, first surfaced in the mid-1970s under then-Athletic Director Dave Maggard. During the next 20 years, a number of studies were done to determine the feasibility of a multitude of options.

Most people pushed for a renovation of Harmon, considering all the tradition already rooted there. Former Athletic Director John Kasser, who served from 1994-00, strongly agreed that this was the proper course of action, and he set about drumming up support from the administration, faculty and alumni.

When Walter A. Haas, Jr., and his wife, Evelyn, generously donated the lead gift of $11 million, the project suddenly became a reality. Cal alumni supported the renovation in an unprecedented manner. Of the $57.5 million final price tag, $41 million came from private gifts, with $16.5 million coming from a combination of revenues from the athletic department, a campus seismic safety fund and miscellaneous income funds.

Construction on Haas Pavilion began just after the final game at Harmon in March 1997 and finished in time for the start of the 1999-00 basketball season.

The men's and women's basketball teams assumed residency in two of the country's best locker rooms in December 2003. The women's locker room features a locker area with wooden doors, a player lounge with three plasma screen televisions and lounge chairs, a computer/study area and a team meeting room with a movie-theater style projection screen.

ANOTHER RECORD-BREAKING HOME SEASON

Cal finished the 2007-08 season with a program-best home record of 13-1. That mark surpassed the old record of 12-3, established in 2005-06 and 2006-07. After posting a 5-0 record at home against non-conference opponents last year, the Bears take a 29-game home non-conference winning streak into the 2008-09 season.

Cal averaged a women's basketball school record of 2,363 fans per home game last season, far surpassing the old Haas Pavilion and Harmon Gym record of 1,656 set during 2005-06 and 2006-07. A Pac-10 record 10,525 fans attended the Stanford game Feb. 23, 2008, breaking the previous Haas Pavilion record of 5,027, which was reached Jan. 6, 2007, in the Cal-Stanford game. Harmon Gym – Cal's home before Haas Pavilion opened in 1999 – owned a women's basketball attendance record of 4,908, established in the Cal-Stanford game Feb. 28, 1997.

Additionally, Cal's 99-44 victory over Washington State on Dec. 30, 2007, set a new Haas Pavilion Bears' women's scoring standard.

CAL MARKETING

Across the country, women's basketball is catching fire, and in the Bay Area, everyone is talking about Cal women's basketball.

Through a multi-faceted and creative promotions and marketing plan, Cal Athletics is 100 percent committed to turning the buzz into cheers and engaging even more dedicated Golden Bear fans.

Within the athletic department, the marketing team creates and implements this plan. Part of the unit drives ticket sales through advertising, electronic communication, Web site promotions, marketing materials, group partnerships and community involvement.

Before, during and after games, another part of the marketing team excites the fans through non-stop entertainment, video board features, promotions, giveaways and contests, which together guarantee a phenomenal game-day experience.

Together, the marketing department operates as a team with one goal – to create an event like no other. By focusing on our fans and creating a memorable experience, this team compliments the on-court team and the one-of-a-kind game that is Cal women's basketball.

CAL KIDS DAYS

Thanks to its tremendous success the last two years, Cal Kids Days are back and bigger and better than before. Every Pac-10 weekend game is designed for kids. The highlights include music, poster-making, face-painting, pom-poms, meet the team, kid contests, photos, food and fun. Plus, all youth get in for only $1!

Mark your calendars for the Cal Kids' Days:

- Washington (Jan. 11)
- Stanford (Battle of the Bay) (Jan. 18)
- USC (Jan. 31)
- Oregon State (Feb. 21)
- Arizona (March 7)

Also, be on the lookout for promotional giveaways, ticket offers, the Think Pink night, the National Girls and Women in Sports Day and the NCAA "Pack the House" challenge.

For information on promotions, event dates, and season and game tickets, go to CalBears.com or call (800) GO-BEARS.

Sign up at CalBears.com for the Cal women's basketball eNewsletters to receive pertinent information throughout the season.

GO BEARS!

2008 - Men's Water Polo
National Champions

2008 - Men's Crew
National Champions

WINNING IS A CAL TRADITION

2008 - Rugby
National Champions

2006 - Women's Crew
National Champions

Patrick O'Neill, Swimming
2007 NCAA Champion
200 Butterfly

Daymeion Hughes, Football
2006 Pac-10 Conference
Defensive Player of the Year

Natalie Coughlin, Swimming
11-Time Olympic Medalist

Susie Babos &
Zsuzsanna Fodor, Tennis
2007 Pac-10 Conference
Doubles Team of the Year

Andrew Jacobson, Soccer
2007 Pac-10
Co-Player of the Year

2007-08 Cal Athletic Program Highlights

- 2 National Team Champions
- 1 IRA Crew Champion
- 3 NCAA Individual Champions
- 9 National Top-10 Team Rankings
- 26 Postseason Team Participants
- 1 National Coach of the Year
- 5 Conference/Region Coach of the Year
- 1 Conference Athlete of the Year
- 2 Team Conference Champions
- 21 Individual Conference Champions

2002 - Softball
National Champions

2004 - Men's Golf
National Champions

2007 - Men's Soccer
Pac-10 Champions

Katie Morgan, Outdoor Track & Field
2008 NCAA Champion, Pole Vault

Dana Vollmer, Swimming
2007 NCAA Champion
100 Butterfly

Marshawn Lynch, Football
2006 Pac-10 Offensive Player of the Year

Brandon Morrow, Baseball
2006 All-Pac-10
Fifth Player Selected
Major League Draft

Tim McNeill, Gymnastics
2007, 2008 NCAA Champion
Parallel Bars and Pommel Horse

PAC-10 CONFERENCE

Entering the 2008-09 season, the Pacific-10 Conference continues to uphold its tradition as the “Conference of Champions.” Pac-10 members have claimed an incredible 159 NCAA team titles over the past 18 seasons, for an average of more than eight championships per academic year.

Even more impressive is the breadth of the Pac-10’s success, as those 159 team titles have come in 26 different men’s and women’s sports. The Pac-10 has led the nation in NCAA Championships 42 of the last 48 years and finished second five times.

Spanning nearly a century of outstanding athletics achievement, the Pac-10 has captured 372 NCAA titles (259 men’s, 113 women’s), far outdistancing the runner-up Big Ten Conference’s 217 titles.

The conference’s reputation is further proven in the annual United States Sports Academy Directors’ Cup competition, the prestigious award that honors the best overall collegiate athletics programs in the country. Stanford continued its remarkable run in the 2007-08 season, winning its 14th consecutive Directors’ Cup. In the 2007-08 competition, eight of the top-30 Division I programs were Pac-10 members: No. 1 Stanford, No. 2 UCLA, No. 4 Arizona State, No. 7 California, No. 13 USC, No. 22 Washington, No. 26 Oregon and No. 27 Arizona.

The Pac-10 captured 13 NCAA titles in 2007-08 to lead the nation, finishing just one shy of the all-time Division I record of 14 titles, set by the Pac-10 in 1996-97. It should be noted that the Pac-10 total does not include California’s national championship in men’s rugby or Stanford’s national championship in women’s synchronized swimming, as they are not counted as NCAA titles. The Pac-10 led the nation with the most NCAA titles in women’s sports with eight.

NCAA team champions from the Pac-10 in 2007-08 came from Arizona (men’s and women’s swimming and diving), Arizona State (men’s and women’s indoor track & field and softball), California (men’s water polo), Oregon (men’s cross country), Stanford (women’s cross country), UCLA (women’s water polo, women’s tennis and men’s golf) and USC (women’s soccer and women’s golf). The Pac-10 also had runners-up in 10 NCAA Championship events: women’s cross country (Oregon), women’s volleyball (Stanford), men’s water polo (USC), women’s basketball (Stanford), men’s gymnastics (Stanford), men’s golf (Stanford), women’s golf (UCLA), women’s tennis (California), women’s track & field (Arizona State) and women’s water polo (USC). Overall, the conference had 32 teams finish in the top four at NCAA Championship events.

Participation in the postseason was a common occurrence for the conference in 2007-08. Of the 22 sports sponsored by the Pac-10, 20 witnessed at least half its teams participating in NCAA or other postseason action. The men sent 73 of a possible 90 teams into the postseason (81.1 percent), while the women sent 74 of a possible 100 teams (74.0 percent).

The Pac-10 experienced continued success in football as the league sent six teams to bowl games. USC and Arizona State were named co-champions with identical 7-2 league records. Overall, the Pac-10 went 4-2 in postseason bowl games with Arizona State, California, Oregon, Oregon State, UCLA and USC also earning bowl appearances.

The conference swept five NCAA men’s and women’s titles, including cross country, indoor track & field, golf, water polo, and swimming and diving. California captured the men’s water polo title for the second year in a row, while UCLA garnered the women’s hardware for the fourth consecutive year. The Oregon men took home the cross country title, while the Stanford women claimed their third straight crown. The NCAA golf championship trophies were taken home by Los Angeles counterparts, as UCLA won the men’s title and USC won the women’s. Two conference schools swept on their own, including Arizona State (men’s and women’s indoor track & field) and Arizona (men’s and women’s swimming and diving).

On the men’s side, Pac-10 members have won 259 NCAA team championships, far ahead of the 199 claimed by the runner-up Big Ten. Men’s NCAA crowns have come at a phenomenal rate for the Pac-10 – 15 basketball titles by five schools (more than any other conference), 49 tennis titles, 45 outdoor track and field crowns, and 26 baseball titles. Pac-10 members have won 24 of the last 39 NCAA titles in volleyball, 34 of the last 49 in water polo, and 21 total swimming and diving national championships.

Individually, the conference has produced an impressive number of NCAA men’s individual champions as well, claiming 1,162 NCAA individual crowns.

On the women’s side, the story is much the same. Since the NCAA began conducting women’s championships 27 years ago, Pac-10 members have claimed at least four national titles in a single season on 19 occasions. Overall, the Pac-10 has captured 113 NCAA women’s crowns, easily outdistancing the SEC, which is second with 72. Pac-10 members have dominated a number of sports, winning 20 softball titles, 18 tennis crowns, 13 of the last 18 volleyball titles, 12 of the last 19 trophies in golf and 10 in swimming and diving.

Pac-10 women athletes shine nationally on an individual basis as well, having captured an unmatched 511 NCAA individual titles, an average of more than 18 champions per season.

The Pacific-10 Conference offices are located 25 miles east of San Francisco in Walnut Creek, Calif.

Even in its infancy, the Pacific-10 Conference played a significant role in the development of women's basketball. On April 4, 1896, California and Stanford squared off at the Page Street Armory in San Francisco in the first women's intercollegiate game in the United States.

The Pac-10 has consistently been among the nation's finest women's basketball conferences since its inception during the 1986-87 season. The "Conference of Champions" has shared in the surge in popularity of women's college basketball with average attendance figures surpassing 2,000 fans per game for 16 consecutive seasons. In 2007-08, Cal averaged a program-best 2,363 fans per game, and against Stanford on Feb. 23, 2008, the Bears set a Pac-10 single-game attendance record of 10,525.

The Pac-10 quickly established a reputation as one of the strongest women's basketball leagues in the nation, with solid teams across the board. The Pac-10 sent at least four teams to the NCAA Tournament nine times in the decade of the '90s, and every Conference member made a trip to the Big Dance in the '90s. In the new millennium, the story has proved much the same. Eight different Pac-10 teams have advanced to the NCAA Championships at least once in the last four seasons.

Overall, Pac-10 schools have won four NCAA women's basketball titles, with USC winning back-to-back titles in 1983 and 1984, and Stanford claiming the national crown in 1990 and 1992. Most recently, Stanford lost to Tennessee in the 2008 national championship game. The Pac-10 has made a combined 10 Final Four appearances and has advanced to the Sweet 16 in 25 of 27 NCAA Tournaments.

In addition, the Pac-10 has produced five Women's National Invitation Tournament (WNIT) champions, including Oregon which captured the 1989 and 2002 crowns. Arizona claimed the 1996 WNIT title, while Oregon State won the WNIT in 1980 and 1982.

The 2008-09 Athlon Sports Top-25 Preseason poll lists three Pac-10 teams – No. 2 California, No. 3 Stanford and No. 8 Arizona State.

PAC-10 WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

ACADEMIA

Thomas Cech - Chemist, Nobel Prize winner
 Joseph Erlanger - Winner of 1944 Nobel Prize for medicine
 David Flinn - President, University of Wisconsin
 John Kenneth Galbraith - Economist
 Jennifer Granholm - Governor of Michigan
 Clark Kerr - Chancellor, UC Berkeley
 Timothy Leary - Psychologist and cult figure
 Yuan T. Lee - Chemist, Nobel Prize winner
 Willard Libby - Scientist, discovered Carbon 14, Nobel Prize
 Dan Mote - President, University of Maryland
 Emil M. Mrak - Chancellor, UC Davis
 Kenneth Pitzer - Chemist, President of Stanford University
 Glenn Seaborg - Nuclear Physicist, Nobel Prize winner
 Samuel Smith - President, Washington State University
 Robert Gordon Sproul - President, University of California

Jeff Kent - 2000 National League MVP
 Jason Kidd - NBA All-Star, U.S. Olympian
 Mary T. Meagher - U.S. Olympic swimmer, three gold medals
 Hardy Nickerson - NFL All-Pro linebacker
 Helen Wills Moody Roark - Winner of eight Wimbledon championships

CORPORATE

Roger Baccigaluppi - President, Blue Diamond Growers
 Peter Chernin - Chairman, 20th Century Fox
 Choon Kun Cho - President, Korean Airlines
 Don Fisher - Founder and Chairman of the Board, The Gap
 Andrew Grove - CEO, Intel Corporation
 Walter Haas, Jr. - President, Levi Strauss & Co.; owner of Oakland Athletics

Bill Bixby - Actor, "The Incredible Hulk"
 Beverly Cleary - Author, "Ramona the Pest"
 Joan Didion - Author, "Play It as It Lays"
 Adam Duritz - Lead singer, Counting Crows
 Mark Goodson - TV producer, "Family Feud," "The Price is Right"
 Marguerite Higgins - Journalist, Pulitzer Prize winner
 Susanna Hoffs - Lead singer of The Bangles
 Maxine Hong Kingston - Author, 1997 National Humanities Medal
 Jack London - Author, "The Call of the Wild"
 Jerry Mathers - Actor, "Leave it to Beaver"
 Terry McMillan - Author, "Waiting To Exhale," "How Stella Got Her Groove Back"
 Gregory Peck - Actor, Academy Award winner, "To Kill a Mockingbird"
 James Schamus - Producer, "In the Bedroom"

Newton Drury - Director, National Park Service
 Maria Echaveste - Deputy Chief of Staff, Clinton Administration
 John W. Gardner - U.S. Secretary of Health, Education & Welfare
 Walter A. Gordon - Governor of Virgin Islands, U.S. District Court Judge
 Philip Habib - U.S. Special Envoy to Middle East
 Thelton E. Henderson - Chief judge, U.S. District Court of Northern California
 Judith Heumann - Assistant U.S. Secretary of Education
 Lance Ito - Superior Court Judge, presided over O.J. Simpson trial
 Barbara Lee - U.S. Congresswoman (D-Oakland)
 Wiley Manuel - First African-American California State Supreme Court Justice
 John A. McCone - Director of CIA, Atomic Energy Commission
 Robert McNamara - U.S. Secretary of Defense

Best-Selling Author
Terry McMillan

NFL Player
Tony Gonzalez

Academy Award Winner
Gregory Peck

Counting Crows Lead Singer
Adam Duritz

NBA All-Star & Olympian
Jason Kidd

Olympic Medalist
Natalie Coughlin

Sports Announcer
Michelle Tafoya

Astronaut
Rhea Seddon

NBA All-Star
Kevin Johnson

NOTABLE CAL ALUMNI

ASTRONAUTS

Leroy Chiao - First Chinese-American astronaut
 Margaret Rhea Seddon - Astronaut
 Rex Walheim - Space Shuttle astronaut

ATHLETICS

Shareef Abdur-Rahim - NBA All-Star, 2000 U.S. Olympian
 Steve Bartkowski - No. 1 overall NFL draft pick in 1975
 Matt Biondi - Three-time Olympic swimmer, eight gold medals
 Natalie Coughlin - Winner of 11 Olympic medals in swimming
 Joy (Biefeld) Fawcett - Member of three U.S. Olympic soccer teams
 Tony Gonzalez - NFL All-Pro tight end
 Michele Granger - Olympic gold medalist, softball pitcher
 Jackie Jensen - 1958 American League MVP
 Kevin Johnson - NBA All-Star

William R. Hearst Jr. - Newspaper publisher
 Edgar F. Kaiser - Founder, Kaiser Permanente
 Jean Lemmon - Editor, "Better Homes and Gardens"
 Tung Yen Lin - World-renown civic engineer
 Brian Maxwell - Founder, PowerBar
 Gordon Moore - Co-founder, Intel Corp.
 Eric Schmidt - CEO, Google
 Leigh Steinberg - Lawyer, sports agent
 Irving Stone - Chairman, American Greetings Co.
 Eugene Trefethen Jr. - President, Kaiser Industries
 Alice Waters - Chef, restaurateur, Chez Panisse
 Dean Witter - Founder, Dean Witter Financial Services
 Steve Wozniak - Co-founder, Apple Computer Systems

ENTERTAINMENT/AUTHORS

Scott Adams - Creator of Dilbert comic strip

Michael Silver - Columnist Yahoo Sports
 Michelle Tafoya - TV Sports Personality, Monday Night Football reporter
 George Takei - Actor, Mr. Sulu on "Star Trek"
 Jann Wenner - Founder, Rolling Stone magazine

GOVERNMENT/MILITARY

Horace Albright - Awarded 1980 Medal of Freedom
 Tom Bates - Mayor of Berkeley
 Rose Bird - Chief Justice, California Supreme Court
 W. Michael Blumenthal - U.S. Secretary of the Treasury
 Allen Broussard - Assoc. Justice, California Supreme Court
 Jerry Brown - Governor of California, Mayor of Oakland
 Rachelle Chong - Member, Federal Communications Commission
 Shirley Dean - Mayor of Berkeley
 Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle - World War II hero, Medal of Honor

Norman Mineta - U.S. Secretary of Transportation
 William G. Simon - Director, FBI
 Roger Traynor - Chief Justice, California Supreme Court
 Earl Warren - Chief Justice, U.S. Supreme Court
 Frederick Weyand - U.S. Army Chief of Staff
 Lionel Wilson - First African-American Mayor of Oakland
 Pete Wilson - Governor of California
 James D. Zellerbach - U.S. Ambassador to Italy

HUMANITARIAN

Ida Jackson - United Nations observer, founder local chapter of National Council of Negro Women
 Mimi Silbert - Co-founder, Delancey Street Foundation