Just the Basics

The No. 1-seeded California softball team is set to play a best-of-three series with No. 16-seeded Washington at Levine-Fricke Field in the Berkeley Super Regional. The Golden Bears (54-5) and Huskies (39-17) play game one at 7 p.m. PT on Saturday, May 26. Game two will be played Sunday, May 27 at 4 p.m. If the teams have one win each, they will face off in the "if necessary" game three at 6:30 p.m. on Sunday. The first squad to win two games earns one of the coveted eight spots in the Women's College World Series in Oklahoma City. All of the Berkeley Super Regional games will be broadcasted on ESPN2 - with Mark Neely and Amanda Freed on the call - and covered via a live chat, the Cal Softball Twitter and on GameTracker.

CalBears.com To Host Live Chat for All Games

For each of Cal's games in Berkeley, CalBears.com will provide a live chat for fans. In the chat - in which anyone can participate for free - the Bears' communications director Anna Oleson-Wheeler will provide in-game updates, commentary, inside knowledge and more. Fans can discuss the game with fellow Blues, ask questions and more. Following the games, the live chats will be archived on CalBears.com and can be re-read at any time.

Berkeley Regional Rundown

- Hosting the first regional in Berkeley since 1993, the Bears went 4-1 to advance to supers
- After beating Iona 8-0 in five innings to start the regional, Cal lost 3-2 to Arkansas but proceeded to beat Boston University 8-0 (six innings) to advance to the final day, when they beat Arkansas 10-2 in five innings and then 7-0 in the championship game
- In Cal's five games in the Berkeley Regional, Frani Echavarria led Cal by hitting .660, slugging 1.067 with eight RBI and a .647 on-base percentage
- Echavarria hit her first career grand slam in Cal's 10-2 win over the Razorbacks in an elimination game
- Filling in as DP, Britt Vonk hit .529, slugged .765 with a .556 on-base percentage
- Valerie Arioto only had six official at-bats for she was walked 13 times
- Jolene Henderson pitched all but 0.1 of Cal's innings, amassing a 0.71 ERA
- Overall, the Bears out hit their opponents .336-.216 and outscored them 35-5
- The Bears played the first night home game in program history against Iona

Cal in the Postseason

- This marks the 27th consecutive season the Bears are playing in the postseason
- Cal has advanced to the regional championship game seven times in eight years since the super regional format was in 2005
- The Bears had not lost a regional game since 2008
- Last year, Cal won the Louisville Regional and then the Lexington Super Regional
- The Lexington Super Regional title was the Bears' second-ever super regional title since the format was adopted
- Cal's first super regional championship came in 2005 in three games at Baylor
- The Bears are 67-31 in regional games and 89-61 overall in the NCAA postseason
- Cal is 4-10 in super regional play
- Cal made three consecutive WCWS title game appearances from 2002-04, winning it all in 2002
- The 2002 NCAA national title was the first by any women's team at Cal
- Cal has appeared in eight of the last 13 NCAA WCWS and 11 overall, including three trips to the AIAW College World Series
- Cal has not had a losing season since 1973 - a span of 38 years

Berkeley Regional Game Two: Cal Def. Iona 8-0

A pair of offensively lethal innings by No. 1-seeded California bookended May 18's game against Iona with the Golden Bears exacting an 8-0 mercy victory over the Gaels. A passed ball scored the first run for the Bears in the bottom of the first, and then a two-run shot by Breana Kostreba put the Bears up 3-0 before the first inning concluded. In the bottom of the fifth, Cal scored five runs on four hits, one Gael error, two walks and one hit batter to end the game early. Kostreba led the Bears with three RBI off her two hits. Frani Echavarria and Britt Vonk both tallied a pair of hits with Echavarria driving in the final run of the game. Jolene Henderson pitched a two-hitter, striking out seven in five innings of work.

Berkeley Regional Game Three: Arkansas Def. Cal 3-2

Arkansas jumped to a 3-0 lead in the top of the first, and Cal could not recover, dropping a 3-2 decision to the Razorbacks. On four hits - one of which was a solo homer - Arkansas built what would prove to be an insurmountable 3-0 lead. A delayed steal by Jamia Reid broke up the shutout in the bottom of the third. In the bottom of the fifth, Frani Echavarria hit her second double of the game, moved to third on a Reid groundout and then an error at first allowed Echavarria to score, cutting Arkansas' lead to one. Though Cal stranded just three through the first four innings, after the scoreboard read 3-2, Cal left six stranded on base.

Berkeley Regional Game Five: Cal Def. BU 8-0

Cal kept its postseason dreams alive, beating Boston University 8-0 in six innings on May 19 in an elimination game. Cal headed to the loser's bracket after dropping a 3-2 decision to Arkansas on Saturday afternoon. BU beat Iona 4-3 in 13 innings for the right to take on Cal in the elimination game. Jolene Henderson got the nod in the circle and was responsible for 11 of the 18 outs with a bevy of strikeouts. Until the bottom of the fifth, all of the defensive outs for the Bears were either a Henderson KO or a 5-3 groundout. Catcher Victoria Jones started the Bears off offensively with a towering shot to the bleachers in left field. After four intentional walks on the day - three of which came against Arkansas - BU threw to senior first baseman Valerie Arioto, who went two-for-two with two walks and an RBI. Also driving in runs were Jace Williams, Breana Kostreba, Cheyenne Cordes, Danielle Henderson and Frani Echavarria.

Berkeley Regional Game Six: Cal Def. Arkansas 10-2

Facing an early end to an already epic season, Cal beared down to defeat Arkansas 10-2 in five innings to force the "if necessary" game seven. Frani Echavarria was the offensive star for the Golden Bears, driving in six runs off four hits - one of which was a grand slam in the top of the fifth to put the Bears into mercy territory. Danielle Henderson hit a two-run homer in the fourth and Jace Williams was responsible for the other RBI of the day. Jolene Henderson pitched the five-inning game, striking out five and allowing two earned runs on six hits. Hope McLemore took the loss, moving her record to 2-1, suffering all 10 earned runs. Though leaving runners stranded proved problematic in the first two innings, in which the Bears left six on, Cal quickly recovered. The Bears scored 10 runs on 13 hits, six walks and one Razorback error.

Berkeley Regional Game Seven: Cal Def. Arkansas 7-0

With a trip to super regionals on the line, the No. 1 California softball team did what it's been doing all season - win. The Golden Bears defeated Arkansas, 7-0, on Sunday evening to capture the Berkeley Regional. Arkansas upset top-seeded Cal 3-2 on Saturday. The Bears eliminated BU 8-0 on Saturday night to keep their season alive. Cal run-ruled the Razorbacks 10-2 in five innings in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader, forcing the "if necessary" game seven. Jolene Henderson pitched back-to-back wins, improving to 34-2 in the circle. Britt Vonk tallied her first homer of the year and Ashley Decker drove in two runs of her own.

Intentionally Walk This Way

This season, senior Valerie Arioto accounts for all 16 of Cal's intentional base on balls. In two games – the 2-1 win over UW (March 30) and the 3-2 loss to Arkansas (May 19) – Arioto was intentionally walked three times. In the Berkeley Regional alone, Arioto had seven IBBs, with at least one coming in every game except the win against Iona. Arioto is second on Cal's career list in walks at 257 with Veronica Nelson holding the all-time record with 395.

Hosting in Berkeley – a History

The Bears had not hosted postseason play since 1993, when Sacramento State and Long Beach State traveled to Berkeley. In that Cal Regional, Long Beach State beat Cal 2-1 to advance to the WCWS. The year before, the Bears hosted San Jose State and beat the Spartans 6-1 to earn a trip to Oklahoma City. The first and only other time the Bears have hosted postseason play was in 1990, when San Jose State and UNLV made the trek to Berkeley with the Running Rebels winning it all by beating Cal 2-1. Since the creation of super regionals in 2005, the Bears have never played supers at home.

Four Bears Named to Pacific Region First Team

For the first time in California softball history, four Golden Bears were named to the prestigious All-Pacific Region First Team, the National Fastpitch Coaches Association announced May 17. Senior utility Valerie Arioto, freshman third baseman Danielle Henderson, pitcher Jolene Henderson and left fielder Jamia Reid all made the first team. All four Bears were also named to All-Pac-12 teams. Those who land on the all-region first teams become eligible to become All-Americans. The 2012 NFCA Division I All-America teams will be announced at 2 p.m. PT, on Wednesday, May 30, on NFCA.org.

Bears Move Up in Career Record Standings

After starting the year third (157) in career runs, Valerie Arioto is currently first with 221. Not even on the top-five list prior to February, Jamia Reid is now second all-time in runs at 169 and first in hits at 295. Reid is also tied for second in triples with 15. Also not breaking the top-five barrier before this year, Arioto is now first in total bases (426) and second in career RBI with 184, in need of eight RBI to take over first place (Haley Woods, 191). In just her second year, Britt Vonk sits atop the batting average board at .388 with Jamia Reid right behind her at .383. Though she is three homers shy of eclipsing Veronica Nelson in career homers, Arioto bested her in career slugging with a .662 percentage. This season, Frani Echavarria became the career leader in hit by pitch at 28. In pitching, Jolene Henderson is fourth in career wins (94), third in saves (8) and fifth in strikeouts (809).

USA Softball Invites Two Bears to Try Outs

Come June 10-12, Jolene Henderson and Lindsey Ziegenhirt will vie for the chance to don the red, white and blue at the 2012 USA Softball Women's National Team Selection Camp, the Amateur Softball Association (ASA) of America announced. The 17 athletes selected to the USA Softball roster will compete in six different events in the United States and Canada. The remaining athletes who are not selected to the Women's National Team will make up the 2012 USA Softball Women's Elite National Team and will face the National Team in exhibition play.

Arioto, Henderson Lead Bears on Pac-12 Teams

With the inaugural Pac-12 Championship and best conference finish in program history in hand, eight Golden Bears skyrocketed themselves to the All-Pac-12 Teams. Valerie Arioto earned Player of the Year laurels and Jolene Henderson repeated as the Pitcher of the Year, and head coach Diane Ninemire is the Pac-12 Coach of the Year. Arioto, Henderson and Jamia Reid were all named to the All-Pac-12 First Team while Frani Echavarria, Danielle Henderson, Breana Kostreba and Jace Williams earned All-Pac-12 Honorable Mentions. Further rounding out the Cal contingent with placement on the All-Freshman Team were Cheyenne Cordes, Danielle Henderson and Kostreba.

Bears Win Pac-12 in Dramatic Fashion

Coming into the final conference series of the 2012 season against No. 2 Sun Devils on May 10-12 in Berkeley, the Pac-12 title was up for grabs for the first team to win two. In the first game of the series, Cal battled back from a two-run deficit to tie the game 2-2 in the bottom of the sixth before Valerie Arioto unleashed a two-run, walk-off homer in the bottom of the seventh to defeat the Sun Devils 4-2. The next day – donning pink jerseys in honor of the first-ever StrikeOut Cancer game in Berkeley – the Bears defeated ASU 5-0 to secure the championship. Danielle Henderson drove in the first two runs and then the fifth with Elia Reid accounted for the third and fourth runs when she singled to left. Senior player of the year award candidate Valerie Arioto pitched the complete-game victory, shutting out the Sun Devils as she struck out 11 of them.

Bears Enter Postseason as Undisputed No. 1

After capturing the Pac-12 title and the No. 1 national seed in the NCAA Tournament, the California softball team picked up every single first-place vote in both of the national polls. This is the fifth time the Bears are the undisputed top team in the ESPN.com/USA Softball rankings and the third go-around when they have garnered all 30 votes in the USA Today/NFCA poll. This week's rankings mark the eighth consecutive week Cal is No. 1 in both polls and the 13th time this season that the Bears have been the top choice in at least one poll.

Cal Versus the NCAA Tournament Field

- Cal has played 17 of the 63 teams in the 2012 NCAA Tournament
- Of those 17 teams, seven of them are Pac-12 opponents
- Besides the Pac-12 teams, Cal played Tennessee, Texas State, Syracuse, DePaul, LSU, Northwestern, San Diego State, Texas A&M, Texas and Hawaii
- The Bears went 27-4 against NCAA Tournament teams
- Of the 15 teams advancing to supers, Cal has played seven of them (UW, LSU, Arizona, ASU, Oregon, Texas and Tennessee)

Softball Postseason Format

The Bears were one of 64 teams who competed at 16 regional sites in the first-round, double-elimination regionals. The top 16 teams were seeded in order, and the remaining teams were placed in regional brackets to create balanced competition and avoid conference matchups, when possible. The regional winners advanced to super regional competition for a best-of-three series at eight campus sites. The eight teams that win the Super Regionals will advance to the WCWS, an eight-team, double-elimination tournament. The championship final will be a best-of-three-series. The WCWS will be conducted May 31-June 6 at the ASA Hall of Fame Stadium in Oklahoma City.

Cal's 2011 Postseason Run

- Earning the seven seed and top billing at the Louisville Regional, Cal made its 26th appearance in the NCAA Tournament
- In Louisville, the Bears outscored their opponents, 13-3, and won all three games to give Cal its 12th Regional title in the past 13 years and ninth regional in which the Bears posted a perfect record
- Cal battled Kentucky in a three-game series to win the Lexington Super Regional, marking the first victories over an SEC team in Super Regionals
- The Bears lost the opening game of the WCWS to Alabama, but defeated Oklahoma State before losing to eventual runner-up Florida
- The NFCA lauded Jolene Henderson and Jamia Reid as All-Americans
- The Cal coaching staff was named the Pacific Regional Staff of the Year

Recalling the 2011 Lexington Super Regional

Thanks to a Frani Echavarria homer in game one, the Bears defeated Kentucky 1-0 for the first-ever super regional win over an SEC team. In that game, the Bears out-hit the Wildcats 6-1. After 21 consecutive scoreless innings of pitching by Jolene Henderson, Kentucky scored three runs off three hits in the bottom of the first en route to an 8-0, five-inning victory. In the "if necessary" game three, the Bears scored five runs in the top of the first as they cruised to a 9-0 win.

Inaugural Conference Winners

The California softball team won the first-ever Pac-10 title in 1987 and then the first-ever Pac-12 title in 2012. The two conference championships are the first two outright titles for the Bears. Cal tied for first in 2005. The .875 winning percentage this year is an all-time conference best for any team in Cal softball history.

Cal Tops RPI

In the latest edition of the RPI – released May 14 – the Bears continue to be first in the nation. Cal has topped the RPI since April 2 after starting the RPI season third. Alabama moved to second while Pac-12 rival Arizona State is now third. For yet another week, eight of the nine Pac-12 teams are ranked in the top 30 with Oregon ninth (down spot from last week), Arizona 11th (down one), UCLA 13th (down two spots), Washington 18th (down one spot), Stanford 19th (down one) and Oregon State 24th (down one). Utah is 71st, despite beating Stanford May 10.

Scouting Washington

- The Huskies beat Harvard twice – 2-0 and 4-0 in the championship game – and Texas Tech once – 2-0 – to capture the Seattle Regional
- UW finished the regular season ranked 18th in the polls and RPI
- After starting the season with a 32-1 record, the Huskies peaked in the poll at No. 3
- Making their 19th straight postseason appearance, the Huskies are 83-36 all-time in the NCAA Tournament and 40-16 under head coach Heather Tarr
- Nikia Williams made the All-Pacific Region first team while Kimi Pohlman and Kaitlin Inglesby were placed on the second team
- Washington is 5-6 on the road and 3-7 in the last 10 games
- Inglesby is a double threat – leading the team in the batter's box by hitting (.391), slugging (.689), RBI (63) and in the circle with a 2.21 ERA and 19-10 record
- Five Huskies starters eclipse the .320 average in Inglesby (.391), Jerrin Fa'asua (.378), Pohlman (.365), Victoria Hayward (.346) and Williams (.329)

The 2012 Series Against Washington

The then-No. 1 Bears swept then-No. 3 Washington in the Pac-12 series this year, 2-1 (March 30), 5-3 (April 1) and 6-4 (April 1), handing the Huskies their first losses since Feb. 26. Prior to that weekend, both teams had just one loss sullyng their records with the then-No. 1/2 Bears losing 3-1 in 10 innings to then-No. 18/19 Hawaii and the then-No. 5/7 Huskies dropping a 2-0 decision to then-No. 11 Missouri. Since both squads dropped their lone games, neither had lost with UW's 19-game winning streak dating back to Feb. 26, and Cal's seven streaker starting March 16. Historically speaking, the series belonged to the Bears 35-33 though Cal had not won the series since 2008. Cal is now 38-33 with the Huskies. Following the sweep, Cal swept the conference awards for the second week in a row with Jolene Henderson warranting the Pac-12 Pitcher of the Week laurel and Jamia Reid earning the Player of the Week accolade. Henderson earned two of the three victories over UW, pitching 14.0 complete innings with a 2.00 ERA, limiting the Huskies to a .282 batting average and tallying 19 strikeouts. Hitting in the lead-off spot, Reid sparked the Cal offense by hitting .467 with a team-high four RBI and four steals across four games that week (the Bears also beat Sac State 8-0). Continuing her 28-game hitting streak, Reid slugged .467, and in Sunday's second game against the Huskies, she had three hits against Washington's ace, Kaitlin Inglesby, and drove in two runs.

Game One – Cal def. UW 2-1

To say the bottom of the seventh inning of March 30's game between No. 1 California and No. 3 Washington was a pressure-filled situation is an understatement. Her Golden Bears were down 1-0 against rival Huskies in the series opening-game at Levine-Fricke Field, when senior second baseman Jace Williams strode to the plate with the bases loaded and two outs. Williams had her work cut out for her – she was facing UW hurler Kaitlin Inglesby, who had given up just one hit prior to the seventh inning and had not lost a game all year. But, with her innate fiery competitive side and a complex understanding of the game honed over many years of successful softball, Williams worked to a 2-2 count before roping the ball fair down the left-field line. On contact, Frani Echavarria came home from third to score the game-tying run. Jamia Reid rounded third and sprinted for home, racing the throw from left. Reid slid into the dish around the tag, scoring the game-winning run. With the 2-1 win in hand, the Bears literally jumped for joy, crowding around home plate to celebrate.

Game Two – Cal def. UW 5-3

Cal built an insurmountable lead to defeat No. 3 Washington 5-3 on April 1 in game one of a doubleheader at Levine-Fricke Field. The Golden Bears struck with two runs in the third, one in the fourth and another pair in the fifth to prevent the best comeback the Huskies could muster when UW scored once in the sixth and twice in the sixth. Valerie Arioto pitched the seven-inning victory, striking out nine. Prior to the sixth inning, Arioto maintained a no-hitter and held the one-hitter until the top of the seventh. Frani Echavarria hit a solo homer, Cheyenne Cordes waited out a seven-pitch RBI walk and Danielle Henderson drove in two runs with a single.

Game Three – Cal def. UW 6-4

The second game of the April 1 doubleheader against No. 3 Washington slightly mirrored the first of the twin bill in that No. 1 California once again posted a big enough lead that the Huskies could not touch the Golden Bears no matter how hard UW tried at the end of the game. Despite two UW runs in the top of the seventh, Cal came away with a 6-4 win. Valerie Arioto got things going right away in the bottom of the first, driving the ball into the parking lot behind right center. The very next inning saw Jamia Reid plate two with a single to right.

California Depth Chart

Down 4-0, the Huskies got on the board when Nikia Williams tallied a two-run homer to left. The Bears gave themselves some breathing room in the bottom of the fifth, when Victoria Jones plated Cheyenne Cordes and Elia Reid drove in Jones. Though just three outs stood between the Bears and victory in the top of the seventh, the Huskies made Cal fans nervous when they tallied two runs on four hits but failed to push the game into the bottom of the seventh.

The 2011 Series at Washington

In the series opener against UW on April 8, 2011, the Bears established a 1-0 lead in the top of the first and expanded on that to the fullest in the top of the fourth with eight runs. In all, Britt Vonk, Victoria Jones and Jordan Wallace doubled while Vonk, Wallace and Lindsey Ziegenhirt all homered. In the April 9 game, the Bears earned a 1-0 lead, but the Huskies got a walk-off homer in the bottom of the eighth to take the 2-1 decision. The third game saw UW score six runs off five hits and one Cal error in the bottom of the sixth to mercy the Bears, 9-1, in six innings.

Bears Break Records

With the regular season recently concluded and the season hopefully still far from over, Cal has already broken program records. The 402 runs scored this year are now the team's single-season high, besting the previous mark of 322, which was set in 2007. Similarly, the 356 RBI sets a team record, topping the old high of 286 RBI in 2010. The 78 homers blow the old mark of 55 (set in 2009) out of the water. Should the Bears' bats stay laser focused, the team average could also be a new high with Cal currently hitting .321 and the all-time best being .328, a mark that has stood since 1977. The Bears are on track to get the highest field percentage – currently owning a .981 with the program high being .978, which occurred in 2005. With a 54-5 record, Cal is also three wins away from besting the current record of 56, which was set in 2002, the year Cal won its first NCAA Championship.

Recalling the 2002 National Championship

In 2002, the Bears owned a perfect record at the Fresno Regional - opening with a 10-inning 2-1 win over host Fresno State. Cal beat Cal State Fullerton twice to advance to its seventh Women's College World Series. The Bears opened things in Oklahoma City with a 4-2 win over home favorite Oklahoma. A 1-0 defeat of Florida State and a 3-0 win over Arizona State sent the Bears to the championship match over Arizona. It was the first time that the Bears had been in the title game, and no other Cal women's team had ever won an NCAA national championship. The game was a pitching duel between Cal's Jocelyn Forest and Zona's Jennie Finch, two of the best hurlers in the nation. Forest had a younger team behind her, notably less experienced and freshmen-laden compared to the defending national champion Wildcats. Additionally, Mike Candrea and his 'Cats had already won six NCAA championships in program history and had been to the title game 10 times. Candace Harper had the first RBI with a single up the middle in the seventh to give Cal a 1-0 lead, and the Bears never looked back - ultimately winning the game 6-0. For a complete feature on the 2002 national title, please see the clips packet.

Eight Pac-12 Teams Make Tourney

Eight of the nine teams in the Pac-12 earned NCAA Tournament bids, led by No. 1 overall seed Cal. The Pac-12 has eight teams in the postseason for the first time since 2007. California, Arizona State, Arizona, Oregon, UCLA and Washington all hosted regionals while Oregon State and Stanford hit the road for regional play. Defending NCAA champion and No. 3 seed Arizona State won the Tempe Regional. No. 11 seed Oregon won its Eugene Regional. Despite earning the No. 12 seed, UCLA lost the Los Angeles Regional to Hofstra. No. 13 seeded Arizona won the Tucson Regional and the No. 16 Huskies won the Seattle Regional. Oregon State and Stanford were eliminated in regional play.

Highlighting Pac-12 Play

- The Bears won the first-ever Pac-12 title
- Cal has won each of the eight conference series in which it has played
- The Bears swept five of the seven conference series
- Cal opened Pac-12 play with a 3-0 sweep of then-No. 9 Stanford
- The only three teams to steal wins over Cal were then-No. 13 Arizona (8-3, April 14), then-No. 14/17 Oregon (1-0, April 21) and then-No. 2 ASU (5-0, May 12)
- The Conference coaches picked Cal to finish second in their preseason poll

Shutout Central

Of Cal's 54 wins this year, 27 of them have been shutout victories. Nine of the shutouts have come during Pac-12 play. In their five losses, the Bears' opponents have shut out Cal in just two of the games. The Bears' 27 shutouts this season tie them for ninth on the all-time season best list. The current record for Cal shutouts in a season is 38, which occurred in 1992.

Road Warriors

Cal has played either on the road or at a neutral site for 38 of its 59 games. Across their six nonconference tournaments – traveling to Tempe, Ariz.; Las Vegas, Cathedral City, Calif.; Fullerton, Calif.; Fresno, Calif.; and Honolulu – the Bears posted a perfect 23-0 neutral-site record. Including its 12 road Pac-12 games, Cal is 13-2 when playing on the road.

Home is a Haven

As if their road and neutral site record was not impressive enough, the Bears bring an 18-3 home record into this weekend, including games played at Levine-Fricke Field when they were the visiting team. The only three teams thus far to best the Bears at Levine-Fricke Field were then-No. 13 Arizona – which defeated Cal 8-3 on April 14 – and then-No. 2 Arizona State – which beat Cal 5-0 on May 12 – and Arkansas – which upset the Bears 3-2 on May 19.

Bears Honor Friends of Jaclyn Adoptee on April 30

For the third consecutive year, California softball's Friends of Jaclyn adoptee Bebe and her family made the trip to Levine-Fricke Field to take in a Golden Bear game, but the changes that have occurred in Bebe since her first game in 2010 and this year are nothing short of miraculous. Fatigued beyond belief by cancer treatments during her first Cal outing two years ago, Bebe's father Geoff had to throw out the first pitch while Bebe slept in his arms. Last year, Bebe threw out the first pitch by herself. Before the April 29 game, not only did Bebe throw out the first pitch, but she also enjoyed a warm-up dance session, gave the Bears a pre-game speech then signed autographs for anyone and everyone after the game.

Ninemire Nets 1,100th Career Win

Head coach Diane Ninemire hit yet another milestone – notching career win No. 1,100 thanks to the 8-1 victory over then-No. 14/18 Oregon on April 20, 2012. Entering the 2012 season with a career record of 1,059-509 in 24 complete years at the helm of the storied Golden Bear program, the Bears' epic success this year powered Ninemire to the necessary 41 wins to hit the next platform. As of April 22, 2012, only 12 coaches in the history of collegiate softball and only six in Division I ball – including Ninemire – had hit the 1,100 mark.

Arioto Breaks Homer Record

Valerie Arioto not only drove in three RBI across four games to power her top-ranked Bears to a Pac-12 series victory over No. 14/18 Oregon (April 20-22) and a 10-2 nonconference decision over Santa Clara (April 18), but she also broke her own single-season record for homers. She was previously tied – both in 2010 and 2011 – with Veronica Nelson for first place on the Cal program record for homers in a season at 19, but she blasted a shot in the Sunday game against Oregon to propel her to the top. After starting the season third on the career homers list, Arioto is now in second place with an astonishing 53 homers. She needs to hit the 55 mark to tie Nelson for first and 56 to own it outright.

Valerie Arioto earned herself one of the most coveted awards in the Pac-12 – the Tom Hansen Pac-12 Conference Medal – which is given to the top male and female senior student-athletes at each member institution. Arioto joined men's basketball senior guard Jorge Gutierrez to accept the award at the Academic Honors Luncheon on May 3. The determination is based on the exhibition of the greatest combination of performance and achievement in scholarship, athletics and leadership.

Ziegenhirt Earns Golden Bear Award

At the May 3 Academic Honors Luncheon in Berkeley, junior catcher Lindsey Ziegenhirt proudly represented the Cal softball team by earning the Golden Bear Achievement Award. The awards are presented to the student-athlete with the highest GPA on his or her respective team. Ziegenhirt is majoring in psychology and has an incredible 3.74 GPA.

Talk of the Polls

For each week this season, the Bears were recognized as one of the top-25 teams in the nation, being ranked in each of the national polls. Cal's highest ranking in the ESPN.com/USA Softball poll was first – a mark the Bears achieved 13 times. The Bears were the unanimous choice for No. 1 in that poll five times this season. The Bears were also as high as No. 1 in the USA Today/NFCA poll – holding the top spot for eight weeks. Cal was the unquestionable No. 1 team in that poll thrice (week eight, April 3; week 13, May 8; week 14, May 15), and also received 29 of the possible 30 first-place votes three times. The Bears began the season ranked third in the ESPN.com/USA Softball poll and fourth in the USA Today/NFCA poll.

Cal Adds 704 Bleacher Seats to Levine-Fricke Field

Cal Athletics has installed 704 more seats at Levine-Fricke Field. With the addition of the new seats – which are in the outfield – crowd capacity at Levine-Fricke Field more than doubled.

Three Bears Make Player of the Year Top-25 List

Valerie Arioto, Jolene Henderson and Jamia Reid have the utmost honor of being named three of the 25 finalists for the 2012 USA Softball Collegiate Player of the Year, the Amateur Softball Association announced April 11. This award, which is considered the most prestigious honor in Division I women's collegiate softball, is designed to recognize outstanding athletic achievement by female collegiate softball players across the country. The three Golden Bears had previously been named to the top-50 watch list, and Cal is just one of two schools with three student-athlete representatives.

The Bears Versus Ranked Competition

Opening Day

Thanks to the 13-5 win over Tennessee to start the 2012 season, Cal has now won 33 of its year openers. In five of the past seven lid lifters, the Bears have scored 10+ wins.

Ninemire Utilizes Multiple Line-Ups

In each of the four games in the desert to start the season, head coach Diane Ninemire started a slightly shifted nine. Victoria Jones, Danielle Henderson, Lindsey Ziegenhirt and Taylor Vincent all saw time behind the dish. Jace Williams shifted between third and second, while Danielle Henderson played at first and third in addition to her catching time. In total, all 17 active players saw time on the field or in the batter's box.

Preseason Rankings Rate Cal Softball as No. 3/4

After finishing the 2011 campaign as the No. 5 team in the country according to both polls and the final Women's College World Series standings, Cal started 2012 as the third and fourth best team, according to the preseason rankings. The ESPN.com/USA Softball poll placed the Golden Bears at No. 3 while the USA Today/NFCA standings held Cal at No. 4. With the No. 3 laudation by the ESPN.com/USA Softball, the poll placed Cal two spots ahead of its final 2011 ranking, while the USA Today/NFCA rankings have the Bears one spot of their final ranking.

Pac-12 Softball Coaches Envision Cal to Finish Second

The Pac-12 coaches forecasted the Bears to finish second in the prestigious conference according to the preseason poll released Jan. 28. The Golden Bears received two first-place votes and 58 total points to take second in the preseason poll, marking the highest predicted finish since 2005. Just three points ahead of Cal, defending national champion Arizona State garnered six first-place votes to occupy the No. 1 spot in the annual poll. Arizona, which took third, rounded out the first-place votes with one. Last year, Cal was in a tie for fourth in the preseason poll only to take second, which was the highest conference finish for the Bears since they tied for first in 2005. In eight of the past 11 seasons, the Bears have finished higher than they were predicted to in the preseason poll. In 2002, the coaches foresaw Cal finishing in a tie for sixth, but not only did the Bears take fourth, they also went on to win the national title.

Bears Celebrate Holidays With Friends of Jaclyn Adoptee

Before departing Berkeley to spend the winter break with their families, the Bears spent time with important members of their Cal family - Bebe Wiggs and her family. In 2010, the Bears adopted Bebe, a local child with pediatric cancer, through the Friends of Jaclyn Foundation. The Friends of Jaclyn Foundation (FOJ) is a non-profit, charitable organization that improves the quality of life for children with pediatric brain tumors and their families. This past December, Cal joined the Wiggs family for a holiday celebration. Everyone enjoyed a delicious dinner at the newly opened Simpson Center for Student-Athlete High Performance. Following the meal, the group headed to the softball squad's brand-new locker room for presents and a big surprise for Bebe. Prior to the dinner, the Bears and staff selected a locker that will be Bebe's for the duration. They filled it with presents for her and then gift wrapped the locker for Bebe.

USA Softball Lauds Cordes as Junior of the Year

Freshman Cheyenne Cordes joined an elite group of people when USA Softball and the Amateur Softball Association recognized her as the 2011 Athlete of the Year from the Junior Women's National Team program. Cordes helped lead the United States to the gold medal at the International Softball Federation Junior Women's World Championship, Dec. 6-17, in Cape Town, South Africa. She was the only member of the team to start in all 11 games in Cape Town and one of two athletes to play in all 11 games. While seeing time primarily at third, she also led the U.S. in hits (15), extra base hits (seven), RBI (12) and stolen bases (three).

ASA/USA Softball Names Arioto to National Squad

Senior Valerie Arioto earned herself a spot on the 2012 USA Softball Women's National Team, the Amateur Softball Association (ASA) of America announced Jan. 11. Arioto joined 11 athletes in the selection. An additional five athletes will be named to the squad, which will compete at the International Softball Federation (ISF) Women's World Championship, following a 2012 USA Softball Women's National Team and USA Softball Women's Elite National Team Selection Camp in June. In her rookie season with the USA Softball Women's National Team, Arioto started in 24 of 26 games played. At the plate, she was 21-for-57 (.368), hitting a team-high eight doubles, two triples and four homeruns. She had 19 runs scored and 21 RBI. Arioto and her teammates who were named to the 2012 USA Softball Women's National Team helped Team USA win the gold medal at the 2011 World Cup of Softball in July in Oklahoma City and the 2011 Pan American Games in October in Guadalajara, Mexico.

Remembering the 2011 Campaign

- After starting the year ranked 12th in both national polls and slated to finish fourth in the Pac-10, the Bears ended the season second in the conference and fifth in the country after making it to the Women's College World Series
- Cal closed out the year at a 45-13 clip with an impressive 15-6 conference record
- The Bears won at least one game in each Pac-10 series and swept three schools - then-No. 17 Oregon, Oregon State as well as then-No. 8 and defending national champion UCLA
- Earning the seven seed and top billing at the Louisville Regional, Cal made its 26th appearance in the NCAA Tournament
- In Louisville, the Bears outscored their opponents, 13-3, and won all three games to give Cal its 12th Regional title in the past 13 years and ninth Regional in which the Bears posted a perfect record
- Cal battled Kentucky in a three-game series to win the Lexington Super Regional, marking the first victories over an SEC team in Super Regionals
- The Bears lost the opening game of the WCWS to Alabama, but defeated Oklahoma State before losing to eventual runner-up Florida
- Cal was ranked in the top-25 all season, reaching a season highs of No. 5 (ESPN.com/USA Softball) and No. 6 (USA Today/NFCA) during the season
- The NFCA lauded Jolene Henderson and Jamia Reid as All-Americans
- The Cal coaching staff was named the Pacific Regional Staff of the Year
- The NFCA put Jolene Henderson, Jamia Reid, Jace Williams and Britt Vonk on its All-Pacific Region Team
- Six Bears merited All-Pac-10 laurels with Henderson as the Pac-10 Pitcher of the Year
- Jace Williams and Lindsey Ziegenhirt earned the Pac-10 All-Academic honors

Cal Coaches Ink Four Recruits for 2013 Campaign

Cal signed four outstanding recruits to National Letters of Intent, head coach Diane Ninemire announced this fall. Vanessa Alvarez, Khala Taylor, Jasmin Mejia and Nisa Ontiveros will suit up in the Blue & Gold come the spring of 2013. A speedy trackster out of Temecula, Calif., Khala Taylor will no doubt be an asset on the base paths. At the plate, she's a triple threat who can bunt, slap and swing away. Jasmin Mejia will fill in the outfield with her great range and strong arm. She also wields a powerful bat. Nisa Ontiveros is a powerful pitcher who is expected to make an immediate contribution in the circle with her great ball movement.

Head Coach Diane Ninemire

Since her first year in 1988, Diane Ninemire has continually turned Cal into winningest and most successful softball programs ever.

From 1999-2005, Cal made seven straight trips to the College World Series with the Bears' most recent appearance in Oklahoma City coming in 2011. With a national championship, 11 Women's College World Series trips and 24 straight NCAA Regional appearances to her credit, it is no wonder that Cal enters every season as a contender for the national title. In 2011, Cal returned to the hallowed grounds of Oklahoma City for the 11th time in school history for the Women's College World Series.

During Ninemire's tenure, 37 All-America, 75 all-region and 120 all-conference certificates have been issued to Golden Bear athletes. Two of Ninemire's former players - Michele Granger and Gillian Boxx - were four-time All-Americans and helped the United States win a gold medal as members of the 1996 Olympic Team in Atlanta. Former California Golden Bear Vicky Galindo, whom Ninemire coached, was the most recent Cal softball player named to the 2008 15-member Olympic Team roster.

Already the winningest coach - male or female - in all of Cal history for any sport, she has accumulated the second-most wins in Pac-10 history. History was made in 2002 when Ninemire helped direct Cal to its first NCAA Championship at the WCWS with a 6-0 win over Arizona, the first women's title in Cal athletic program history. Ninemire was inducted into the NFCA Hall of Fame in 2009.

Ninemire began her collegiate playing career at Midland Lutheran College. After one season, she transferred to Nebraska-Omaha, where she played on both the softball and basketball teams for three years. A shortstop and left fielder, Ninemire helped UNO to the 1978 championship and three appearances in the WCWS. Ninemire graduated from UNO in 1980 and completed her master's in physical education at Texas Woman's University in 1987. She began her coaching career at TWU in 1980 as Donna Terry's assistant before heading west to assist Terry and the Golden Bear program in 1983.

A..... 1, thrice, last at Utah (4/7)
E..... 1 at Hawaii (3/15)

Berkeley Regional

- Led the team in hitting (.600), slugging (1.067), RBI (8) and on-base percentage (.647)
- Hit her first career grand slam
- Upped her season batting average 20 points

2012 Quick Hits:

- Starting center fielder, third in hitting (.382), second in OBP (.483)
- Earned an All-Pac-12 honorable mention
- Named to the Chevron Spring Fling All-Tournament Team

2011 Quick Hits:

- Batted a team-best .458 in the NCAA Tournament, slugging an incredible .625
- Cal's starting center fielder, commanded the outfield in all 58 games
- Hit .271, good for fourth on the team
- An incredibly aggressive baserunner and was 7-for-10 in steals

Women's College World Series (2011):

- Started all three games in center, scored one run and hit .143

Lexington Super Regional (2011):

- Slugged 1.000, tied for first with a .556 on-base percentage, was third on the team, hitting .429
- Hit the game-winning homer in game one and notched two hits, two runs and one walk in game three

2010 Quick Hits:

- Second on the squad in hits with 62, third on the team in batting (.339) and doubles (11)
- Lauded as an All-Pac-10 honorable mention

2009 Quick Hits:

- Pac-10 All-Freshman honorable mention
- Ended the year with a .193 batting average, driving in five RBI and scoring 17 runs off 23 hits
- Went 7-for-9 at the plate in the regional, hitting seven singles and scoring twice

Night and Day: Somewhere in between her freshman (2009) and sophomore seasons (2010), junior Frani Echavarria improved by leaps and bounds. She went from hitting a final .193 with five RBI and 17 runs as a freshman to ending 2010 as the squad's third-best hitter at .339 and with the second-most hits (62) and third-most doubles (11). She received just desserts as a Pac-10 honorable mention.

Law & Order, Frani Style: Following her tenure at Cal, Frani Echavarria has aspirations of going to law school so she can become a defense attorney. She notes that she has always wanted to be a lawyer but would like to help people, thus the career as a public defender, so she can protect the innocent. She is also the first member of her family to attend college.

No Clowning Around: Frani gets nervous around clowns, suffering from coulrophobia.

Why I Have My Number: When I was younger, we were picking out numbers and my coach said, "No one can just wear number 1. Anyone who has number 1 has to have to have an attitude and an edge and be tough on the field." So I asked if I could have the number and he looked at me and said, "Yea you can wear it." I've worn it ever since.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: My walk up songs this year is "Show Me What You Got" by Jay-Z and "Danza Kuduro" by Don Omar and Lucenzo. I chose song one because it's one of those songs that always gets me hyped for the game. I chose song two because the music just makes me feel good and want to dance! It's one of my all-time favorite songs.

Vallejo, Calif./Fairfield High School

2012 Quick Hits:

- Has not played all season; expected to redshirt

2011 Quick Hits:

- Spent majority of time at first but also filled in at second and as designated player
- Achieved mightily in the postseason with a team-high five RBI
- Hit .155, slugged .328 with a .342 on-base percentage
- Led the team and the Conference in hit by pitch at 18
- Was second on the squad with eight doubles
- Also has a program-high hit by pitches in a single season

Women's College World Series (2011):

- Started all three games at first, and was hit by pitch twice

Lexington Super Regional (2011):

- Hit .250 but owned a .500 slugging percentage
- Knocked in a team-high three RBI with two doubles in game three

Louisville Regional (2011):

- Doubled to right to score two vs. Jacksonville State, and scored once in the May 21 game against Louisville

2010 Quick Hits:

- Started seven games, played in 20, primarily at second, short and as a pinchrunner
- Hit .304 with seven hits, two runs and three RBI and an on-base percentage of .515

Personal:

- American studies major with a focus on sickness and disease

Wallaces Breed Athletes: Excelling on the field is something that comes naturally to the Wallace family. Sophomore Jordan Wallace's father, Melvin, played with the San Diego Chargers. Her mother, Wendy, lettered in softball at Sacramento State.

Getting Hyphy: Though Jordan Wallace hails from a hotspot for hyphy and rap music in Vallejo, Calif., the sophomore stud is also a big country fan. Taylor Swift, Kellie Pickler and Faith Hill highlight her iPod.

Why I Have My Number: I wear number two because from as long as I can remember, I have a weird thing where I like everything in pairs. I am also a huge Derek Jeter fan!

My Walk-Up Songs Are: Well last year my walk up songs were "Poison" by Bel Biv Devoe and "Magic Stick" by 50 Cent and Lil Kim. I chose Poison because it is my favorite. If I was not redshirting this year, my walk up songs would be "Bad Girl" by Usher because it has been one of my favorite songs for a while. My other song would be "My Humps" by the Black Eyed Peas because that song makes me laugh every time I hear it.

Women's College World Series (2011):

- Tallied .182 in batting, slugging and on-base percentage
- Made six put-outs for a 1.000 fielding percentage

Lexington Super Regional (2011):

- Was .222 across the board – hitting, slugging and on-base percentage

2010 Quick Hits:

- Led the U.S. delegation to gold medals at the Japan Cup over the 2010 summer
- Named to the All-Pac-10 first team and the Louisville Slugger/NFCA Division I All-Region First Team
- Became Cal's all-time steals leader, amassing 95 career steals at the end of her sophomore campaign
- Led Cal in multiple categories: batting average (.380), hits (78), triples (5), at bats (205)

2009 Quick Hits:

- Broke the school single-season record with her 29th stolen base, finished the season with 47 steals, which was tops in the Pac-10 and third in the nation per game
- Earned First Team All-Pacific Region honors as well as to the Pac-10 All-Freshman Squad
- Was not caught stealing from 3/7-5/9, a span of 33 games

Speed Demon: It took all but one season for junior Jamia Reid to run her way into the record books in steals. With her holding down the No. 1 spot in the Cal record books, it is no surprise that she excelled on the track as well. During her freshman year of high school, Reid was a key member of the Kennedy Park High School's 400-yard relay team that set a state record.

McDonald's for Me: While playing in Japan with the U.S. Futures National Team, Jamia Reid did not particularly enjoy the Japanese fare. Instead, the Buena Park, Calif., native ate at McDonald's, a restaurant she does not normally frequent.

All in the Family: Jamia Reid and Elia Reid are identical twins.

Why I Have My Number: It was between three different numbers that I could possibly want. I wanted 4 originally, but that was already taken. Then I was thinking maybe 2 or 7, but I didn't like those enough. So since there were three numbers, I decided to be 3. It turns out a lot of my friends have this number.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: "Mirror" by Wayne because it reminds me to be me and no matter what to never give up on myself. "Do My Thing" by Hwood because I really liked the beat of this song and the lyrics say exactly what I am trying to do – do my thing. You have to be yourself and do what works for you. You never have to do too much.

Napa Calif./Napa High School
Undeclared Major

2012 Quick Hits

- Has seen time in 14 games, primarily at first
- Hitting, slugging and has an on-base percentage of .333

2011 Quick Hits

- Started 14 games, playing in 23
- Hit .111 with three hits in 27 at-bats, and had three RBI and three walks

High School:

- Twice named to the All-State team and Napa County Player of the Year
- Four-time all-MEL player
- Helped her Napa High School team to two MEL championships
- Played two years of basketball

Personal:

- Parents are Rick and Minda Robben
- Sister, Ricci Robben, played softball at Wisconsin
- Would like to attend dental school after Cal
- Undeclared major but considering American studies or media studies
- Chose Cal because it has great athletics, but at the same time she will get an amazing education

Bad to the Bone: The summer before college, Alex Robben broke her hand after a line drive came back at her, and she still managed to start practice on time.

When I Grow Up: As a child, Alex Robben dreamed of becoming a grocery bagger. Now that she's slightly older, the Napa, Calif., native hopes to attend dental school.

Why I Have My Number: My favorite number is 22, but it was already taken when I got here. The number 22 has been in my family all my life and I have had it ever since I started playing. I thought 4 would be a good number with which to start my college career.

My Walk-Up Song Is: My walk up song is "Brighter Than the Sun" by Colbie Caillat. It is a different kind of walk up song that makes me smile when I hear it, which positively motivates me when I get up to bat.

- Led the Bear starters in Pac-10 play, hitting .327
- Notched 47 total bases and stole 13 bases

2009 Quick Hits:

- Named to the Pac-10 All-Freshman team, racking up 26 stolen bases, 27 RBI, six home runs

All in the Family: As if their similar-sounding names and comparable looks weren't enough, Jamia Reid and Elia Reid are identical twins.

Humble Beginnings: Jamia and Elia Reid got started playing softball when their mother signed them up when they were eight-years-old, just so they would have something to do because cheerleading and dance class were not working out for the Reid twins.

Like a G6: As a prepster Elia Reid also competed in track and was an all-county performer in the 200-meter race. She still ranks on the Orange County High School Girls All-Time Top-25 List in the 100 and 200-meter events.

Why I Have My Number: I was number 1 all through travel ball but wore 5 in high school, so 5 grew on me over the three years. But I think it's meant to be because the letter E is the fifth letter of the alphabet.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: "Best Love Song" by T-Pain because it's one of those catchy songs that get stuck in your head. "Playa Like Me" by Keak da Sneak because I have to have at least one Bay Area song.

#6 TAYLOR VINCENT

C – R/R – 5-6 – So. – IV

Pleasanton, Calif./Foothill High School

Math & Physics Major

2012 Quick Hits:

- Filled in at catcher, hitting .667

2011 Quick Hits:

- Cal's back-up catcher, the go-to catcher in the bullpen
- Hit 1.000 in one at-bat
- Played in three games

High School:

- Was a North Coast Section CIF scholar-athlete from 2007-10 and a member of the National Honor Society in 2010
- Made the Principal's List every year from 2007-10 and was a three-time recipient of the Falcon Pride Award
- First-team All-League in 2010
- Led her Foothill High School team to 2007 EBAL and NCS championships and an EBAL title in 2008
- Served as president and founder of the Physics Club and participated in the Tobacco Use Prevention Education program
- Also held the office of vice-president her junior year and president her senior year

Club Ball:

- In 2009, played for Sorcerer Phil 18 Gold team that won the 18 Gold National Championship

Personal:

- Parents are Richard and Teri Vincent
- Father owns an MBA from Pepperdine while her mother is a nurse with certification in high-risk obstetrics
- Chose Cal because it offered her the opportunity to play for a top-25 division I program while getting a degree from one of the top-ranked physics departments in the world
- Notes her best sports moment was storming the field at Easton Stadium in Oklahoma City after her team won the National Championship last summer
- Physics and math double major
- In her spare time, she is an ASA umpire
- Has an aunt who attended Cal and a cousin who competed collegiately in gymnastics and was an alternate for the Olympic team

Brainiac Alert: Though all Cal student-athletes have smarts, ensuring they get into the No. 1 public institution in America, Taylor paces the Bears in brain power. At Foothill High School, Vincent served as the president and founder of the Physics Club. Majoring in math and physics as an undergraduate, Vincent hopes to get her Ph.D. in biophysics from Cal and to work on advancements in human prosthetics. She was a North Coast Section CIF scholar athlete from 2007-10 and a member of the National Honor Society in 2010.

Why I Have My Number: I wanted 7 (Ari's number), but she asked for it first so I settled for one less. Seven is the most magically powerful number... Or it was one of the first numbers I was given when I started playing and it stuck with me.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: My walk-up songs are "I've Got My Mind Set on You" by George Harrison and "Lover, Lover" by Jerrod Niemann because they are both upbeat songs that bring a smile to my face and help me relax in the batter's box.

#7 ARIANNA ERCEG

P – R/R – 6-0 – So. – IV

Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif./Palos Verdes High School

2012 Quick Hits:

- Pitched 9.2 innings over six games
- Out for the season

2011 Quick Hits:

- Cal's secondary pitcher, putting in 47.1 innings of work
- Owned a 5.32 ERA and a 5-3 overall record
- Earned wins against Oregon and Arizona, both of which were ranked
- Had one hit and two runs scored in five at-bats for a .200 average

Lexington Super Regional (2011):

- Made her collegiate postseason debut in game two
- Faced 14 batters in two innings, giving up four hits

High School:

- Named the MVP of the Bay League in 2009 and 2010
- Lauded with placement on the 2009 and 2010 All-Bay League and All-Area teams
- Landed on the 2010 All-CIF team and All-State team
- Led Palos Verdes High School to the Bay League Championship in 2009 and 2010
- Was a four-year member of the school's AVID program and was a CSF member

Club Ball:

- Took third place at the 2010 ESPN Rise Premier Nationals with Orange County Batbusters 18 Gold
- Won the U-16 Boulder Independence Day Tournament in 2009
- Lead the Orange County Batbusters to a first-place finish at the 2009 16U Southern California ASA state championship
- Her So Cal Batbusters team took third place at the 14U nationals in 2007

Personal:

- Parents are Slaven and Danielle Erceg
- Notes that her best sports moment was hitting a walk-off homerun in the playoffs of her senior season in high school
- Has always dreamed of playing in the Pac-10

She's a Toys R US Kid: Standing in at 6-0, freshman pitcher Arianna Erceg is easily the tallest Bear on the Cal team. With her vertical reach, the team has taken to calling her a giraffe and even suggested the Toys R Us theme song be her walk-up song.

Stevie Wonder's Inspiration: It's left before right for hurler Arianna Erceg. When getting dressed for games and practice, the Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif., native always has to put her left cleat on before her right. With practices like that, she could have served as the inspiration for Stevie Wonder's famous song "Superstition."

Why I Have My Number: The reason why I am number 7 is because it was the number given to me on my first all-star team when I was eight-years-old. I have only been that number ever since.

My Walk-Up Song Is: My pitching song is the theme song to "Space Jam." I personally think this is one of the greatest sport songs ever, and it always pumps me up. "Space Jam" is also one of my favorite movies!

#8 DANIELLE HENDERSON

3B/C – R/R – 5-5 – Fr. – HS

Elk Grove, Calif./Sheldon High School

Berkeley Regional

- Hit .200 with one homer and four RBI
- Played errorless ball at third in all five games

2012 Quick Hits:

- Named to the Pacific Region First Team, an All-Pac-12 honorable mention and to the All-Freshman Team
- Starting third baseman, making an incredible two errors
- Hitting .289 is second on the team in homers (15) and RBI (45)

High School:

- Led Sheldon to 2008-09 CIF championships and a 2009 Nike Faster to First title
- The 2009 squad was ranked first in the nation by USA Today/NFCA
- Three-time scholar-athlete
- Thrice named to the All-Delta River League First Team
- Played volleyball her junior year
- 2011 Sacramento Bee Player of the Year
- 2011 ESPN RISE West Player of the Week
- Placed on the 2011 All-California Team
- Three-time Rivercats' All-City Team

Club Ball:

- Played at the 2011 Under Armour All-America Game
- 2010 ESPN Rise All-State Softball First Team
- Won 2008 I6U nationals with Lady Magic Softball in Kentucky
- Lady Magic took second at the 2010 Colorado Independence Tournament
- Co-champions of I6U Batbusters Best of the West

Personal:

- Parents are Mickey and Joe Henderson, both of whom attended Idaho State
- Best sports moment was when her Lady Magic team won I6U nationals in 2008, when she made the last out of the game by catching a line drive from a slapper
- Goes by the nickname Hendu, which she's had since she was eight

Sister, Sister: Though they may have strikingly different hair, Danielle is the younger sister of junior Jolene Henderson. Jolene often comments that she made Danielle choose Cal so that Danielle wouldn't hit homers off her. Though he's not on the softball team, the middle Henderson sibling – David – is also a student at Cal.

Dr. Hendu: Danielle would love a career as a pediatrician because she finds it amusing to entertain little kids. She has always found an interest in the medical field because doctors and nurses change people's lives every day.

Why I Wear My Number: I've had the number 8 since I started softball. I started with it because it was my mom's favorite number and I have had it ever since! When I didn't make the all-star team and was in tears, my sister took number 8 for me.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: My first walk up song is "Slight Work" by Wale. I made it my walk up song because every time I go into the batter's box, I remember that I have worked hard for that very moment, so I should just relax and have some fun. My next walk up song is "Oh Let's Do It" by Lil Wayne because it gets me pumped up to go up to bat. When I hear that Lil Wayne song, it reminds me of let's get it done right here, right now. I have fun with it.

Berkeley Regional

- Hit and slugged .235, drove in three RBI
- Played errorless ball at second in all five games

2012 Quick Hits:

- Moved to second base this season, has been the team's most clutch hitter
- Named an All-Pac-12 honorable mention

2011 Quick Hits:

- Third on the team in the NCAA Tournament, hitting .379 and slugging .517
- Named to the NCFA All-Pacific Region First Team and All-Pac-10 Second Team
- Named a Pac-10 All-Academic Honorable Mention and Easton Third-Team All-American
- Had a team-high 42 RBI and slugged .491 and boasted an on-base percentage of .474, was third on the squad, batting .382
- A dynamic third baseman, owned a .966 fielding average in 58 starts
- Tied for first on the squad with 26 walks

Women's College World Series (2011):

- Was third on the team, hitting .300
- Sent in one RBI and slugged .500

Lexington Super Regional (2011):

- Second on the squad, batting .444 and a .556 slugging percentage

2010 Quick Hits:

- Played in and started 62 games at third, in the outfield or as designated player
- Slugged .390 and was third on the team with 31 RBI and second with 41 walks
- Third amongst the Bears with a .447 on-base percentage
- All-Pac-10 honorable mention

Columbus Regional (2010):

- Played third base against Ohio State, making one put out and three flawless assists
- Filled in as the designated player vs. Kentucky

2008 Quick Hits (at Washington):

- Second-team All-Pac-10 and named to the Pac-10 All-Freshman team
- Ranked second on the team with a .333 batting average, .503 slugging percentage and 12 doubles, while also tying for second with 34 RBI and 29 runs scored
- Led the team with a .411 on-base percentage, while her 18 walks tied for the team lead

Iron Lion Zion: One of Jace Williams' favorite types of music is reggae, and not just because it is her namesake. She inherited her taste in music from her mother, who came up with middle name Marlee for her first-born daughter. Jace notes that 95 percent of the music on her iPod is reggae.

Why I Have My Number: When I was younger, I was really into soccer and wanted to be like Mia Hamm. So I copied her and chose 9 because that was her jersey number."

My Walk-Up Songs Are: 'Fortunate Son' by Creedence Clearwater Revival because this song is so American and classic I absolutely love it. 'Forest Gump' is one of my favorite movies and this song played during one of my favorite scenes. 'World A Reggae' by Ini Kamoze is my other song. I am a true Rastafarian at heart, and reggae music is my favorite genre. A lot of the reggae that I like is too mellow for an at bat song so I picked this one by Ini Kamoze because his songs are a little more upbeat than a lot of the other reggae artists I like. Bob Marley is a legend, and no one will ever be as good as he was, I just need to throw that one out there."

IF/C – R/R – 5-6 – So. – 1V

Oceanside, Calif./Vista High School

Berkeley Regional

- Hit .364 with one RBI in 11 at-bats, slugging .727
- Started all five games, four behind the plate and one at first

2012 Quick Hits:

- Catches for Jolene Henderson or plays first base
- Consistent hitter, batting .333, slugging .579, OBP .38

2011 Quick Hits:

- Exploded in the postseason, hitting .333 (.365 before the WCWS) with three sacrifice hits and four RBI
- Became Cal's starting second baseman but also caught
- Upped her batting average to .225 from .196 after the Lexington Super Regional
- Knocked in 23 RBI
- Put down team-high six sacrifice hits
- Was six of seven in stolen bases

Women's College World Series (2011):

- Hit .250 in eight at-bats with one RBI

Lexington Super Regional (2011):

- Hit a team-best .556, also rocked a .556 in slugging and on-base percentage
- Had two RBI in game three

High School:

- Was First-Team All-Palomar League, First-Team All-North County, First-Team All-CIF and Most Valuable Player for her high school softball team during 2008 and 2010
- Named the Athlete of the Year during her senior year
- Played varsity soccer and was named Best Offensive Player her sophomore and senior years

Club Ball:

- In 2009, played for Sorcerer Phil 18 Gold team that won the 18 Gold National Championship
- Attended ASA national championships every year from 2003-10
- Played in the Premiere National Championships in 2010

Personal:

- Parents are Charles and Rosa Jones
- One of her great grandfathers played professional baseball for the Boston Braves

Awkward Turtle: On the first day of conditioning, Victoria made her presence known. She tripped and fell in front of the entire Cal football team.

Olympic Dreams: As a child, Victoria dreamed of representing the United States at the Olympic Games. But it was not the softball squad that Jones had her eyes on – it was the soccer team. At Vista High School, she made varsity soccer and was named the best offensive player her sophomore and senior years and notes that her best sports moment was traveling to Italy and Sweden to play soccer in the Gothia Cup.

Why I Have My Number: I've always had two favorite numbers: 3 and 10. Three was always softball and 10 was always my soccer number. They were both given to me when I was very young. Since Jamia has 3, I went with 10. I still draw a three in the box before every pitch.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: My walk-up songs are "Get Down On It" by Kool and the Gang and "Do It Big" by Soulja Boy. My first song was one of my favorites when I was younger, and the lyrics of my second song pump me up.

- Named to the Capital One Academic District 8 First-Team and the Pac-10 All-Academic First Team

Women's College World Series (2011):

- Tallied one RBI, hitting .200 in 10 at-bats
- Caught all three games

Lexington Super Regional (2011):

- Slugged .556 thanks to a two-run homer in game three
- Caught and called all three games

2010 Quick Hits:

- Cal's starting catcher, starting all 63 games
- All-Pac-10 honorable mention and named to the All-Freshman Team
- Second on the squad with 15 homers, 58 RBI, .562 slugging percentage, 13 doubles and 109 bases

High School:

- Two-time ESPN/Under-Armor First-Team All-American (2008, 2009) and a 2008 EA Sports All-America second teamer

You Look Familiar: Lindsey is not the first in her family to attend Cal for her older sister, Katie, graduated in 2010 from Berkeley. Though they may be a few years apart, Lindsey and Katie still get mistaken for each other.

Mama's Girl: Prior to coming to Cal, Lindsey Ziegenhirt's mother, Laura, had been on the coaching staff for almost all of Lindsey's softball teams. Now that Lindsey is a Golden Bear, Laura still travels to every game to watch Lindsey and the pair breaks down the game together as if nothing has changed. A collegiate letterwinner herself, Laura played for Pacific, which she guided the Tigers to the Women's College World Series as a senior captain.

Back on the Playground: Lindsey Ziegenhirt and Jolene Henderson have been battery mates since they were seven-years-old. Growing up together just outside of Sacramento in Elk Grove, Calif., the pair went from rec ball teams to ASA to high school and now Cal. When looking at colleges, they wanted to go to one together and found a perfect fit in Berkeley.

Why I Have My Number: A really, really long time ago, I was number 5. I grew out of the jersey and the only number left was 17. It was funny because my sister was number 7, so the joke is that I always try and one-up her so I had to be 17. I've had the number ever since.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: My two walk up songs are "Paradise City" by Guns 'N Roses and "Stronger (What Doesn't Kill You)" by Kelly Clarkson. I chose the Guns 'N Roses song because I enjoy a great guitar, and I chose Kelly Clarkson because I like the motto that her song expresses.

#18 BRITT VONK

IF/DP – L/R – 5-7 – So. – IV

Enschede, Netherlands/Het Stedelijk Lyceum Zuid

Berkeley Regional

- Second on the team in hitting (.529), slugging (.765) and third in OBP (.556)
- Served as DP for all five games, hitting her first homer of the year

2012 Quick Hits:

- Had shoulder surgery over the summer, is reigning DP
- Hitting .355, slugging .418 with 22 RBI
- Named the Chevron Spring Fling MVP

2011 Quick Hits:

- Placed on the NCFA All-Pacific Region First Team
- First on the team, hitting .415, started all 58 games at short
- Named to the All-Pac-10 Second Team and All-freshman team
- Her on-base percentage of .502 ranked her first amongst the Bears
- Second on the team in the NCAA Tournament, hitting .419
- Knocked in 13 RBI and led the Bears with 26 walks

Women's College World Series (2011):

- Led the Bears, hitting .455 with five hits in 11 at-bats
- Slugged .545 and had a .455 on-base percentage

Lexington Super Regional (2011):

- Was fourth on the team, hitting .300

Pre-Cal Ball:

- Played with the Netherlands national team at the 2008 Olympics
- Was recognized in 2008 as the best hitter at the Mastenbroek Tournament and awarded the Bep van Beijmerwerdt Trophy as the most talented youth Dutch player
- Lauded as the best hitter at the 2010 International Indoor Cup
- With her club team, the Tex Town Tigers, she was a two-time national champion
- Member of the track and field team in her hometown Enschede

Personal:

- After attaining her bachelor's degree, she would like to get a master's in a field relating to psychology
- Father, Theo Vonk, played professional soccer in the Netherlands, mother, Tanja Reijerink, played professional water polo in the Netherlands and her brother plays soccer
- Would love to go on a journey around the world some day

Backpacking Around Europe: While some students may move around a country or a state multiple times before college, Britt lived in different countries. She spent most of her youth in the Netherlands, but she also spent a year living in Spain while her father, Theo, coached a Spanish soccer team.

The Conquering Olympian: Britt Vonk has one thing no other current Bear can claim: experience in the Olympic Games. Vonk played for the Dutch national team at the 2008 Olympics, which she notes as one of her best sporting moments. Her other is being the Dutch champions with the Tex Town Tigers.

Why I Have My Number: The reason why I picked number 18 is a little bit silly. I've worn it since I was 13-years-old and I don't want to replace it. I once saw "The Replacements." It's a movie about football, and even though we don't play football back in Holland, I thought it was a pretty good and inspiring movie. The football star in that movie had number 18, so that's why I picked it.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: My first song is "Epic" by Sandro Silve & Quintino and the second song is "Calling" by Sebastian Ingrosso & Alesso. They are both techno songs that my brother picked out for me! They get me really pumped up and it reminds me of home!

Personal:

- Finished her degree requirements a semester early (December 2011)
- Took a laughter and mediation class spring semester
- Hopes to get into the communications field, such as TV broadcasting

Mama and Me: If Valerie Arioto is at a game, you can bet her mother is, too. Most of the time, both of Arioto's parents make the trip. Her mom has traveled with her twice to Japan when Arioto played with the U.S. Futures Team.

Why I Have My Number: I wear 20 just because I always have!

My Walk-Up Song Is: "Valerie" by Amy Winehouse and "I Want to Dance With Somebody" by Whitney Houston. I had to pick "Valerie" because of course it is my name! Whitney is just classic, and that song puts me in a good mood and makes me want to dance!

#22 MARY LEE

IF – R/R – 5-7 – Fr. – HS

San Diego/Torrey Pines High School

2012 Quick Hits:

- Played in 16 games at either second or pinch hitter
- Has one RBI

High School:

- Team captain of the Torrey Pines HS varsity softball squad
- Torrey Pines Scholar-Athlete in each of her four years of high school
- As a senior, given the Varsity Golden Falcon Award, an All-Palomar League Honorable Mention and landed on the San Diego Union Tribune All-Academic Team
- In 2010 as a junior, lauded with the CIF Championship Game Sportsmanship Award, Falcon Fiesta Championship Game Sportsmanship Award, All-Avocado League Honorable Mention and was on the San Diego Union Tribune All-Academic Team after leading her team to second place in San Diego Section and Avocado League championship
- During her sophomore year (2009), was the varsity defensive MVP and an All-Avocado League Honorable Mention after her team won the Avocado League
- Named the rookie of the year on the varsity team as a freshman
- Member of the National Honor Society and California Scholarship Federation
- Also played volleyball her freshman and sophomore years at Torrey Pines HS and for Epic Volleyball Club

Club Ball:

- Captain of Power Surge 18 Gold from 2010-11
- Played in 18 Gold ASA Nationals in 2010 with Power Surge
- Took ninth place in ASA 12U Nationals with San Diego Renegades

Personal:

- Chose Cal because she has been rooting for Cal softball since she was a kid and for its strong academics, top engineering program and school energy
- Mother, Barbara Lee, attended Purdue University and father, Jason Lee, attended Cal
- Has a wing span of six feet
- Played all nine positions at some point between high school and travel ball
- Volunteered at the Del Mar Library and in the youth recreational North Shore Girls Softball League

Walk-On Wonder: Mary tried out for the Cal softball team this past fall, and made the team. Mary noted that she planned to keep attending practice until someone told her no, and no one ever did because she's so great.

Brainiac Alert: Mary is majoring in mechanical engineering. She interned at Maxwell Technologies and participated in the FIRST FRC Robotics Competition as a senior. She would like to pursue a career in the field of human prosthetics or aerospace.

Destined to Be a Bear: Though Mary is the only one of the five freshmen to not hail from Northern California, her Cal roots run deeper than any of the other first years for she has been a Golden Bear fan for years. Lee attended her first Cal football game at age three and her first softball game – one against Stanford – at age 10, so selecting Berkeley was an easy choice for the San Diego native. Her father, Jason, attended Cal.

Why I Wear My Number: No. 22 was offered to me, so I was excited to have it. I used to be No. 2 so what can be better than two twos?!

My Walk-Up Songs Are: My walk-up songs are “Bad to the Bone” by George Thorogood and “Do You Believe in Magic?” by the Lovin’ Spoonful. I chose “Bad to the Bone” because I’ve had it as a walk-up song since high school, and it is a fun way to characterize myself. I chose “Do You Believe in Magic?” because it is upbeat and you can’t help but smile when you hear the song play.

- Nevada State Champions in 2006 with her 14U team, as well as in 2005 with the 12U

Personal:

- Parents are Troy and Kim Decker

Have Bike and Phone, Will Travel: If you ask Ashley what's one thing she cannot live without, she will answer her phone. In her spare time, in addition to talking on the phone, Decker enjoys riding motorcycles and camping.

Native Nevadan: Of the eight freshman and 19 student-athletes on the squad, Ashley Decker is the only American not from the state of California. Decker came to Berkeley by way of Sparks, Nev. In each of her four years as a prepster at Spanish Springs High School, Decker was named first-team all-state and all-league, winning three Nevada state championships.

Why I Have My Number: My favorite numbers are 1, 22 and 23. I was number 1 in high school, was born on the 22nd and I just like the number 23. At Cal, I asked for 23, which was also my travel ball number.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: "Throw Them G's" by Chingy and "T.H.E." by will.i.am. I chose these songs because they represent my taste in music, and they are good pump up songs.

#24 LARISA JONES

OF – L/R – 5-4 – So. – IV

Concord, Calif./Clayton Valley High School

2012 Quick Hits:

- Serves mainly as a speedy pinch runner or in the outfield
- Slugging .714, hitting .429

2011 Quick Hits:

- Appeared in 18 games, starting three
- Owned a .300 batting average with three hits in 10 at-bats
- Served as a pinch runner at the Women's College World Series
- Had one steal in three attempts and two RBI

High School:

- Named the MVP of her Clayton Valley squad as well as DVAL
- Played on the second-team All-East Bay, first-team All-DVAL and given an All-BVAL honorable mention
- Took part in NCS all four years and was an NCS Scholar Athlete all four years
- Member of the 4.0 club and also played varsity golf

Club Ball:

- Attended 14U, 16U and 18U Gold nationals

Personal:

- Parents are Dennis and LaRae Jones
- Intended social welfare major
- Goes by the nickname "LaLa"
- Is contemplating joining the Peace Corps and attending culinary school after college
- Chose Cal because previous Cal softball players coached and mentored her at a young age

Diamonds on the Soles of Her Shoes: LaRisa Jones has some of the most unique footwear of any Bear on campus. In her spare time, Jones enjoys painting designs on shoes.

Golden-Bear Influence: One of the leading influences is LaRisa Jones' decision to come to Cal was the presence of former Cal softball players. Hailing from nearby Concord, Calif., Jones grew up around former players and watched many a game at Levine-Fricke Field.

Why I Have My Number: My favorite number is 12, but my number is 24, which is 12 doubled. Everything is better doubled.

My Walk-Up Song Is: "You're Not Berkeley Enough" by DJ Fog and Smog, because it reps three things that mean a lot to me – the Bay Area, granola, and obviously organic food. The other is "Toxic" by Britney Spears because who doesn't love Britney?"

- Finished her prep career with a .580 batting average and 47 homers across four years, which ties her for fourth place on the California High School Maxpreps all-time list
- As a senior in 2011, she tied for 1st place on the Maxpreps California list with 15 HR, was named the Female Athlete of the Year by the Santa Cruz Sentinel and was named the Santa Cruz Coast Athletic League Most Valuable Player after leading her squad to the SCCAL Championship
- As a senior, she was an All-Santa Cruz Coast Athletic League selection, named by Cal-Hi Sports to the Overall All-State Softball First Team and named to the ESPN RISE All-American and the All-California Team
- Following her junior year, in which her AHS squad won the league championship, she was an All-League Selection, named by Cal-Hi Sports to the Overall All-State Softball Second Team, the Medium School All-State Softball First Team and the Underclass All-State Softball First Team
- In 2009, the Santa Cruz Sentinel lauded her as the Santa Cruz County Softball Player of the Year and landed on the Cal-Hi Sports' All-State Softball Second Team and Underclass All-State Softball First Team
- Participant in the University of California Top Four Percent Academic Admittance Policy and was an AP Scholar with Distinction Award

Club Ball:

- Starting third baseman on nationally ranked Sorcerer 18 Gold Mumma from 2007-11
- Won the ASA 18 Gold National Champion in 2009
- Invited to try out for the Junior National Team in June 2010
- Led her squad to the 2008 Louisville/TPS Independence Day Tournament Championship in Boulder, Colo.
- Fresno Force Classic 14U Champions in 2006

Personal:

- Intended engineering major
- Parents are Brian and Lucy Kostreba
- Dreamed of being a CIA agent as a child
- The best piece of advice she received was to stop pitching; the worst piece of advice was that she should be a cheerleader

Award-Winning Scientist Coming Through: As if excelling in the classroom and on the softball field wasn't enough, Breana was also involved in the Aptos High School Robotic Club. The club won the 2011 International Mate ROV, an underwater robotics competition, in Houston after placing third in 2010

A Strong Connection to 2002: Growing up in Santa Cruz County, Breana and teammate Nikki Owens spent time training at Santa Cruz Strength, a weight lifting and conditioning gym owned by none other than former Golden Bear Jocelyn Forest. In 2002, Forest led the Golden Bears to their first-ever NCAA Championship.

I Wear My Number Because: I chose No. 25 because Jason Giambi and Barry Bonds were my favorites when I was younger.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: I picked my songs because they calm me and allow me to focus on my at bat. They are also my favorite pre-game songs. I chose "Verbing the Noun" by Bassnectar and "Ghosts N Stuff" by Deadmau5.

2012 Quick Hits:

- Named to the Pac-12 All-Freshman Team
- Starting shortstop, making just six errors across 59 starts
- Hitting .260, slugging .413

High School:

- Accumulated countless awards during her senior season, highlighted by the California Gatorade Player of the Year, All-State First-Team, ESPN RISE and Max Preps All-State First-Team, the California Medium Schools Player of the Year, Max Preps All-American and ESPN RISE First-Team All-American
- Played at the 2011 Under Armour Game as an All-American
- Was a finalist for the Max Preps National Player of the Year and California Ms. Softball
- In 2011, was the All-City Player of the Year and her high school's female athlete of the year
- Named First-Team All-State Underclassman in 2009 and 2010
- Named First-Team all-league and league MVP four times after leading RHS to four SCAC League titles
- Lauded as the 2010 and the 2011 Daily Republic Female Athlete of the Year
- Took her Rodriguez High School team to a SCAC League championship and Champions of the Sac-Joaquin Division III Section in 2011

- In 2011 with the Lady Magic, she hit .476 and took seventh at nationals
- Won a gold medal with the Americans at the Pan-American games in 2010 in Bogota, Colombia
- In 2009, her ASA team took third at the Champions Cup and 24th at ASA Gold Nationals
- Won the Independence Day 16U Championship and national championship in 2008

Personal:

- Mother, Tracy Cordes, attended Sacramento State, and is Cheyenne's personal hero
- Considering a media studies major
- Almost committed to UCLA, but a trip to the Cal campus sealed the deal and has been a Cal fan since 2002

Can't Keep Her Down: Cheyenne was always told that she would never play softball at a Pac-12 college. Instead of accepting this as truth, she turned it into part of her motivation.

The Next Erin Andrews: After graduating, Cheyenne hopes to continue playing for the national team. Her ultimate goal is to be an ESPN sports anchor.

Why I Wear My Number: I am No. 27 because Natasha Watley was No. 27 in college, and I aspire to be as good as her and maybe even better.

My Walk-Up Song Is: My first walk up song is "Time Has Come Today" by the Chambers Brothers. I chose this particular song because I love the movie "Remember the Titans" and this song is in that movie, and this song gets me pumped. My second walk up song is "The Imperial March (Darth Vader's Theme)" from "Star Wars" I chose this song because it was one of Derek Jeter's walk-up songs. I am the biggest Derek Jeter fan ever and I aspire to be as great as he is one day.

Undeclared Major

Berkeley Regional

- Posted a 0.71 ERA in 29.2 innings of work, going 4-0 with three shutouts

2012 Quick Hits:

- Pac-12 Pitcher of the Year, finalist for national player of the year, five-time Pac-12 Pitcher of the Week
- Can also hit, batting .284 and slugging .403

2011 Quick Hits:

- Named an Easton First-Team All-American and the Pac-10 Pitcher of the Year
- Placed on the NCFA All-Pacific Region First Team and the All-Pac-10 First Team
- Had a 1.88 ERA in the postseason, posting a 6-3 record
- Became the all-time single-season wins leader; ended the season with 40
- Pitched 18 shutouts, two one-hitters, two no-hitters and one perfect game
- Struck out 333 batters and limited them to a .189 batting average
- Awarded the Pac-10 Pitcher of the Week award five times

Women's College World Series (2011):

- Pitched all 19 innings, going 1-2 in the circle and fanning 20 batters

Lexington Super Regional (2011):

- Went 2-1 with a 2.19 ERA, pitching two complete-game shutouts and a one-hitter in game one

2010 Quick Hits:

- Had a 1.43 ERA in 192.2 innings of work, notching three complete-game one-hitters
- Placed on the All-Pac-10 second team and All-Freshman team
- Possessed a 0.59 ERA in nonconference play prior to Supers

Bench Warmer: During her first years as a young softball player, Jolene was not very good. Her first coaches had to move her from the outfield, where she sat picking flowers, to the infield.

Not a Natural Pitcher? When Jolene first started pitching, she hated it because she wasn't very good, hurling the ball over the backstop on multiple occasions. She did that so much that her ball league made a limit to the number of times a pitcher could do that before being pulled. That did not matter to Jolene, who purposefully threw the ball over the backstop to be pulled.

Family Ties: Her father, Joe, coached her and her younger sister Danielle for years. Daniell was Jolene's teammate on multiple teams, as well, and has joined her this year in Berkeley. Jolene often jokes that she demanded Danielle attend Cal so that the younger Henderson wouldn't hit home runs off Jolene. The middle sibling - David - also attends Cal.

Why I Have My Number: I wear 54 because it was my dad's football number. I've always been a lot like my dad and I look up to him because he and my mom have taught me so much and made me into the person I am today. My parents do so much for me and always have. I wear 54 to be like my dad – strong, caring, determined and controlled – and I braid my hair for my mom.

My Walk-Up Songs Are: "Stadium" by Cyhi Da Prynce. The opening stanza, "Take me to the stadium I'm going to play my heart out there," is what I do every time I take the field. I love playing this sport, and I love the competition of the sport so it really just hits home.

Scotts Valley, Calif./Scotts Valley HS

2012 Quick Hits:

- Has not played

High School:

- Only played part of her senior season but still posted an 8-4 record in 74 innings of work with a 0.48 ERA and limiting opposing teams to a combined .065
- As a junior and sophomore, was named First-Team All-League and First-Team All-County
- Was her prep team's MVP as a freshman and sophomore as well as sharing that title with a teammate as a junior

Club Ball:

- Went to nationals twice with her 16U team
- Played on the San Jose Lady Sharks Gold

Personal:

- Would like to play abroad following Cal
- Sister Michelle competed in cross country at Bethany University
- Parents are Carl and Pam Owens
- Mother Pam attended Cabrillo College

A Strong Connection to 2002: Growing up in Santa Cruz County, Nikki and Cal teammate Breana Kostreba spent time training at Santa Cruz Strength, a weight lifting and conditioning gym owned by none other than former Golden Bear Jocelyn Forest. In 2002, Forest led the Golden Bears to their first-ever NCAA Championship. Nikki notes that her biggest role model is Forest.

An Unconventional Schooling Route: Nikki was homeschooled until eighth grade. She also skipped kindergarten, so she is a full year younger than the other girls in her recruiting class.

Why I Wear My Number: I wear No. 72 because it was my dad's football number in high school.

My Walk-Up Song Is: My pitching walk-up song is "Rollin" by Lil Wayne because it slaps.

Cal Softball Clippings

Top-seeded Cal overwhelms Arkansas twice

By Jeff Faraudo – Bay Area News Group – May 20, 2012

Top-seeded Cal's second-round loss to Arkansas in the NCAA Berkeley softball regional turned out to be merely a hiccup.

The Golden Bears sent the Razorbacks home Sunday after victories by scores of 10-2 and 7-0, pocketing the regional title in front of 1,027 fans at Levine-Fricke Field.

Cal (54-5) will host Pac-12 rival Washington (39-17) this weekend in a best-of-three super regional series with a trip to the College World Series at stake. The Huskies finished eighth in the Pac-12 but gave Cal three tough games, losing 2-1, 5-3 and 6-4 in Berkeley.

The Razorbacks (29-28), who finished tied for last in the SEC Western Division and lost 10 straight games at one point this season, were positioned to pull a monumental upset. But one day after pushing the Bears to the edge of elimination with a 3-2 victory, they were overmatched.

"You can't sleep on us," said Cal senior Frani Echavarria, who was 4 for 4 with two doubles, a grand slam and six RBIs in the opener and batted .600 for the regional. "This team will fight all the way to the end."

Junior Jolene Henderson (34-2), who struck out the final three batters to end the first game, pitched a five-hitter in the nightcap. Henderson was 4-0 with an ERA of 0.71 and 35 strikeouts in 292/3 innings in the regional.

"This is what we live for. I'm a pitcher -- I want to pitch," said Henderson, who threw 177 pitches Sunday and 424 for the weekend.

The Hogs tried to work around Pac-12 Player of the Year Valerie Arioto, walking the senior from Pleasanton six times in the two games Sunday. She was given free passes -- intentionally or otherwise -- 13 times in five regional games.

Echavarria, moved up to the cleanup spot behind Arioto, made sure it didn't matter. Her first grand slam at any level caused her to tear up while rounding the bases and left her feeling vindicated.

"It's part of the game, but I think I took it personally, as well," she said of the Razorbacks walking Arioto in front of her. "As a senior I'm just trying to live out every day."

After her grand slam, fans chanted "Hip, hip Frani," a nod to Cal basketball star Jorge Gutierrez, her boyfriend, who attended the games. Her blast also caused Game 1 to be halted after five innings by the "mercy" rule.

The Bears took charge early in Game 2. They manufactured three first-inning runs on two singles, a sacrifice bunt, a fielder's choice and a wild pitch. Sophomore Ashley Decker, getting her first start in the regionals, delivered an RBI single to cap the inning.

Cal scored three more in the second when Dutch-born sophomore Britt Vonk smacked her first home run of the season -- a three-run shot -- to right-center. In the first game, Cal freshman Danielle Henderson hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning.

Arkansas had scored its two runs when SEC Freshman of the Year Devon Wallace homered in the bottom of the third.

Hays: Win two or seeds are through

By Graham Hays – ESPN.com – May 19, 2012

Of course this was the first time the No. 1 seed in the NCAA tournament lost a game before a regional final since the event took its current form in 2005. And of course that victim was California, playing at home in the postseason for the first time in two decades after holding down the No. 1 ranking through almost the entire regular season.

The most nonsensical NCAA tournament in recent memory needed an exclamation point that made no sense at all.

The first two full days of the tournament were confounding, chaotic, compelling and a host of other adjectives that begin with other letters. Seeds tumbled, bats shattered, calls were botched, a pedigreed program almost imploded before our eyes and winning runs scored on everything from walk-off home runs to illegal pitches.

Heck, LSU even loaded the bases. Twice.

The bracket toll is remarkable. Six seeded teams must win twice Sunday to stave off elimination. A seventh seeded team, UCLA, won't get even that chance after going "two-and-barbecue" for the first time in program history, exiting after losses at home against Hofstra and Florida State. In addition to its other dubious feat, Cal also became just the second No. 1 seed to lose a game at any point in a regional. At least it gets a chance to redeem itself Sunday.

This was supposed to be the year of the chalk, the tournament's 16 national seeds allowed to host regionals after tweaks to a bracketing system that previously favored geography in determining sites, often forcing seeded teams to play on an opponent's home field. Instead, chaos is cruising and conventional wisdom is mired in the losers' bracket on the verge of elimination.

A year ago at this time, only three seeded teams entered regional finals needing to win twice (a fourth, Texas, had been eliminated earlier). Missouri won twice at home against DePaul, while Tennessee was eliminated at home in the first game against Oklahoma State and Michigan was similarly eliminated at home after one try against Kentucky.

Since the NCAA added super regionals in 2005, 25 teams have been eliminated at home in a regional final. The catch is, only nine of those teams were seeded. That number could nearly double in a few hours Sunday.

Berkeley regional: Arkansas (2-0) vs. No. 1 Cal (2-1)

Softball is a sport that lends itself to the occasional one-game stunner, but considering Arkansas finished ninth in the SEC and played this game on the road against the only team in the tournament that ranks in the top 10 in the nation in ERA, runs per game and fielding percentage, a 3-2 win for the underdog has to at least enter the conversation for biggest upset. Entering the tournament, Cal had allowed just nine first-inning runs all season, but the Razorbacks got three against Valerie Arioto on big hits from Clarisa Navarro and the fabulously named Jennifer Rambo. Now comes the hard part. Arkansas made a habit of taking a game from top teams -- Cal joins a list that includes Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia -- but one was all it got in three-game series against those SEC foes.

BEHIND THE SCENES: Hosting An NCAA Softball Regional

By Doug Drabik – CalBears.com – May 18, 2012

Strawberry Canyon will be the place to be in Berkeley this weekend as thousands are expected to descend on Levine-Fricke Field for the NCAA Division I Softball Berkeley Regional, hosted by the California Golden Bears, the top-ranked and No. 1 overall seed in the tournament.

Fans attending today's opening games who were regular visitors to Levine-Fricke Field this season will notice some major differences to the home of the Golden Bears, however. Months of planning have transformed a stadium that was built in 1995 into a facility that meets NCAA standards for hosting the sport's postseason spectacle.

"There certainly were a number of NCAA requirements that our facility did not meet on a daily basis at this point, but as our team made it through the season as the No. 1 seed we started looking at what it would take for us to host and honor that achievement for them," said Director of Athletics Sandy Barbour.

Here is a detailed look at what goes into hosting an NCAA Softball Regional.

It begins with dedication and commitment from all parties. That includes the softball program, the administration, operations, athletic communications, sports medicine as well as numerous outside vendors. Headed by Barbour, Senior Associate Director of Athletics Foti Mellis, Director of Championships & Special Projects Jeanette Morganti, Assistant Director of Athletics for Facilities Management Mike Huff, Assistant Director of Athletics for Event Management Gordon Bayne, Facilities Manager Nick Cole, Assistant Manager of Ticket Operations Chris Celona, Assistant Director of Athletic Communications Anna Oleson-Wheeler and head coach Diane Ninemire, the group held numerous meetings back in January to gauge interest and feasibility. From there, a plan was put in place.

That plan started with a formal bid submitted to the NCAA to host a regional. The long process was worked on by the administration with assistance from every facet of the athletic department which in total took several weeks to complete. On April 20, that bid was submitted to the NCAA, who reviews all bids.

It was decided early on that several temporary improvements would needed to be made to meet the standards for hosting a regional. Cal's softball team, a powerhouse in the sport for many years, competed on the road in the NCAA Regionals and Super Regionals for the past 19 years and everyone here in Berkeley wanted to give them the home field advantage they deserve this season.

Morganti has overseen the responsibilities with hosting numerous NCAA Championships here at Cal, including National Championship contests in water polo at Spieker Aquatics Complex and first and second round women's basketball tournaments inside Haas Pavilion. The one thing that has been on the venue's side in both those high profile events was the luxury of knowing years in advance that Cal would be the host.

The entire world discovered on ESPN on Sunday night at 7 p.m. (PT) during the network's NCAA Softball Championships selection show that Berkeley would serve as an NCAA Regional host AND so did Cal. With Sunday nearly complete, all parties involved were forced to wait until Monday at 8 a.m. to begin executing all of the plans that had been drawn up. That gave everyone involved in the set up roughly 48 hours before the first of four teams would take the field for practice.

Mellis summarized the project, saying, "We had to basically build a new softball stadium in 48 hours."

An operations meeting was held at 8 a.m. with 25 bright-eyed, enthusiastic members of the Cal Department of Intercollegiate Athletics accompanied by numerous cups of coffee. Over an hour later, everyone left that meeting and began their assigned tasks.

Just 24 hours later, Levine-Fricke Field took on a whole new look. The most noticeable difference was the six banks of temporary lights that arrived at the facility. They were in place by Wednesday and Cal took to the field for its first night practice. Tonight's games will be the first ever night games played at Levine-Fricke Field.

A temporary press box was brought in behind the stands for the large turnout of media expected for the weekend's games as well as administrators accompanying their teams to Berkeley. While ESPN, the broadcast partner for the NCAA Championships, is not televising any games here this weekend, should Cal advance to the Super Regionals, the national network would be on site here next weekend for all the games.

More than 300 credentials have been designed, printed and issued to staff, administrators and media covering the games.

More than seven hundred additional seats were added to the facility earlier this season beyond the left-field wall which increased the capacity of Levine-Fricke Field to more than 1,200.

The NCAA requires all signage related to sponsorships as well as any items that can create a perceived "home field advantage" removed. All signage on the outfield wall was removed and the line on the scoreboard that read "California" on the bottom was replaced by a sticker that says "home" for all the games. Levine-Fricke Field has also been dressed with the 15 NCAA Championships banners that arrived on site on Wednesday morning.

Witter Rugby Field, the large field turf playing surface adjacent to Levine-Fricke Field, will serve as a staging area for this weekend's event. A number of tents were assembled to provide temporary meeting space for each of the teams as well as media and hospitality areas. Teams will warm up on the field prior to their games in the middle of what has been used as the rugby, lacrosse and football practice facilities here on campus.

The opening of the Simpson Center for Student-Athlete High Performance this past October was a major part of the feasibility of Cal to be able to host an event of this magnitude. The brand new facility will provide locker rooms for each of the teams, the officials as well as meeting rooms for administrators and a full service sports medicine area.

The NCAA randomly selects different sites for drug testing and, while it is not yet known if Cal will be one of those sites, a separate area must be made available specifically for this use just in case.

Brining nearly 1,300 additional people to campus requires an abundance of parking. The University has provided shuttles for fans who park in the Underjill Lot to easily transport them up the hill to the venue.

The number of people descending on Levine-Fricke Field this weekend

Cal Softball Clippings

also demands the need for additional restroom facilities. Two temporary trailers were brought in to accommodate all in attendance this weekend.

Last but most certainly not least... game balls. The NCAA has a special softball for its championships with the organization's logo affixed on it. The sport's governing body shipped seven dozen of its game balls to Berkeley earlier this week. The woods right behind home plate, however, leave the opportunity for a number of foul balls to get lost in the trees so Cal pro-actively ordered an additional seven dozen balls for this weekend's games, leaving no room for error.

"It was full team effort," Barbour said. "Foti Mellis, the sport supervisor, really led the effort. "I am really pleased this team has an opportunity to host and for our community to have the opportunity to see them play here in Berkeley."

It is a tall task that was completed in a very short period of time by a team of professionals. Many individuals put in some very long hours this week, however it will all be worth it to see championship softball played at Levine-Fricke Field this weekend.

"It is a great honor to finally be at home," Ninemire said. "We waited many years to be able to host a regional here. It is going to be a great opportunity for our girls to be able to play at home in front of the Cal fans."

Morganti, who has overseen these events for a number of years, has one rule when putting on an NCAA Championship that she relays to each program, "If we host, we win!"

Bears Prepare for Friday Night Lights

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – May 17, 2012

BERKELEY - Though it's a phrase normally reserved for the gridiron, the California softball team has adopted "Friday Night Lights" as the theme for the Golden Bears' first game in the Berkeley Regional. On Friday, May 18, No. 1 seed Cal takes on Iona at 7 p.m. under the lights at Levine-Fricke Field in serene Strawberry Canyon. Not only is this the first postseason game in Berkeley since 1993, but it's the first time in program history that the Bears have played under lights on their home turf.

"It's awesome because it's the first game under the lights," junior pitcher Jolene Henderson. "It's a big step up for Cal, and we all appreciate all the hard work that went into it."

Even the alums are taking note.

"Getting lights brought in is a huge step forward for the softball team," former Golden Bear Kristina Thorson said. "This perennial powerhouse is being rewarded for all of the hard work and success they've had under Coach Ninemire. It's a very proud time to be an alumni."

The Bears practiced on Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. - promptly the time they should be taking the field on Friday. At the start of practice, the sun was beginning to set on the picturesque San Francisco Bay Area, visible from just beyond California Memorial Stadium. By the final team huddle, it was complete dark out - with the lights shining down on the Bears, of course. Practice provided the Bears a chance to see how the ball would look come game time.

Though it may be the first night game in Berkeley, Friday's game against Iona will not be the first night game of the year for Cal. The Bears played four games at night this season, in which they posted a 3-1 record. Cal defeated Butler in Fresno, 14-1 in five innings, under the lights at Bulldog Diamond. The Bears went 10 innings with then-No. 19/18 Hawaii in Honolulu in the evening, eventually succumbing to the Rainbow Wahine 3-1 in the bottom of the 10th. Cal opened Pac-12 play at Smith Family Field on the Farm, where they defeated then-No. 9 Stanford 9-0, raining four homers on the Cardinal. More recently, first pitch at No. 14/18 Oregon on April 20 was 6 p.m., and the Bears beat the Ducks 8-1. Those games are still fresh in Cal's mind.

"We've done well under the lights this year," volunteer assistant coach Angie Jacobssaid. "As a player, I always preferred playing at night. I felt I could see the ball better. I think the kids are excited."

Excited is right. Practices on both Wednesday and Thursday were lively, though focused. The Bears ran defensive drills, did work off tees and in the batting cages - all like normal. But the NCAA signs everywhere and sharing home field with the unfamiliar teams of Iona, Boston University and Arkansas are outward markers that things are slightly different. But no matter the opponent, the Bears are grateful.

"We're all excited," freshman Nikki Owensaid. "It's a great opportunity. It's cool to be the first team to have all these accomplishments - we won the first Pac-12 title, we're the first to play under the lights and host a regional."

After practice on Thursday, the Bears headed to their locker room at the Simpson Center for Student-Athlete High Performance for some down time. Meanwhile, the Cal coaches and administrators who have worked tirelessly to put on the Berkeley Regional, met with coaches and administrators from the three other schools and NCAA. Following the meeting, the Bears and coaches enjoyed a delicious and freshly prepared meal at the Simpson Center's cafeteria before adjourning for the evening, eager to get a good night's rest before Friday.

On Friday, when the Bears take the field at Levine-Fricke Field, which they have done so many times, it will be against Iona as the Bears fight for their chance to advance further into the NCAA Tournament. First pitch is slated for 7 p.m., but it will be pushed back if the 5 p.m. game featuring Boston U and Arkansas goes long. Individual session tickets will be available for purchase at the field, beginning at 3:30 p.m. Please click here for information on parking and here to read about day-of tickets.

Jamia Reid revs up Cal's No. 1 softball team

By John Crumacker – San Francisco Chronicle – May 18, 2012

So fast is Cal leadoff hitter Jamia Reid, she probably would be crossing home plate by the time teammate Danielle Henderson was closing in on second if the two were engaged in a race around the bases.

"She's ridiculous," said Henderson, a third baseman. "It's not fair."

In a 50-4 season, the top-ranked Bears benefited greatly from Reid's speed as well as her ability with the bat. She stole 45 bases in 48 attempts, led the team in hitting with a .391 average and can cover ground quickly from her post in left field.

"She's one of the best players in the entire country and can change the momentum of a game in a split second," Cal head coach Diane Ninemire said. "Her running is so good. She doesn't only straight steal on you, she can steal when you least expect it. She puts such pressure on a team."

Ninemire is counting on Reid, and her equally fleet identical twin Elia, to put pressure on Iona (35-24) on Friday night when the teams meet in a Berkeley Regional game at Levine-Fricke Field in Strawberry Canyon.

Batting left-handed at the top of the order for the Bears, Jamia Reid has mastered the skill of slapping the ball a few feet in front of the plate and rocketing down the first-base line to beat most throws. Against UCLA on April 29, Reid unexpectedly stole home in the first inning to help Cal turn a 2-0 deficit into a 10-3 victory.

"That pumped us up," Reid said. "Doing something like that is exciting. It's definitely an advantage. When I get on base, it's really an advantage for our team. It's a game-changer."

That was the first time Reid stole home in her career. In her four years in Berkeley, she has been successful on 171 of 192 steal attempts and wants to finish her Cal career by breaking her school record of 48 steals from 2010.

"It gets harder every year because people know you," she said. "My freshman year, I got more steals (47 in 2009) because people didn't know me."

Reid is well known around these parts. She recently was named first-team All-Pac-12, along with teammates Valerie Arioto and Jolene Henderson, as well as first-team All-Pacific Region, with Arioto and the Henderson sisters, Jolene and Danielle.

Reid graduated Monday with a degree in sociology. Her summer plans include playing for the Akron Racers of the National Pro Fastpitch league. Reid, Racers - sounds like a perfect fit.

Top conferences ready for postseason

By Jerry Trickie – NCAA.com – May 14, 2012

An hour after the selection show ended Sunday night, California head coach Diane Ninemire still hadn't looked at the full 64-team bracket. She didn't know the national seeds and hadn't seen where all the intriguing matchups might be in the first round or the potential conference showdowns that could be on tap in the super regionals.

But that's OK. She had a party to host.

Ninemire said that her team joined about 100 fans for a watch party. It didn't take long for the place to start buzzing as her Golden Bears were the first team revealed as they strolled into the postseason with the No. 1 overall seed. After all, they won the Pac-12 title this past weekend and own a sterling 50-4 record.

The seeding was expected. The part that left everyone on the edge of their seats was whether or not Cal would be chosen to host a regional, and potentially a super regional. For the first time since 1993, the Golden Bears will be able to sleep in their own beds, field grounders on their own infield and cheer on teammates from their own dugout.

"It's been a long time since we've hosted a regional at the University of California so of course we're extremely excited about playing in front of our fans and just being able to stay at home and being able to play on familiar ground," Ninemire said. "Just having the opportunity to play in northern California is an exciting opportunity for our players and fans. It's just fantastic that our athletic department put so much in making sure we'd be able to play at home."

California will have several familiar faces alongside it while steering a path toward Oklahoma City. The league that has recorded 23 national titles since the NCAA began sponsoring the sport in 1982 — including the last six — had eight squads selected for the field Sunday. The Golden Bears are one of five league teams hosting a regional May 18-20, while Oregon, which will host May 17-19, gives the Pac-12 six of the 16 national seeds, the most of any conference.

The Golden Bears haven't played at home much this season. Out of 54 games, only 16 have been at Levine-Fricke Field, where Cal is 14-2. Three of the most anticipated came in the past week as Cal clinched the league crown by taking two of three games from Arizona State, the No. 3 national seed.

Senior first baseman/pitcher Valerie Arioto played the key role as she has all year since returning from a leg injury that forced her to miss the Bears' 2011 run to the WCWS. She hit a walk-off, two-run homer in Game 1 against the Sun Devils and then came back the next day and tossed a shutout in the circle to secure the league title. In football, it would be her "Heisman moment" times two, the ones that sit atop a resume that makes her almost everybody's favorite to be named the national player of the year.

"It was kind of like icing on the cake," Ninemire said. "She had a fantastic weekend. ... She was pretty much on fire all weekend. And then winning the first Pac-12 championship was an outstanding honor for our team because we also won the first Pac-10 championship back in 1987. So we like to be No. 1 in things."

That doesn't bode well for Iona, Boston U. and Arkansas, the three teams heading to Berkeley, Calif., for regional play.

Arkansas, however, has some preparation for its biggest test of the year. It comes from the SEC, the league that has more teams in the field than any other, upstaging the Pac-12 by putting nine squads into the bracket. The conference has also produced the national runner-up in three of the past five seasons, including Florida a year ago.

Alabama grabbed the No. 2 overall seed — one of four national seeds for the league — as it slid in ahead of defending champion Arizona State. Crimson Tide coach Patrick Murphy, much like Ninemire with her high regard for the Pac-12, feels that the week-in, week-out grind within league play has set the conference teams apart in recent years.

"Definitely being member of the SEC helps tremendously when you get to the postseason because you've seen lefties, you've seen righties that throw heat, righties that throw junk, you've seen riseballs, curveballs, screwballs, you've seen them all," Murphy said. "As a hitting person, the hitters love to see that type of pitching game in and game out. We don't want to win games 18-0 every time because that's not going to teach us anything."

"I think playing in the SEC No. 1 teaches you adversity because you're probably going to get beat. I don't think there's ever been any [SEC] team that's gone undefeated. Second, you're going to see the hitters on the other team; our pitchers have to prepare. And then finally when you get into the postseason and you take a deep breath and then it's like 'Thank God we don't have to see the SEC until the super regionals or [Women's College] World Series' and it's a huge relief for everybody. I know other conferences probably say that, but I know it's a huge relief for us in the SEC."

Facing the SEC, like the Pac-12, in the postseason will be anything but a relief.

Who will challenge top-seed Cal?

By Graham Hayes – ESPN.com – May 14, 2012

1. Can California be stopped?

A season ago, the No. 1 ranking in the ESPN.com/USA Softball Top 25 passed between eight teams before Arizona State finally took the top spot for good in late April and raced with relative ease to its second national championship in four seasons. It took far less time for a favorite to emerge this season, and that's no coincidence. California really is that good.

Coach Diane Ninemire's team claimed the top spot in the poll after just one week of play and held it for all but one week of the regular season. The Bears won their first outright conference title since 1987, something they didn't even manage en route to a national championship in 2002. They returned the entire lineup from the team that reached the Women's College World Series last season, including pitching ace Jolene Henderson. They added three impact freshmen starters in Danielle Henderson (Jolene's little sister), Cheyenne Cordes and Breana Kostreba and welcomed back fifth-year senior All-American Valerie Arioto from a redshirt 2011 season.

With the Pac-12 title on the line against Arizona State in the final weekend of the regular season, all Arioto did was hit a walk-off home run in the opening game and strike out 11 batters en route to pitching a shutout in the second game.

So should we even bother sweating out a week in the Oklahoma City heat for the Women's College World Series?

Of course we should, and not just because there are few atmospheres in women's sports quite like that inside Hall of Fame Stadium. Arizona State lived up to the label of favorite last season, but that was the first time since Arizona won it all in 2006 that the No. 1 team at the end of the regular season won the title. Cal is the clear favorite. It hits for power, has speed at the top of the lineup, plays fantastic defense and has two pitchers it can trust in any situation. But there are three teams that could wrestle away the title without stunning the softball world in the process.

Hometown Report: Hendersons help make Cal softball national title contender

By Joe Davidson – Sacramento Bee – May 12, 2012

BERKELEY – In the same half-inning, Jolene Henderson can be full of cheer – or full of fury.

Henderson, Cal's softball ace from Sheldon High School, stalks the pitcher's circle, sizing up her opponent, her brown ponytail and blue-and-gold ribbons dancing in the Strawberry Canyon breeze. The 20-year-old junior throws blazing fastballs and befuddling changeups before glaring at the retired batters. Then she high-fives and grins with her teammates.

Over at third base is her sister, Danielle Henderson, two years younger, who matches her charm and intensity. With a scowl, Danielle ropes extra-base hits for the No. 1 team in the country.

The Henderson sisters are helping make the Bears a top contender for a national championship.

"Don't let the beautiful ribbons fool you," Bears coach Diane Ninemire said. "The Hendersons are great competitors. What separates Jolene is her strong will. She's pretty unstoppable. Danielle is just as proud and driven."

Jolene is 30-1 with a 1.13 ERA and 246 strikeouts after leading the Bears to a 4-2 victory over No. 2 Arizona State on Thursday in the first game of a three-game series to end the regular season. Danielle, a freshman, has 14 home runs and 41 RBIs for the 50-3 Bears (Pacific-12 Conference champions at 21-2). The NCAA regionals begin Friday.

The Henderson sisters grew up playing softball, winning championships in summer travel ball and at Sheldon. Now they can hardly contain their joy at doing it again on scholarship in Berkeley.

"I love to go at a batter, challenge them with pitches," Jolene said. "My favorite thing to do is strike someone out and walk off the field just as the pitch gets there, but that's not in a bad way. It's just competition."

"And I will stare down a player, a look, and then look at my teammates and smile and be silly. It's part of the game."

Danielle agrees.

"I love when Jolene strikes a batter out with a changeup and the look on their face," Danielle said. "My sister has fun out here, but she gets so heated, too. We all do."

Jolene wears jersey No. 54 in honor of her father, Joe, whom she emulates. Joe Henderson wore jersey No. 54 when he played on the offensive line at Burbank High School in the early 1980s and at Idaho State. Jolene said the braids and cheery persona come from her mother; Mickey. Joe and Mickey Henderson have become fixtures at Cal's cozy Levine-Fricke Field.

Joe Henderson didn't just introduce his daughters to softball, he brought it to them. Eleven years ago, Joe installed a regulation diamond with 200-foot fences and a pond in deep right field in their Elk Grove backyard. And Henderson coached his daughters on age-group summer All-Star teams.

As an 8-year-old, Jolene initially was so uneasy with softball that she occasionally would misdirect pitches well over the catcher. She was distracted, chasing butterflies and admiring flowers. Jolene eventually grew to appreciate the sport, then crave it.

The sisters spent hours practicing in the backyard.

"The girls had a great time back there, and it's where they really learned how to play," Joe said after a recent victory over UCLA.

Jolene was so determined to help the Bears last season that she pitched with a stress fracture in her hip. Despite pitching in constant pain, she won 40 games, struck out 333 batters in the same number of innings and was named the Pac-10 Pitcher of the Year and an All-American. After the 2011 season, she took the summer and winter off to heal.

"It was painful to pitch, and I was thinking, 'I'm 19, not 90, so what's with this stress fracture?'" Jolene said. "But the team needed me. I was on crutches, then I'd play. I needed to play. Taking the time off (after the season) killed me – the most boring time of my life. I did hot yoga, visual empowerment, and now I've never felt better."

Jolene said her highlight this season came in the opener, a 13-5 victory over Tennessee, during which Danielle hit her first collegiate homer.

"It was Danielle's first college game, and we're on the same field together," Jolene said. "And anytime my sister gets a hit or a home run, that's my favorite. I just had to go high-five her."

Cancer Survivor Fannie Wallace Is An Inspiration To Us All

By Doug Drabik – CalBears.com – May 11, 2012

Amazing. Strong. Loving.

Those are the words junior infielder Jordan Wallace uses to describe her grandmother Fannie.

Fannie has been stricken with breast cancer twice in her life and the 83-year-old has beaten the disease on both occasions. Her first bout with breast cancer came before Jordan was born. After undergoing several treatments, she went into remission and appeared to be cancer free.

Unfortunately, several years later, the cancer returned and Fannie had to have one of her breasts removed. While undergoing exhaustive treatments to rid her body of the hazardous cells, she lost her husband, Earnest, of 52 years to the same ugly disease called cancer.

"It has been rough on her," Jordan said of her beloved grandmother. "She not only had to experience it all first-hand, but she had to experience losing a man she was married to for more than 50 years. Having to live with losing the love of your life and experiencing what she went through is extremely difficult.

"I look up to her," her proud granddaughter continued. "I can't even imagine how someone can go on in life and live the way that she does. She is always happy. She is always smiling. It takes a special person to deal with the hardships that she has had to deal with and still call me and find time to send me a card to let me know she is thinking about me. It breaks my heart to think that she has had to deal with something like that because she is such an amazing person."

Fannie has persevered through it all and is once again cancer free. Jordan will get to share her grandmother's story and a special moment with the woman she admires today at Levine-Fricke Field as the Bears host a StrikeOut Cancer event in conjunction with their game against No. 2 Arizona State at 3 p.m.

Fannie will receive the team ball and be in the circle to throw out the ceremonial first pitch prior to today's contest.

"It is very exciting," Jordan said. "She is really looking forward to it and has been practicing throwing a ball with my dad the last couple days."

Cal softball is hosting the event in partnership with the National Fastpitch Coaches Association and the American Cancer Society. At that game, the Golden Bears will don pink hair ribbons and encourage all fans to wear pink. Those fans who wear pink will receive giveaways such as Silly Bandz and foam sticks.

In addition to collecting general fan donations, Cal softball will be selling pink hair ribbons as a fundraiser for the ACS.

"I know the team feels very strongly about it," Jordan said. "We have several girls on the team that have experienced cancer in their family, and this is something we wanted to do to help support the cause. By showing just a little bit of our respect and dedicating an event to this cause, this is a small way we can give back and show everyone how much this means to us."

Jordan, who is lobbying to catch that first pitch from her grandmother, will be joined by several members of her family at today's game, including her mother, father, brother, sister and two cousins.

Cal Softball Clippings

"She is really excited for this," Jordan said. "Hopefully I don't tear up; I am not a big crier. It means a lot. I was skeptical to ask her at first because I wasn't sure she was going to want to do it. It is a lot for an older woman to throw a pitch for a sport she has never even played before. She didn't hesitate; she said I want to practice. I have to get my Cal gear on. I won't let you down. It is a really big deal to her. To see that she is excited makes me excited. It means a lot that she is able to do it."

Fannie attended the majority of Jordan's games when she was younger, but hasn't been able to make it out to her games more recently with her health issues. She makes a point to catch the Bears on television when they are on, and is always on the phone with her granddaughter after every game listening to the recap.

"She is the life of the party," Jordan said. "I love that woman so much and I would do anything for her. To see that she is so happy after so much that she has dealt with makes me want to be a better person. It makes me think about the little things and take advantage of little things like smiling, laughing and really caring about people. She means the world to me."

With Fannie on hand at Levine-Fricke Field today to show off her infectious smile and strong arm in the circle, we invite you to join her at the field and arrive early to cheer on this special woman and the Golden Bears as they do their part to strike out cancer.

Valerie Arioto helps lift Bears to Pac-12 title

By John Crumacker – San Francisco Chronicle – May 11, 2012

A day after her dramatic home run gave Cal a win over Arizona State, Valerie Arioto pitched the No. 1-ranked Bears to a 5-0 victory over the No. 2 Sun Devils on Friday that clinched the school's first outright conference softball championship in 25 years.

Arioto's shutout also gave Cal (50-3, 21-2 Pac-12) the sixth 50-win season in school history. The Bears finish the regular season at noon Saturday against Arizona State (45-7, 17-4) before beginning preparations for the NCAA regionals on May 18-20.

The NCAA tournament field will be announced Sunday night, and Cal is hopeful of hosting a regional at Levine-Fricke Field in Strawberry Canyon.

"It's fantastic," Cal coach Diane Ninemire said. Cal "won the first Pac-10 championship (in 1987). It's so good to see this team win the first Pac-12 championship. This was an outstanding effort by the team, both games."

While Arioto scattered six hits over seven innings and had 11 strikeouts in notching the 20th win of her senior season against two defeats, she received a big boost from the bats of freshmen Danielle Henderson, Breana Kostreba and Cheyenne Cordes.

Henderson, one of three Bears from Sheldon High School in Elk Grove, staked her team to a 1-0 lead in the second inning with a long run-scoring single that hit near the top of the left field wall and drove in Kostreba.

In the fourth inning, third baseman Henderson drove in another run, which made the score 2-0 and life a little easier for Arioto, who worked up a sweat windmilling 108 pitches, 68 of them strikes.

"The freshmen came up big," Arioto said. "They picked us up early. It gave me confidence as a pitcher. I had this thought I wasn't going to lose."

The Bears broke open the game in the fifth with three runs to push their lead to 5-0 and take the starch out of the Sun Devils. Senior right fielder Elia Reid drove in two runs with a double to center field and Henderson's sacrifice fly plated another to finish off the scoring.

"It was really nice to contribute to the team," said Henderson, whose older sister Jolene pitched Cal to victory Thursday. "We worked our butts off the entire season, and I'm glad it worked out."

Senior Q&A With Frani Echavarria

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – May 10, 2012

BERKELEY - After she earned Pac-10 All-Freshman honorable mention laurels, Frani Echavarria almost doubled her batting average between her first and second years. In 2010 as a sophomore she was third on the team, batting .339, and was named to the All-Pac-10 team. Last season, Frani was fourth on the squad in hitting and batted a team-high .458 in the NCAA Tournament. The first person in her family to attend college, Frani will graduate with a degree in sociology. Heading into her final Pac-12 weekend, Frani graciously lent some time to CalBears.com to talk about her time in Berkeley.

CalBears.com: What is your best Cal story or favorite Cal experience?

Frani Echavarria: The one Cal experience I'll never forget is putting on my uniform for the first time my freshman year. At that moment - putting on the last team jersey I'll ever wear in my softball career with my number and California on the front - I was finally able to say with pride that I am a Bear!

CalBears.com: What will you miss most about Cal?

FE: I will truly miss my teammates! These girls mean the world to me, and I'm so happy that I am able to share my final year and final season with this special group of girls! Playing alongside of each and every one of them was my deepest honor; I love them all like they were my sisters.

CalBears.com: What are your career plans and what are your plans after graduation?

FE: After graduation I will be looking to attend more school after a well-deserved break! But after school, I'm looking to work with and help kids.

CalBears.com: Has Cal lived up to or has it been different or better than the expectations you had of it as a freshman?

FE: Cal has lived up to every one of my expectations! I was able to learn from very well-known and great professors. I'm leaving Cal with a quality education. I was a part of a very active and at times liberal campus. I was also exposed to very a diverse campus that was rich with different cultures, ethnicities, up-bringsings and independent, strong minds.

CalBears.com: What has been the most embarrassing or funny story in your years at Cal?

FE: The most embarrassing story I can recall on my four years here was becoming a three-strike offender in one day my sophomore year. Coach had a new system of keeping track of how many times people messed up - like for example being late, and you were allowed three strikes, and that's it. So that week we were leaving for Hawaii. We had to make sure we picked up our uniforms the day before, which I forgot to do, "strike one." We had to be at the bus at 4 a.m. because we had an early flight, and I woke up late, which was "strike two." As if things couldn't get any worse, I did not have my ID, so my boyfriend had to bring it to me, which was "strike three." I've never felt so embarrassed in my life. It was definitely a lesson learned the hard way. The team still jokes about it till this day.

CalBears.com: What advice would you give to freshmen?

FE: Learn how to manage your time and take a lot of naps. But most of all, never stop working because the minute you do, someone can always take your spot.

CalBears.com: What was the best class you took?

FE: My favorite class I took would have to be Sociology 140 - Politics and Social Change. It was a great class and I learned a lot, and I finished with an A.

CalBears.com: What is your favorite place to eat or go in Berkeley?

FE: My favorite places to eat in Berkeley is Zachary's, where they have Chicago-style, deep-dish pizza, Blondie's pizza on Telegraph, Casa Latina on San Pablo, and Cheese and Stuff has the greatest sandwiches ever. Sam is amazing!

CalBears.com: What memories or games stick out in your mind from your time in the Blue & Gold?

FE: There are two games that I will never forget. The first one is game one of the Lexington Super Regional last year. I hit my first home run of the season, and we ended up winning 1-0. The second game would be this year, when we played Washington we came back and beat them in the seventh inning. I feel like that game was a complete team effort, and we never gave up. That game speaks volumes of our team!

CalBears.com: What does it mean to be a part of Cal softball?

FE: It means that we always give our opponents a great game! We work hard and earn everything we have and get. Our team expects nothing, but we appreciate anything we get, and I'm proud to be a part of a hard-working team. When I came to Cal, I was given a quality education and the opportunity to be a part of a special team. That is priceless to me.

Diane Ninemire's Cal softball team aims for the top

By John Crumacker – San Francisco Chronicle – May 8, 2012

Cal's powerhouse rugby program has been displaced from its home at Witter Field the past two years because of the remodeling of Memorial Stadium, but there's still a juggernaut residing in Strawberry Canyon.

Head coach Diane Ninemire's softball team is 48-3 and ranked No. 1 in the country, with a series against No. 2 Arizona State (45-5) remaining before NCAA regionals, May 18-20.

The Thursday-Friday-Saturday set at Levine-Fricke Field will determine the Pac-12 championship, as the Bears (19-2) and Sun Devils (17-2, with two rainouts) are tied in the loss column. The title goes to the team that wins two of three.

As it demonstrated convincingly in starting the season 23-0, this is a Cal team seemingly without a weakness. The Bears are 12-1 at home, 13-2 on the road and 23-0 at neutral sites. They have a devastating 1-2 pitching combination with Jolene Henderson and Valerie Arioto, a strong hitting lineup and a defense fielding at a .980 clip.

"The chemistry on the team is really good," Ninemire said. "They're all willing to work hard every day. This team is balanced with power and speed and very strong pitching. We wanted to get more balance. We were more power-oriented in the early 2000s, and I wanted to get more balance."

After that 23-0 start, the Bears lost for the first time at Hawaii on March 15, then reeled off 15 straight wins before their only home loss, 8-3 to Arizona on April 14. A week later, Cal came up short in a 1-0 loss at Oregon.

"The thing I notice about this team is the games after we lost, we bounce back," second baseman Jace Williams said. "We don't really get down on ourselves. I don't notice the roller-coaster effect with this team. Our chemistry is good on and off the field. We have fun playing."

Ninemire has probably the best player in the country in Arioto, a senior from Pleasanton who is as adept with a bat as with a ball. Arioto is hitting .398 with 21 home runs and 54 RBIs and has an ERA of 1.29, having allowed just one home run this season.

"Am I a hitting pitcher or a pitching hitter?" Arioto pondered. "I don't see myself just doing one."

Arioto, who missed the 2011 season with a broken leg, plays first base when the redoubtable Henderson (29-1) is pitching; she has a 1.10 ERA with 238 strikeouts. Arioto, Henderson and left fielder Jamia Reid (.383, 44 stolen bases in 46 attempts) are among 25 candidates for USA Softball's College Player of the Year.

Ninemire enjoyed recalling one of the "little things" against UCLA on April 29 as being illustrative of her team. The Bears started the game in a 2-0 hole but when Reid stole home in the bottom of the first, it triggered three runs in what became a 10-3 victory for Cal.

"You don't see that often in softball," Ninemire said of stealing home. "It sparked the team. It's the little things. I'm really proud of their effort and intensity to help the team win. I'm always impressed by our will."

Of Reid, who leads the team in stolen bases, the coach said, "She's very sneaky. Those little things can open the door to get momentum. You create opportunities for yourself. That's what this team is pretty good at doing."

Now in her 25th year as Cal's head coach, Ninemire quietly has gone about the business of building one of the best softball programs in the country. She has taken the Bears to 11 Women's College World Series and won it all in 2002. Cal also has been to 24 straight NCAA regional tournaments on her watch.

All that success has led to 1,107 victories, making Ninemire the sixth Division I softball coach to reach 1,100. Michele Granger and Gillian Boxx were four-time All-Americans under Ninemire and won gold medals with the U.S. team at the 1996 Olympic Games. Former Cal player Vicky Galindo was a 2008 U.S. Olympian.

Into this heady mix of big-time softball comes freshman shortstop Cheyenne Cordes of Fairfield. She has been an immediate contributor, mostly with her glove, as she has only four errors in 51 games. She's batting .286 with 34 runs scored, 30 RBIs, 26 walks and six home runs.

"It's been amazing," Cordes said. "I feel like I'm the luckiest freshman in the country. (Everyone has been) very welcoming. We all get along so well. You hear about a lot of drama on other teams, and we don't have that."

For Cal, the drama is about to begin.

Senior Q&A With Valerie Arioto

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – May 7, 2012

BERKELEY - Though she has already enjoyed commencement exercises - donning the cap and gown in December - senior Valerie Arioto finished her academic collegiate career two weeks ago. CalBears.com sat down with Arioto to talk all things Berkeley.

CalBears.com: What is your best Cal story or favorite Cal experience?

Valerie Arioto: I've been so blessed in my five years here. Every day with my teammates, a great story gets created. I cherish the memories from all my years at Cal!

CalBears.com: What will you miss most about Cal?

VA: I'm going to miss my teammates!!! They're always there for me.

CalBears.com: What are your career plans and what are your plans after graduation?

VA: I plan to play with the USA national team and then with the USSSA Pride this summer. And then we will see what life brings me.

CalBears.com: Has Cal lived up to or has it been different or better than the expectations you had of it as a freshman?

VA: It has definitely been a roller coaster ride, especially after breaking my leg at the start of last season. But I have learned a lot and it has shaped me into who I am today. My college years have definitely been some of my best years so far!

CalBears.com: What has been the most embarrassing or funny story in your years at Cal?

VA: I don't think I can just pick one. Every day on this team is funny, and I do a lot of embarrassing things!

CalBears.com: What advice would you give to freshmen?

VA: Just have fun and work hard, the wins will come as a result!

CalBears.com: What was the best class you took?

VA: My favorite class I have taken would either be the sociology of sports or my laughter and mediation class.

CalBears.com: What is your favorite place to eat or go in Berkeley?

VA: My favorite place to eat in Berkeley is Trattoria la Siciliana. It's some good, authentic Italian food on College!

CalBears.com: What memories or games stick out in your mind from your time in the Blue & Gold?

VA: All the fun times on bus rides. We are quite a musically talented team!

CalBears.com: What does it mean to be a part of Cal softball?

VA: It is an honor to be a part of the legacy of Cal softball! Being one of the best teams in the country and getting one of the best educations in the country is irreplaceable, and I am grateful for this opportunity!

Cal softball's Kostreba, Owens hope to follow footsteps

By Andrew Matheson – Santa Cruz Sentinel – May 5, 2012

A year ago, Aptos High's Breana Kostreba and Scotts Valley's Nikki Owens were more or less thinking about winning a Santa Cruz Coast Athletic League title. Now, they're thinking of an NCAA national championship with the Cal softball team.

That's not heavy at all.

"You can't really stress about it. You just have to play the game," Kostreba said. "I've played with all the girls over the years anyway [through travel ball]. It's just a bigger audience now."

Not to mention a bigger spotlight, with perhaps an even bigger target on your back.

But for all gobs of pressure that supposedly come with being ranked No. 1 in the nation, the Golden Bears haven't succumbed to much of anything just yet.

The season so far has been golden for Cal [46-3], which for six straight weeks has owned the No. 1 ranking in the nation. The Golden Bears won 23 straight games to open the season and, at 17-2 in the Pac-12, have two more three-game series against Oregon State and Arizona State before opening NCAA Regionals.

And the team carries with it a local flavor: Kostreba, a true freshman, has started in 45 of Cal's 49 games this season, batting at a .311 clip with 11 homers and 37 RBIs.

Owens, who has been sidelined with injuries, is doing all she can to get back on the field, doing all she can to support and learn from All-American pitchers Jolene Henderson and Valerie Arioto.

"Everyone is doing everything to help the team out," Owens said.

That includes Cal alumni, too.

Two weeks ago, the program celebrated the 10-year anniversary of its 2002 national championship team. About 10 former players showed up for a reunion of what was the first women's team in school history to win a title.

Aside from the usual reunion fare — tailgates and facility tours — Cal had special player introductions for the '02 squad before its Pac-12 game against Arizona, an alumni banquet later that night for past and present players, as well as game footage of Cal silencing a Jennie Finch-led Wildcats team 6-0 for the national championship.

For the current No. 1 team in the country, which this week was a single first-place vote shy of being a unanimous No. 1, watching that was enough motivation for one day.

"Now, we expect to win it and that's our goal," Kostreba said.

"Just seeing everyone come together and have the same goal," she added, "it was powerful."

Owning the No. 1 ranking in the nation is one thing. Seeing first-hand what could come of it is a benefit only the Cal softball team could enjoy.

ALUMNI SET THE TONE, LEGACY

“Surreal” was how Owens described the alumni event. But she, like Kostreba, is in a different position than most on Cal.

Part of that feeling has to do with who was giving the inspirational speech, who was throwing out the ceremonial first pitch, who was singing the national anthem.

If there was one former player who led the reunion, it was Jocelyn Forest — a bit of a mentor to both Kostreba and Owens, a bit of a legend to Cal softball.

“She’s too humble,” Owens said. “You have to Google her.”

The short version of her resume: Forest, now the head softball coach at Santa Cruz High, co-owns a gymnasium in Santa Cruz and helped Kostreba and Owens prepare themselves for Berkeley during their senior years in high school. Ten years ago, she won all eight of her postseason appearances for Cal, including throwing a one-hitter against Arizona to lift the Golden Bears to the 2002 national title.

And she can sing, too — apparently when pressured by her teammates at a 10-year reunion. She can also deliver an uplifting speech as well.

“I talked about choosing your destiny. It’s a hard idea for people to grasp, because there are so many variables. But you really can, if you have heart and you can come together as a team,” Forest said. “We weren’t the best team, player for player [in 2002]. But we knew how to come together and lay it on the line and not let anyone stop us.”

There was no easy road for the 2002 team. It was positioned in a regional bracket that included powerhouses Fresno State, Cal State Fullerton and Stanford, each highly ranked that season. It was also the first time a pair of Pac-10 schools were picked for the same regional bracket.

It was enough to draw immediate ire from the Golden Bears, who felt completely disrespected with their draw.

“They called it the ‘Mini-World Series.’ We were up in arms. It didn’t seem fair,” Forest recalled. “But then everything kind of changed. We just kind of looked at each other and, suddenly, it didn’t matter.

“We were going to win and nobody else was going to stop us.”

Forest recapped the 2002 run to the current Cal team during the alumni event. It provided a perspective often difficult to replicate. Last season, Cal qualified to the Women’s College World Series for the first time since 2005, advancing to the second round before falling to Florida.

“It was good for them to hear the stories and their experiences,” Cal coach Diane Ninemire said. “It showed what those players went through and how they got things done.”

GOLDEN BEARS A TIGHT-KNIT GROUP

Kostreba and Owens are only pieces to the larger puzzle, but even they have experienced adversity and the importance of team this season.

Kostreba, who had played third base all through high school, had to learn right field at Cal while filling in for an injured Elia Reid at the start of the season. When Reid returned, Kostreba moved into the DH spot, where she is currently batting fifth for the Golden Bears.

While the Aptos alum didn’t register an error while in the outfield, she didn’t miss a beat at the plate, either.

“She’s a very meticulous, very patient hitter,” Ninemire said. “She’s had a few struggles in the Pac-12, with better pitching. But she’s doing a nice job. I’m hoping she can use this going into the postseason to build up her experience.

“She’s a student of the game with a high IQ for hitting.”

Owens, on the other hand, developed hip bursitis after returning from winter break. She doesn’t know how she got injured initially — likely from overuse, she said — but she could barely walk when it was at its worst.

Other issues kept the softball pitcher sidelined. It would have been difficult for her to find much playing time this season anyway, especially during Pac-12 play. But the Scotts Valley alum has nevertheless helped out where can in practice and before games.

“Everyone has had to come together,” Owens said. “We all have things in our life that are personally difficult. But we’ve all just banded together going through stuff like that.

“We all work together and can be there for each other to work through it, no matter what.”

Coming together isn’t something that seems to be a problem for Cal. The Golden Bears have only lost three games this season — two of which were on the road. The team’s only home loss, meanwhile, came the day of the alumni event against Arizona.

How did the Golden Bears respond? They beat Arizona by the same 6-0 margin they did 10 years ago to win the national championship.

Ninemire said Cal is a very family oriented team, and as a coach, adversity is something that is to be expected.

But being able to overcome it is about finding the strength and the perspective, and not looking toward those worse off when things aren’t going your way.

It’s a similar message that Forest had during the alumni event. After all, they weren’t considered the best team in 2002 — they finished fourth in the Pac-10 that season.

“If they can find it within themselves,” Forest said of this year’s team, “they can make the decision to be champions.”

Senior Q&A With Jace Williams

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – May 3, 2012

BERKELEY - In just three short years in Berkeley, senior second baseman Jace Williams has certainly made her mark. As a sophomore in 2010, she started all 62 games, was an All-Pac-10 honorable mention after slugging .390 and owning a .447 on-base percentage. Last year, she earned herself placement on the NFCA All-Pacific Region first team, the All-Pac-10 second team and merited Easton third-team All-America status and a Pac-10 all-academic honorable mention. Thanks to her academic prowess, Williams finished her degree requirements two semesters early and will graduate with a bachelor's of science in psychology. With her classes complete, CalBears.com relished the chance to talk all things Cal with Williams.

CalBears.com: What is your best Cal story or favorite Cal experience?

Jace Williams: My favorite Cal experience has to be playing in the World Series last year. Ever since I was little, I had always dreamed of playing on that stage in June, and my wishes came true last season.

CalBears.com: What will you miss most about Cal?

JW: I will miss going to battle with my girls, which is what it's all about. Sharing the same uniform and being a part of something that is far bigger than yourself. I am extremely competitive, and softball has always been a way for me to release that energy. I will be extremely unbalanced in the real world because I love competing. I guess I'll have to dominate the slow-pitch leagues. I love Valerie's voice, and I will miss listening to her sing in the back of the bus. She is extremely talented - y'all should ask her to sing for you. She's not shy. I'm a San Diego beach girl through and through, but I hate to admit it, but the bay area has really grown on me over the past few years.

CalBears.com: What are your career plans and what are you plans after graduation?

JW: I have a passion for coaching so I am going to pursue that and see what happens. I want to share everything I know with girls who have the same dreams and ambitions I had when I was their age. After the season, I plan on moving back to San Diego, settling in, finding a team to coach and hitting the beach immediately! I really miss my San Diego beach-girl lifestyle so I plan on picking up where I left off as soon as possible. This summer, I envision myself traveling all over the place and keeping my tan well into winter.

CalBears.com: Has Cal lived up to or has it been different or better than the expectations you had of it as a freshman?

JW: Cal has been everything and more. I feel so blessed and fortunate to have been afforded this opportunity. Coach Ninemire believed in me and gave me a second chance. The last thing I ever want to do is disappoint her, so I'd say that Cal has changed my life in more ways than one. I want everyone to know that I appreciate all their support over the last three years.

CalBears.com: What has been the most embarrassing or funny story in your years at Cal?

JW: Apparently I do embarrassing things every day, but for some reason I don't know how to feel embarrassed. I am definitely an odd ball (ask my teammates - they will tell you), but I stay true to myself and will never change. I will be that really awkward old person one of these days. Funny things happen every single day on this team. I spend 80 percent of my day laughing, the other 20 percent giggling to myself. My teammates are hilarious.

CalBears.com: What advice would you give to freshmen?

JW: Never stray away from who you are. Be yourself and roll with the punches. You will experience so much while in college - roll with it, and learn from your mistakes. Try and get one percent better every single day. Time flies so enjoy it - it's the best time of your life.

CalBears.com: What was the best class you took?

JW: I loved my developmental psychology class. Babies are crazy!

CalBears.com: What is your favorite place to eat or go in Berkeley?

JW: Celia's on Euclid has ridiculously good Mexican food. I am also a huge Soup Company fan. I'm never disappointed in the chicken chipotle wrap.

CalBears.com: What memories or games stick out in your mind from your time in the Blue & Gold?

JW: The LSU and Fresno State games from this year stick out a little more than the others. I'd do anything for my teammates, and anyone who knows me knows I have a little fireball attitude out there. I was pretty fired up in those games.

CalBears.com: What does it mean to be a part of Cal softball?

JW: It means you are way more awesome than any other team. I love Cal softball!

Bears Honor Friends of Jaclyn Adoptee on April 30

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – May 2, 2012

BERKELEY - For the third consecutive year, California softball's Friends of Jaclyn adoptee Bebe and her family made the trip to Levine-Fricke Field to take in a Golden Bear game, but the changes that have occurred in Bebe since her first game in 2010 and this year are nothing short of miraculous.

Fatigued beyond belief by cancer treatments during her first Cal outing two years ago, Bebe's father Geoff had to throw out the first pitch while Bebe slept in his arms. Last year, Bebe threw out the first pitch by herself. Before the April 29 game, not only did Bebe throw out the first pitch, but she also enjoyed a warm-up dance session, gave the Bears a pre-game speech then signed autographs for anyone and everyone after the game.

"Bebe is a fighter, and the transformation between two years ago and now is amazing," junior catcher Lindsey Ziegenhirt said. "It was so inspirational to see her so happy!"

The Golden Bears adopted Bebe, a local child with pediatric cancer, through the Friends of Jaclyn Foundation. The Friends of Jaclyn Foundation (FOJ) is a non-profit, charitable organization that improves the quality of life for children with pediatric brain tumors and their families.

"Having Bebe at the game made me feel so blessed to have her as part of our lives," junior pitcher Jolene Henderson said. "She gave us a pre-game speech where she said you can win and always be yourself. She may be five-years-old, but she is wise beyond her years. Getting the chance to be a part of her life makes Cal softball the luckiest team out there."

Bebe and her family's visit to the field was only one of many encounters with the Golden Bears. The Cal softball team and coaches hosted a holiday party for Bebe and her family in December, when they bestowed gifts upon Bebe. She also watched the Bears learn their 2012 postseason fate at the selection show party. Even if she isn't present, the Bears are constantly reminded of Bebe for she has her own locker and lounge chair inside the California softball team's locker room at the Simpson Center for Student-Athlete High Performance, and BW stickers adorn the batting helmets.

"Bebe puts everything in perspective for me!" Jace Williams said. "Life is fragile and no day is ever guaranteed. She is such a strong little warrior, it really inspires me! It's absolutely amazing having her around. She lights any room she walks into and can lift anyone's spirit. What an incredible little girl!"

Arioto, Ziegenhirt Visit Sheldon High School

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – April 30, 2012

ELK GROVE, Calif. - Senior utility Valerie Arioto and junior catcher Lindsey Ziegenhirt spent their Monday morning connecting with Ziegenhirt's roots with a trip to Sheldon High School in the Sacramento Valley, where Lindsey's mother Laura Ziegenhirt teaches. The elder Ziegenhirt's classes have been collecting toiletries for Arioto's community service project and voting for Val daily for the Lowe's Senior CLASS Award.

All season, Arioto and her Golden Bears have been collecting unopened toiletries such as shampoo, conditioner and body wash to donate to a local women's shelter. Ziegenhirt challenged her students to bring in items and the Huskies collected over 900 items in just one week.

"Lindsey and I had a great time meeting the kids at Sheldon High!" Arioto said. "They are an awesome group! They were so enthusiastic about giving back!"

Since fan balloting counts a third of the voting results for the Lowe's Senior CLASS Award - with the remaining two thirds determined by NCAA Division I coaches and national media members - Laura Ziegenhirt's two microbiology and one honors biology classes have been voting for Val.

"It was awesome!" Lindsey Ziegenhirt said of returning home. "All the students were so excited to meet Val because they had been collecting toiletries all week. They were so proud - as they should be - because they collected 978 items in a week alone! I think it's safe to say we have a hundred more Cal softball fans at Sheldon!"

All Cal fans are encouraged to vote for Val every day by clicking here and - at each of the remaining home games - to bring unopened toiletries to add to the Golden Bears' collection.

An acronym for Celebrating Loyalty and Achievement for Staying in School, the Lowe's Senior CLASS Award focuses on the total student-athlete and encourages students to use their platform in athletics to make a positive impact as leaders in their communities.

Senior Q&A With Elia Reid

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – April 30, 2012

BERKELEY - With Senior Day just a couple weeks away, CalBears.com is catching up with all of the seniors, and today's Q&A participant is Elia Reid. Last season, Reid was named an All-Pac-10 Honorable Mention and the March 7 Player of the Week. During conference play her sophomore year, she led the Bear starters by hitting .327, playing primarily in right field. Meriting 52 starts as a freshman in 2009, she was named to the Pac-10 All-Freshman Team after racking up 26 steals, 27 RBI and six homers. Elia Reid graciously lent her time to CalBears.com to talk about her time with the Bears.

CalBears.com: What is your best Cal story or favorite Cal experience?

Elia Reid: I would say winning the Lexington Super Regional in 2011. That was by far the best experience I have had so far at Cal.

CalBears.com: What will you miss most about Cal?

ER: All the weird things that go down in Berkeley.

CalBears.com: Has Cal lived up to or has it been different or better than the expectations you had of it as a freshman?

ER: Well as a freshman, I dreaded the dorms, but I made the most out of it.

CalBears.com: What has been the most embarrassing or funny story in your years at Cal?

ER: This one time, I was running to class and turned the corner and tripped over a planter and fell face first on the ground. I could not help but laugh, and Jamia could not stop herself from laughing either.

CalBears.com: What advice would you give to freshmen?

ER: Make sure they stay on top of their school work. I know college is supposed to be the time of your life, but that degree is for the rest of your life.

CalBears.com: What was the best class you took?

ER: I would have to say SOC 101. Professor Swindler was really enthusiastic and kept the class alive.

CalBears.com: What is your favorite place to eat in Berkeley?

ER: I would have to say Zachary's. I will definitely miss that place.

CalBears.com: What memories or games stick out in your mind from your time in the Blue & Gold?

ER: The memory that sticks out to me is getting that chartered flight to the World Series and flying first class while the rest of the team sat in coach.

CalBears.com: What does it mean to be a part of Cal softball?

ER: It means a lot to be able to be a part of this team. I was able to play with a great group of girls all four years. As well as having a supporting coaching staff. I will definitely miss the little moments.

Vincent Balances Softball with Double Major

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – April 27, 2012

To say that sophomore catcher Taylor Vincent was destined to become a Golden Bear is slightly hyperbolic. But only slightly.

During her freshman year at Pleasanton's Foothill High School, former Cal greats Vicky Galindo and Lindsay James coached Vincent in fall ball. Soon after, teacher Chris Gibbons, a centerfielder for the Bears baseball team from 1982-83, ignited in Vincent a passion for physics.

A talented athlete and an even more gifted student with such connections seemed to indicate that Vincent was fated to become a Golden Bear. Well, almost.

"I had actually grown up as a UCLA fan, but I soon found myself liking Cal a lot more," Vincent said of her ursine change of heart. "During the spring of my freshman year, I was at Levine-Fricke Field watching Cal play UCLA, and I wasn't rooting for Cal."

While Vincent has now found a home in softball's Strawberry Canyon, she also feels equally at ease in the classroom. Not only did she declare physics as her major early in her collegiate career, but she also contributes to the nation's No. 1 softball program this year. During this past offseason, Vincent even added another brick to her load, deciding to double major in math and physics.

"I had decided to a math minor for fun," Vincent said of her early academic plan. "My roommate pointed out that it was a difference of an extra class, so I called my dad to tell him I was going to double in math and physics."

This coming summer, Vincent will intern with GigOptix in fiber optics and high-intensity lasers. Following graduation, she hopes to get her Ph.D. in biophysics from Cal and to work on advancements in human prosthetics.

"I knew I wanted to help people, but I can't stand needles, so I knew being a doctor was out of the question," Vincent said. "It's a good way to apply the physics that I like and the helping that I also enjoy."

Academic acumen very clearly runs in the Vincent family. Her mother, Teri, is a high-risk obstetrics registered nurse; her father, Richard, owns an MS in electrical engineering and an MBA; and sister, Jennifer, is set to attend Hastings Law School in the fall after graduating from the UCLA physiology honors program.

Vincent's exceptional work ethic stands out even among her workhorse teammates, whether it's asking for extra batting practice or the vigilance with which she guards home plate.

Vincent's path to softball began as a youngster innocently enough when a neighbor came home with a visor.

"I wanted to know how to get one," Vincent said. "She said it was from softball so I begged my parents to sign me up."

Once placed on a team, Vincent selected catching as her specialty.

"I like that catchers get to be in every play," Vincent said. "I also like hitting people without getting into trouble. I get to see the entire field. As catcher, I'm in charge of what happens with the ball and telling people where to go with it."

Q&A on Bebe - Cal Softball's Adopted Teammate

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – April 26, 2012

BERKELEY - The Golden Bears carry Bebe Wiggs with them wherever they go. Bebe has her own locker and lounge chair inside the California softball team's locker room at the Simpson Center for Student-Athlete High Performance. BW adorns the batting helmets. But even more important is the impact that Bebe has had on the lives of the Bears.

In 2010, Bebe Wiggs entered the Cal program forever when the Golden Bears adopted Bebe, a local child with pediatric cancer, through the Friends of Jaclyn Foundation. The Friends of Jaclyn Foundation (FOJ) is a non-profit, charitable organization that improves the quality of life for children with pediatric brain tumors and their families. Over the years, the Bears have seen Bebe endure countless cancer treatments and blossom into a joyful child.

This Sunday, Bebe and her family will join the Bears at Levine-Fricke Field. To show just how much she means to this team, CalBears.com asked all the Bears and coaches about what it's like having Bebe as an honorary teammate.

Valerie Arioto - Bebe is an inspiration to all of us. Her fight and courage are contagious when she is around, and having her as part of the team motivates us to be as strong as her!

Cheyenne Cordes - Having Bebe as a part of our team motivates us to be the best we can be. If she can battle through everything that she has been through, then we can play our hardest for her on the field. We are very lucky to have Bebe as a part of our team because she is fun and full of energy. She always picks us up when we are down.

Ashley Decker - Bebe is such an inspiration. We fight to be the top team, but Bebe fights for her life every day. She has an amazing attitude, and I love that every time we see her, she is always happy.

Frani Echavarria - Having Bebe as a part of our team has definitely put a lot of things in perspective for me. She has truly touched my heart. What is it like to have her as part of the team? To have her as a part of our team has definitely taught us a life lesson. When we think we fought hard enough for something and we want to give up, we stop and look at Bebe - she's been a fighter since the day she was born.

Arianna Erceg - Having Bebe being a part of our team is really an incredible thing. She has showed me what a true fighter and believer is, and whenever she is around she brings a smile to all of our faces.

Danielle Henderson - Bebe has shown me that no matter what if you're motivated to do something it will happen. She is motivated to go on living her life, and that is exactly what she is going to do. Her daily strength and motivation have made me realize that under the worst circumstances there is always something to look forward to and something positive coming from it. Over Christmas break when Bebe opened her gifts, after almost every one she would say, "Oh! Just what I wanted." Then would proceed to say, "What is it?" She is a strong girl that many people should look to.

Jolene Henderson - I went up to Bebe's house a couple of times, and being with her is such a gift to me. The effect she has on people with her laughter and excitement for life and people is awesome!! One of the times I went up there, we went to a movie together, and she ate the biggest bag of popcorn I had ever seen! I'm so lucky to have met her and been able to be around her!

Victoria Jones - Having Bebe as a part of the team is very inspiring. Being around such a strong little girl makes me so grateful to have the opportunities that are given to me. Bebe is a very strong girl who has been fighting a strenuous battle every day of her life, and I could only wish to have the strength she has. We threw a Christmas party for Bebe and her family. We spoiled her with gifts, and she loved every single one of them. She could not wait to open the next one. Bebe is a huge member of this organization.

LaRisa Jones - Having Bebe as a part of our softball family is a reality check. When she comes around I think it reminds all of us that there's more in life than just this sport, and that we should be thankful every day that we are healthy and able to wake up and play the game we love.

Breana Kostreba - Having Bebe as a part of the team has made me feel like we are doing more than just playing a sport - we are making a difference in people's lives. It's great to see the adorable smile she has on when she is with the team.

Mary Lee - Bebe is such a joyful young girl, whose presence always brings a smile to my face. She helps us keep things in perspective and reminds us of how grateful we should be for everything we have. I am glad to be on a team with such a special young girl.

Assistant Coach Tammy Lohmann - Bebe has taught me that every day is a gift - a gift that we should cherish and have faith in. Even with struggles, we can overcome with hope and determination. Her quiet strength and spirit that she gives to our team is far more than we could ever give back. I remember having dinner with her family this past summer. Sitting there watching the light and joy in her eyes as we enjoyed some tea at her little table, Bebe taught me that when drinking tea one must keep their pinky finger out. "Coach Tammy, you must hold the cup like this!" It was so cute! Her spirit and love for life is such a great motivation for our team, and inspires each of us to give our all and never give up. We are truly grateful to have Bebe as part of our Bear family.

Head Coach Diane Ninemire - I think Bebe is a great inspiration for our team. She's really put everything into perspective. She's helped us to have a greater appreciation of getting to participate in softball at such a high level because sometimes we forget how lucky we are. She and her family have to work diligently to appreciate every day and live it to its fullest. I think that's the greatest gift that she has given us - for us to also appreciate every day and to always make the most of every day. She is just a joy to be around.

Nikki Owens - Bebe is always a great reminder to our team of how incredibly blessed we are. She is an amazing little girl and always has a smile on her face despite all the adversity she has faced in her life. It inspires us to work harder and keep a positive outlook on things. My favorite memory of Bebe was watching her unwrap all her Christmas presents at a little party we had for her because she is so sassy and sharp.

Elia Reid - Having Bebe as a part of the team is a great opportunity for all of us because it's like we are all her big sisters. We all enjoy getting to see her at our games. My favorite moment with her when she was serving us all lemonade at our get together to see where we would go for regionals last year. And of course the Christmas party we had with her, when we all showered her with gifts. It was definitely a priceless moment.

Cal Softball Clippings

Jamia Reid - Having Bebe be a part of this team has showed me that things shouldn't be taken for granted. She has such a big heart. It was really great watching her open all her gifts at the Christmas party because the look on her face was so priceless. Nothing could even compare; we all love to see her smile.

Alex Robben - Bebe means a lot to all of us. She is such an inspiration to the team in knowing we can overcome anything just as she did.

Jordan Wallace - Having Bebe as part of the team is very inspirational. She is such strong individual. Knowing that we are able to make her smile and spend time with her touches my heart so deeply. It amazes me that such a young child has been faced with such a plethora of obstacles and yet still enters each day with a smile. I will always remember when we threw a Christmas party for her this past December. She was the happiest and most appreciative little girl. Her face was priceless with every gift she opened. She acted as if that was exactly what she had hoped for. When Bebe hugs me or speaks to me, I end up tearing up after she leaves because of the admiration and love I have for her. She has truly been the inspiration to this team.

Jace Williams - Bebe is one of the toughest little girls I have ever met. Her strength and courage inspire me to appreciate the simple things in life that many take for granted. She is a fighter, and that is what we all want to be on the softball field and in life after softball. Her spirit and positive attitude inspire me to keep things in perspective and to be grateful for all of the many blessings life has brought me.

Taylor Vincent - Having Bebe as part of the team has really taught me that even though life gets hard with school and softball, some people have it worse. The way that Bebe stays so positive is an inspiration for me to keep going.

Britt Vonk - She has been a great inspiration for me! Every time she steps in the room, she has a huge smile on her face, and it makes me realize how important it is to live your life to the fullest!

Lindsey Ziegenhirt - Bebe is such a special girl who has taught everyone the meaning of fight, perseverance and hope. I remember my freshman year, when she came to our game to throw out the first pitch and she was so tired from her chemotherapy that she slept the whole game. Last year when she came to our game, she was so happy and spunky that it was a total transformation! She is truly a remarkable girl who inspires our team to keep fighting when we get in tough situations.

About Friends of Jaclyn

FOJ matches a child in need of love, support and friendship with a college or high school sports team. After the adoption is completed, the child becomes an extension of the team whereby a unique bond is formed between the team members, the child and the family.

The benefit to all is a personal loving support network that creates a great connection. The result of the FOJ adoption is the child feels involved and each individual team member gains insight into the value of helping others. Additionally, FOJ has seen this relationship forge a closer bond among team members, magnifying the importance of a team operating as a single unit.

Through the adoption relationship, the child is involved in the team through text messaging, emails, phone calls and other forms of communication. Through the wide reaching press coverage, FOJ has helped improve the awareness of pediatric brain tumors.

Senior Q&A With Jamia Reid

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – April 25, 2012

BERKELEY - With Senior Day just a couple weeks away, CalBears.com caught up with senior outfielder Jamia Reid to reflect on her time in Berkeley. From the get go, Reid left her mark on the Golden Bear program by breaking the single-season steal record as a freshman. In 2010 as a sophomore, she catapulted her way to the All-Pac-10 first team and the Louisville Slugger/NFCA Division I All-Region First Team. After owning a team-high .497 slugging and 31 steals and second-best .394 batting average, Reid became an All-American. CalBears.com: What will you miss most about Cal?

Jamia Reid: I am definitely going to miss my teammates. I've spent four years with these girls, and even the ones I got to know this year, I was able to build friendships with them. I love these girls.

CalBears.com: Has Cal lived up to or has it been different or better than the expectations you had of it as a freshman?

JR: Cal has certainly lived up to my expectations. With every year that went by, I found something new to eat or a new place to shop.

CalBears.com: What has been the most embarrassing or funny story in your years at Cal?

JR: I would have to say this year, when we were playing Oregon. I was stealing second base and the ball was hit to the left fielder, so I ended up rounding the bag. The left fielder ended up catching the ball, and I just ran back to first. I definitely made it back to first; however I never touched second base. Live and learn.

CalBears.com: What advice would you give to freshmen?

JR: I would have to say focus on your school work because the year goes by very fast, and it's okay to have a social life. Also be ready to become extremely responsible because after freshman year - you have to pay bills.

CalBears.com: What was the best class you took?

JR: I would have to say Sociology 167. It was a class about the internet and it is a good class to take.

JR: Tako Sushi, Gordo's and I.B.'s Hoagies

CalBears.com: What memories or games stick out in your mind from your time in the Blue & Gold?

JR: I would definitely say going to the World Series last year because it was an amazing feeling. I didn't realize I was actually at the World Series till I put on my uniform.

CalBears.com: What does it mean to be a part of Cal softball?

JR: I feel proud to be able to represent the Cal softball team. Cal softball is a team to watch out for. Every year that I have been with this program, it just gets better and better. The coaching staff is there when you need them. I'm just proud to be a Bear. I wouldn't have it any other way.

NCAA Championship Q&A With Jocelyn Forest

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – April 9, 2012

BERKELEY - One name that is synonymous with the California softball team's NCAA Championship is Jocelyn Forest. In the 2002 national title game, Forest threw a one-hitter as the Golden Bears defeated Arizona 6-0 to win the first NCAA women's team title in Cal school history. Forest was named the tournament's most outstanding player, completing the WCWS with a 4-0 record, 0.50 earned run average and 33 strikeouts in 28.0 innings. Forest won all eight of her 2002 NCAA postseason appearances. CalBears.com caught up with Forest - who currently lives in Santa Cruz and owns a strength and conditioning gym - to discuss the historic run in Oklahoma City.

CalBears.com: The NCAA sent the Bears to Fresno for Regionals, where you guys had to play Stanford, Fresno State and Fullerton. In a Q&A with us last week, Kristen Morley told us that you told the team, "Well I guess we have to win it all now." Tell us about the moment when that announcement was made.

Jocelyn Forest: I remember that exactly. We were all sitting around at Courtney Scott, Candace Harper and Kristen Morley's apartment, watching the selection show. First we found out that we're going to Fresno, which was already just a bummer for us. We had gone to Fresno a lot of times, and it was a big softball rival for us, and they were a very good team. The next team came out, and it was Stanford. At that point, everybody was up in arms because it was the first time that two Pac-10 teams had ended up at a regional together. And of course they were ranked very high. Then it came out that we were going to be playing Fullerton. So there all these high-ranked California teams in this one region, so there was this couple of minutes where everyone was very upset. Then all of a sudden, it was like this calm came over us. We just kind of looked at each other. I don't remember what exactly I said, but it was like a decision had been made right there in that moment that we were winning and that was it. Everybody believed it down to their core. It was a really good feeling.

CalBears.com: What anecdotes stick out in your mind about that year?

JF: For me, the strength and conditioning that year played such a huge role in it. It wasn't just that the strength and conditioning itself was a good program, which it was; it was amazing. I loved our coach, Mary Dempsey; she's so awesome and a really big role model in my life. But it was just the fact that we worked so hard with each other. We'd show up at 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning a couple days a week, and we'd get out there and we'd just work. Everybody was so on board with it. There weren't any slackers, and no one had bad attitudes about getting up early in the morning to do work. Such a camaraderie came out of it. We were all such different people. That happens all the time with teams, where you have to find a way to come together on the field even when you have such different personalities. Were all very different people. But it was just such a special thing that we really did know how to bring it together on the field and work for the common goal that we decided we were going to reach.

CalBears.com: What was it like being in Oklahoma City for the Women's College World Series?

JF: It's kind of surreal feeling. It was strange because you almost felt like you were in a dream. For me, it didn't really feel like I was there; it was kind of a haze. At the same time, it was like we knew what the outcome would be. I know that sounds funny because how can you really know. I just remember the whole team coming to that tournament with that feeling that no one is going to stop us. We're winning. We're coming here and we're winning.

CalBears.com: When the score was still 0-0 heading into the seventh inning, were you worried?

JF: There was never any doubt in my mind that we were going to win. It was just a matter of how long it was going to take. I didn't know if we were going to be looking at an extra-inning game. I can't even emphasize enough how much I believed that we were going to win and how much the team believed that we were going to win. It was just a decision that had been made. It was going to happen. There was nobody that was going to stop us. Going into that seventh inning, you start to feel that pressure. I don't know if it's going to happen now or in the 10th inning, but it's happening so just stay strong. So when we go into that seventh inning, Kaleo was the first person was the first person to come through and score that run. It was that moment. We came celebrating at home plate as if that was the game - as if it was a walk-off winning run. However it was the top of the seventh inning, not the bottom. So we had to pull ourselves back together. I started crying when we scored that run because I knew that was it. When I got back to the dugout, I had to take a second to compose myself because the game wasn't over. I had to remind myself that the game wasn't over. There was a lot left. We still had to close the door. So I gathered myself and get ready to finish out the game in the bottom of the seventh. But then, it just unfolded. We just started hitting. Before we knew it, it was 6-0. That of course, was just amazing because at that point, it's just like the nail in the coffin right there.

CalBears.com: So you're up 6-0 and head into the bottom of the seventh. What were you thinking as you headed to the circle?

JF: Same thing - it was just like this is it. This is the moment. Let's go out there and do work, and close the door. It was just like, nobody is getting on base. This game is ours right now and we're coming out to close the door right now. In a way, it was kind of like autopilot. There was no fear. There was nothing. Just get in that circle, and get it done. And when it's over, that's when we'll celebrate.

CalBears.com: Once it was over, what was that feeling like?

JF: For me, in that moment, it was relief. I look back, and I almost wish that I had felt more joy in the moment, but it was more just relief that the job was done. The job that I had decided in my mind was going to be done. I think the joy started to set in over the course of the next few days. But in that moment, for me, it was more relief.

NCAA Championship Q&A With Kelly Anderson

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – April 7, 2012

BERKELEY - As a freshman in 2002, Anderson saw the majority of work in relief, finishing 7-3 in 18 appearances with a 1.46 ERA. One of her crowning moments of her first year in the Blue & Gold was when she and fellow freshman Cassie Bobrow teamed to topple then-No. 1 Arizona 5-2 when Jocelyn Forest was away from the team. Anderson went onto pitch in each of the three following WCWS.

CalBears.com: What were you thinking heading into the seventh inning with the scoreboard reading 0-0 in the championship game?

Kelly Timothy: Honestly, it was so long ago, I don't remember exactly what I was thinking. It was an anxious moment. We were facing Arizona and Jennie Finch. We were just trying to cheer on Jocelyn and the rest of the team. We were also trying to get that run across home plate. Ball games are usually 1-0 in those types of situations. We were fortunate enough to get six.

CalBears.com: Speaking of those six runs, what was it like when the Bears started scoring all those runs?

KT: We got one across and then a few more. Just having that one was awesome and then they just kept coming. You just think, "We have this." We had Jocelyn there to go out and get the three outs.

CalBears.com: What was it like coming in as the underdog?

KT: We were underdogs the whole season. It was awesome to see the team get that win. I wasn't on the field playing, but I was there cheering everyone on. To see Jocelyn and the team pull it through, it was awesome.

CalBears.com: What was the feeling like after that final out?

KT: It was amazing. It was the only championship we had. It was an amazing feeling. It was so long ago, but it was so amazing. The best experience ever.

CalBears.com: What memories stand out from that year?

KT: I think the thing that really comes to mind is Jocelyn and her determination that year. She went through a lot of personal things, but she pulled through. You could just see how determined she was. It was amazing to see how the team could come together. We were underdogs. No one expected us to win. We pulled together and got the win.

CalBears.com: What does it mean to be a Golden Bear and a part of the Cal softball storied tradition?

KT: It's awesome. It's like having a huge family, everywhere. I wear Cal something out, it doesn't even have to be softball, and you hear someone say, "Go Bears." They'll ask me about going there. Whenever I wear something that says Cal softball, people will ask me about playing there. It's just like a family everywhere. You take that through the rest of your life.

NCAA Championship Q&A With Kristen Morley

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – April 6, 2012

BERKELEY - After a recent home game, CalBears.com chatted with Kristen Morley, who was the starting right fielder for the California softball team in 2002. That year in Oklahoma City, Morley led the team in hits (4) and runs (3) to hit .333. In this Q&A, Morley relates how confident the 2002 team was that they were going to win the national championship.

CalBears.com: What comes to mind when you think about that year?

Kristen Morley: I remember the selection show. We all met at my house - I lived with Courtney Scott and Candace Harper on Fulton. We watched us get screwed again, because we got sent to Fresno with a bunch of other conference champions. I remember after we saw that, Jocelyn stood up and said, "Well guys, I guess we're going to have to win it all." From then, that was the only thought we had. There was no doubt. We didn't have any worry about losing. We just knew that it was going to happen. We knew we got screwed in our seeding and that we were going to prove to the world that we were going to win the national championship that year.

CalBears.com: No one scored until the seventh inning, when the Bears posted six runs with two outs. What were you thinking prior to that?

KM: I remember being completely calm. I don't remember ever having any worry. I knew that it would happen at some point. I couldn't believe that it was still 0-0 since it was two great teams. But I didn't have any doubt. Then I remember we started scoring runs with two outs in the seventh. Kaleo walked on a close pitch, and I remember Jennie Finch being very upset about it. Then I came up to bat and got a hit, then Harp got a hit up the middle that Kaleo came around and scored on. We moved everyone around, so there were runners on second and third with two outs, I remember thinking, "We're up 1-0. That's all we need, we're good to go." Then next thing I know, they walked Roni Nelson, then Jennie accidentally walked Courtney Scott, so I came around on a walk. I remember just stomping on the plate and being so proud, we just scored another run. We're good to go definitely now. Then the next thing you know, everything went crazy. It was just double after double after double. We were just clearing the bases. I remember standing in the dugout thinking, "I can't believe this is happening. We're going to do this." Then I remember Jennie Finch coming out of her last game without being able to get her very last out in college softball. Then I remember all of us pacing in the dugout thinking, we're about to win it. This is really about to happen. It's 6-0, and we're to win the national championship.

CalBears.com: With that lead in hand, what was that final bottom of the seventh like?

KM: We went out onto the field. We got two outs, and I remember standing out in right field just bawling. I was thinking, please don't hit it to me right now because I'm crying and I can't see a thing right now. Reality hit - this was it, we were actually going to win it. That everything we had worked for that season was coming to an end and that we were going to be number one and win that national championship that we always talked about that we never knew was possible. We were going to get it. Once we got that final out and everyone came in and we jumped on each other, it was such a relief. I remember feeling that this is what we earned. We earned it that season and every season before that. Because all those women that played before us, they got us to that point. Just being there and being able to have that win was amazing.

Cal Softball Clippings

CalBears.com:What funny stories stick out in your mind?

KM: I remember when Mary Dempsey, our strength coach, made us run in Hawaii because Erin Manahan brought a pack of M&Ms into the dugout. I don't remember how far we had to run, I just remember being so mad that we had to run. Erin was a redshirt and didn't think it was a big deal. We didn't even know she couldn't do that. We had to run. We were so mad.

CalBears.com:What does it mean to you to be a Golden Bear and part of the Cal softball tradition?

KM: Pride. Everywhere I go, I say "Go Bears." I still don't own anything red. I bleed Blue and Hold. There's so much pride. It's the best university in the country. You can't get a better atmosphere, a better softball team, a better place to play softball. You don't get a better view than anywhere in the country. The pride that comes with being a Bear is unbelievable.

Hawaiian Q&A With the Golden Bears

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – April 5, 2012

BERKELEY - It seems fitting to recall the Golden Bears' trip to the picturesque shores of Hawaii as the No. 1 California softball team prepares to visit a terrain known for its chilly temperatures in Salt Lake City. From March 14-17, Cal played five tough games against top-notch competition. In between games, the Bears had the chance to explore Honolulu and spend time on the beach. CalBears.com caught up with the Bears to find out what their favorite parts of Hawaii were and how they felt about losing their first game of the year.

Valerie Arioto - I love everything about Hawaii: the beach, the shopping, the great food, and the beautiful views! I think the Hawaii trip was a defining moment for our team. We had a few bumps in the road during our trip, but we got through it together and made it a successful week!

Cheyenne Cordes - I love Hawaii!! My favorite part of the trip was getting to play good ranked teams and challenging ourselves. Though we came out with a loss, I feel that we grew so much and got a lot stronger as a team.

Ashley Decker - Hawaii was so much fun! I love that our team is able to have fun together on and off the field.

Frani Echavarria - Even though we lost, I feel it only made our team that much stronger and hungrier to go to the World Series

Arianna Erceg - My favorite parts about the Hawaii trip is that we played some great games against really good opponents, being able to spend the week with my parents and going to the beach!! I think the team did very well in Hawaii. We beat two very good teams, and even though we suffered our first loss, we never gave up and fought the entire game, and we bounced back with two wins after that.

Danielle Henderson - My favorite part of Hawaii was being in Hawaii and playing right next to the beach. I loved being able to relax next to the ocean. The last day was so fun because most of the team went to a beach house, and we went kayaking, boogie boarding and just hung on the beach for a long time. Plus, not only was the weather in Hawaii amazing, but I think even the team performed well. It was nice having a challenge and learning as a team what we can improve on.

Jolene Henderson - I went to a friend's beach house and had a blast there. It was on the beach and was just so much fun! Jamia, Elia and my sister went, too, and it was cool to share more memories with them. I'd have to say the competition we faced in Hawaii was the best part! I love the pressure games we played in and how much the team came together in the wins and the loss, making us better for the rest of the season. Jamia and I also rode a canoe!

Victoria Jones - My favorite part of the trip to Hawaii was spending time at the beach and shopping with my teammates. I feel like our team played really well. Even though we had our first loss, we still outplayed the other team and things just did not fall our way. Overall the team played great all the way around.

LaRisa Jones - There were so many memorable and hilarious moments from Hawaii, but a few of my favorites would definitely have to be spending 10 hours on a plane with Laura Dixon, our amazing trainer; playing beach football, our annual chicken fighting in the ocean and trying to "rip some serious curls" on our pathetic floaties with

Cal Softball Clippings

Victoria and Ashley. My all time favorite would be Jacey's brutal fall into a bush.

Breana Kostreba - My favorite part of Hawaii was the beach. I had to finish a few assignments while we were there, but I still got to have fun. I think the team did very well and stayed focused on what we came there to do.

Mary Lee - We made so many great memories in Hawaii this year! I enjoyed all of the time I got to spend with my team on the field and on the beach. I think we came out strong and left our best effort on the field. We always have things we can take away from the games to build upon.

Nikki Owens - My favorite part of the Hawaii trip was going to a beach house/private beach with some of the girls on our last day there. We ate, laughed and swam a bunch, and I got to tip Jolene and Jamia out of their kayak. I also had a really good time just hanging out around the hotel and trying not to get burnt to death on the beach. I'm really proud of our team for the way we played. We were all exhausted from the travel schedule and tough competition, but we managed to hang in there and push through it.

Elia Reid - My favorite part of Hawaii was watching Jamia and Jolene get on a one-person canoe and go out about 150 feet into the ocean, while Cheyenne, Ari, and Taylor helped them go out farther.

Jamia Reid - I would have to say going to Lin and Warren's home. It was a beach house, and it was beautiful. I think the team did very well, and I was very proud with the outcome. It shows us that we just need to continue to work hard and take it one game at a time.

Alex Robben - Hawaii is always great. It is both business and pleasure when we go there. It is always fun to spend quality time with my teammates, go to the beach and have some down time. The funniest part of Hawaii was almost missing the plane with Britt Vonk and Taylor Vincent. It was both hilarious and scary at the same time!

Jordan Wallace - I always enjoy the Hawaii trip because our team really gets to bond. I love being able to spend time on the beach and visit the international market. It's always a blast when going to Hawaii, and it makes it even better knowing that we usually win this tournament.

Jace Williams - My favorite part about the Hawaii trip is seeing my family who make the trip from Maui to come see me play. I only get to see my little brothers, stepmom and father twice a year, and this trip is one of them, so it is always extra special for me. We always play tough teams in Hawaii, so that is always a good test for us leading up to Pac-12 play. My little brother Zachary has been our bat boy the last three years, so it's awesome getting to hang out with him in the dugout. I felt we "rolled with the punches" well, although I wish we could have gone into the Pac-12 season undefeated. But it is what it is, and now the taste of defeat is something we do not want to experience again. We learned from the experience, so the loss doesn't sting as bad.

Taylor Vincent - My favorite part of the Hawaii trip was going to a private beach with a bunch my teammates. Ari, Cheyenne, and I waded out on a reef until Jo and Jamia decided they wanted to join us on a kayak, so went in and pulled them past the crashing waves. I think overall the team did well. The loss was hard, but we learned from it.

Britt Vonk - For me it was our last night in Hawaii, when we got together with the girls. We had a nice dinner at the beach and were just enjoying our last night in Hawaii.

Lindsey Ziegenhirt - My favorite part of Hawaii is exploring the area around our hotel. I love walking around in the sunshine along the beach and people watching. The shops, restaurants and beaches are all fantastic, and my family and I have even started traditions of eating at the same places and shopping at the same stores as years before! I think we played well in Hawaii. Even though we may have lost, we didn't lose without a tough fight. Our tenacity on the field was apparent when we battled hard with Texas and then came back to battle Hawaii. I was especially proud when we came back the next two games and stepped up our game.

Recalling the 2002 National Championship

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – April 5, 2012

BERKELEY - One of the most important aspects of California softball head coach Diane Ninemire's preparations for the 2002 Women's College World Series did not involve softball. It was not a rigorous defensive drill, batting practice or even throwing. It was a team trip to the WCWS logo in center field.

It was there that Ninemire, who had just guided the Golden Bears to their fourth straight trip to the hallowed grounds of Oklahoma City, read to the Bears. She did not draw upon famous quotes or a story of Cal yore. Instead, in her hands, she had a story published in the local Oklahoma newspaper.

Veteran Arizona head coach Mike Candrea gave an interview to the paper in which he stated that no one could overlook the Bears. He noted that the 2002 squad was a scrappy group with good power and could overtake anyone. It was that quote and article that Ninemire distinctly remembers reading to her team prior to the opening day of the WCWS.

"I really challenged the team when we got to the World Series that week," Ninemire said. "I lined them up on the logo and read them that. I told them that their dream of winning the national title could come true, but that we all had to believe that we were the best team that week."

Cal: 3, WCWS Opponents: 0

The Bears opened the week in high fashion with senior pitcher Jocelyn Forest striking out 14 Sooner batters to lift Cal to a 4-2 victory over Oklahoma in the opening round of the WCWS, marking the fourth time the Bears had won the first-round game in its seventh World Series appearance.

Cal continued to stay hot in its next game, defeating No. 8 Florida State, 1-0, on freshman Chelsea Spencer's solo blast. The win was Cal's ninth consecutive, allowed the Bears to tie the school record for wins in a year (54) and was the first time that the Bears have won the first two games of a WCWS.

Following the win over Florida State, Cal beat Arizona State, 3-0, to tread on ground that no other Golden Bear softball team in school history had been able to cover by advancing to their first-ever national championship game. It was also Cal's 55th win of the season, the most ever in the program's 31-year existence.

Against the Sun Devils, the Bears scored all three runs on one play in the bottom of the first inning. With two outs, runners ran on contact as freshman Jessica Pamanian's dribbler to third was bare-handed by ASU's Phelan Wright, who side-armed the throw off the mark to first. Freshman Kaleo Eldredge and junior Kristen Morley came in easily as right fielder Kristen Farber tried to field the ball off the fence along the first base line. Junior Jen Deering, who was pinch running for junior Veronica Nelson, crossed the plate when Farber attempted to throw out Pamanian at second.

Senior pitcher Jocelyn Forest, who had pitched every game in the 2002 NCAA Tournament, threw her sixth one-hitter of the season and her 12th shutout of the year. In seven innings, she struck out four batters and walked none for her 34th complete game in 2002.

"It was just an unbelievable event when we started knocking off all these teams," Ninemire said. "Then we got to the game when we played Arizona State, and the third baseman threw the ball out in right field and we rolled on. We were just on a roll - another win, another win, another win."

The defeat of ASU pushed Cal into the WCWS title game against Pac-10 foe Arizona. Previously that season, the Bears took two of three from the Wildcats, winning two in Berkeley, while dropping one game in Tucson.

Where No Bears Had Gone Before - the Title Game

The championship day held special significance for more than one reason.

It was the first time that the Bears had been in the title game.

No other Cal women's team had ever won a NCAA national championship.

"That championship game that day, it was like a magical moment in a mind," Ninemire. "It was a day that we only dreamed of being at because we've been at the World Series a number of other times, but never got to the final day."

The game was a pitching duel between Cal's Forest and Zona's Jennie Finch, two of the best hurlers in the nation. Forest had a younger team behind her, notably less experienced and freshmen-laden compared to the defending national champion Wildcats. Additionally, Candrea and his 'Cats had already won six NCAA Championships in program history and had been to the title game 10 times. It was truly a David and Goliath situation.

Finch (34-6), the player of the year in 2001 when she went 32-0 and Arizona won the title, retired the first two batters in the seventh before Eldredge walked. Morley followed with a single, then Harper singled up the middle to make it 1-0.

"I'll never forget that seventh inning," Ninemire noted. "Our freshman, Kaleo, dove into home to get the first run. At that point, you're thinking, as a coach, 'Well, we're glad we got one run and hopefully we'll be able to hold on and Jocelyn will do really well on the mound.' But it just opened up the flood gates. It was like my team just believed that the moment was going to happen and it was our time. We scored many more runs after that."

After an intentional walk to Nelson loaded the bases, Finch walked in the second run before giving up a bases-clearing double to Pamanian that made it 5-0. Finch was replaced by Jenny Gladding, who gave up a double to Spencer that finished the scoring.

"Jennie Finch was the reason why we got here and we rode her, and I think she just ran out of a little bit of gas," Candrea said following the game. "It was Cal's day."

With a 5-0 lead in the bottom of the seventh, the Bears took the field on defense, just three outs away from the first title in program history. In the bottom end of the seventh, Forest could not have had a better inning for she struck out the side on a team that had been the No. 1 squad in the country to sign, seal and deliver the national championship.

"So, to me, there will be never a game that will mean more to this program as far as where we have always dreamed of wanting to be," Ninemire said. "Throughout the years, I've had so many special games with so many special players, but that one, I guess, would take the cake."

Cal Softball Clippings

A Season to Remember

It took nine freshmen, one transfer, six juniors and two seniors to lead Cal to a school record 56-19 overall mark and the first NCAA women's title in school history. Those 56 wins set a then-program record for wins in a season, and that mark still stands as of 2009.

For the first time in school history, Cal wrapped up its storybook season with the No. 1 ranking in the USA Today/NFCA Coach's Poll, which was the first time the Bears finished atop the final poll.

Ninemire, assistant coaches John Reeves and Kim Mahr, and student assistant Pauline Duenas were also named the 2002 Speedline/NFCA Division I National Coaching Staff of the Year.

The softball team held the only Cal women's NCAA title until 2009, when the Cal women's swimming and diving won the NCAA Championships. With their 33-11 overall record heading into this weekend, the Bears seemed poised for yet another run into the postseason.

Editor's Note: This story originally ran on CalBears.com in April 2010 as part of a lead-up to Diane Ninemire's 1,000th career victory.

Cal's Arioto is back and better than ever

By Graham Hayes – ESPN.com – April 4, 2012

In her first at-bat of the season and her first in a college game in a year and a half, Valerie Arioto hit a 3-1 pitch for a home run. Two innings later, in her second stint in the batter's box, the Cal senior let a 3-1 pitch go by for a walk. In her third plate appearance, she hit her second home run of the game.

Mind you, all of this came against a Tennessee team still ranked in the top 10.

Right then and there, on Feb. 10, pitchers nationwide might as well have waved the white flag of surrender.

At some point this weekend, the college softball season will hit the exact midpoint between opening day and the final day of the Women's College World Series (although there's no truth to the rumor that if you stand on egg on its end at the precise moment of the midpoint, the egg will remain standing). No team has done more to cement its place as a championship favorite than top-ranked California, and the player at the center of it is a carefree, perpetually smiling fifth-year senior putting together one of the most statistically dominant seasons the sport has seen in a long time.

Entering this week's conference series at Utah, Arioto is hitting .434 with 15 home runs, 45 RBIs and a 1.738 OPS, the product of a 1.092 slugging percentage and borderline ridiculous .646 on-base percentage. If ranking second in the nation in on-base percentage and third in slugging percentage for the best team in the land wasn't enough to clinch USA Softball Player of the Year honors, Arioto also happens to be 15-0 with a 1.03 ERA in 15 starts in the pitching circle, one half of a lockdown pitching duo with Jolene Henderson.

The former Pac-10 produced some impressive dual threats in recent seasons, namely Washington's Danielle Lawrie and UCLA's Megan Langenfeld, but Arioto's numbers might be the best of them all.

The Bears were at it again last weekend, sweeping three games from No. 3 Washington, and Arioto was up to her normal business. In the first two games of the series, she registered just two official at-bats while piling up six walks (she also struck out nine in a complete-game win from the circle in the second game). Thanks to a Cal lineup that is much deeper than last season's World Series entrant, pitching around her did not work out for Washington. As such, the Huskies gave Arioto something to hit in the finale and she obliged with her 15th home run of the season and drove in two runs.

After missing all of the 2011 season with a foot injury, Arioto has returned a better hitter than ever.

"She's become more disciplined at the plate and more picky at the type of pitches she's willing to swing at," Cal coach Diane Ninemire said. "She knows her strength in which pitch she hits the best, and she's not willing to give in unless she absolutely has to. She's really a hitter that a pitcher would not like to pitch to very much."

What must be all the more maddening for opponents is that unlike Lawrie and Langenfeld, each a face mask shy of middle linebacker on the intensity scale, Arioto seems to have so much, well, fun when she's making foes miserable. Sure, the grin may recede as she stares in at a batter or locks in on a pitcher, but after a year away, she takes her craft more seriously than she seems to take herself.

"It really hit me hard," Arioto said of sitting out last season. "I didn't know, really, how to react to it. But I think with all the great support that I had, with my teammates, my family, the trainers, the coaching staff, it kind of turned a negative into a positive for me. When I came back, I still had the love for the game and the want to play."

"I think that's really why I'm so happy on the field is I want to play and I love to play."

When Ninemire talks about Arioto becoming a more patient hitter, it's worth noting that the player in question walked 48 times and posted a .444 on-base percentage as a freshman. Maturation is one thing, but vision and quick hands are gifts that can be honed but not created. So far this season, she's walked 47 times and struck out just 11 times (she struck out 51 times as a freshman). With proven hitters like Jace Williams and emerging freshman standouts like Breana Kostreba, Cheyenne Cordes and Danielle Henderson behind her, pitching around Arioto hardly gets pitchers out of trouble.

But she isn't going to do them any favors by expanding the most expertly managed strike zone in the country.

"I think my year sitting out has kind of put a new perspective on hitting for me," Arioto said. "In past years, I'm very energetic and anxious and kind of emotional, so my year off, I kind of realized a lot of great hitters are very patient, very poised. So I've been trying to do that with my hitting, so hopefully it's been paying off."

Those natural gifts and well-honed skills landed her on Team USA last summer, where she emerged as one of the most valuable run-producing hitters for the national team, an experience that also gave her plenty of live at-bats to work her way back into peak form after returning from injury. One of the players she replaced in the middle of the order for Team USA, as the veteran core of the team opted to focus on the domestic professional league, was Jessica Mendoza. And as politically incorrect as it may be for someone from Cal to laud a Stanford grad, it's Mendoza's swing that Arioto wants. And the results suggest she's coming close.

"It looks easy; that's where I'm trying to get with my swing," Arioto said. "It looks simple, it looks easy, effortless."

It's the exact opposite of the complicated, difficult and arduous task of getting her out. And unless people figure out how to keep her from circling the bases, one at a time or all at once, California is headed back to Oklahoma City for a longer stay this season.

Walk This Way - a Guide to the Bears' Walk-Up Songs

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – March 29, 2012

BERKELEY - Besides the roaring and devoted fan base that comes with playing at home at Levine-Fricke Field, one of the best parts about playing at home for the California softball team are the walk-up songs. Each of the Golden Bears select a clip of one or two songs to be played as they stride to the plate. This weekend will feature the first Pac-12 homestand and only the third chance for the Bears to have walk-up songs, so CalBears.com picked the Bears' brains to find out what their walk-up songs are and why they chose them.

Valerie Arioto - "Valerie" by Amy Winehouse and "I Want to Dance With Somebody" by Whitney Houston. I had to pick "Valerie" because of course it is my name! Whitney is just classic, and that song puts me in a good mood and makes me want to dance!

Cheyenne Cordes - My first walk up song is "Time Has Come Today" by the Chambers Brothers. I chose this particular song because I love the movie "Remember the Titans" and this song is in that movie, and this song gets me pumped. My second walk up song is "The Imperial March (Darth Vader's Theme)" from "Star Wars." I chose this song because it was one of Derek Jeter's walk-up songs. I am the biggest Derek Jeter fan ever and I aspire to be as great as he is one day.

Ashley Decker - "Throw Them G's" by Chingy and "T.H.E." by will.i.am. I chose these songs because they represent my taste in music, and they are good pump up songs.

Frani Echavarria - My walk up songs this year is "Show Me What You Got" by Jay-Z and "Danza Kuduro" by Don Omar and Lucenzo. I chose song one because it's one of those songs that always gets me hyped for the game. I chose song two because the music just makes me feel good and want to dance! It's one of my all time favorite songs.

Arianna Erceg - My pitching song is the theme song to "Space Jam." I personally think this is one of the greatest sport songs ever and it always pumps me up. "Space Jam" is also one of my favorite movies!

Danielle Henderson - My first walk up song is "Slight Work" by Wale. I made it my walk up song because every time I go into the batter's box, I remember that I have worked hard for that very moment, so I should just relax and have some fun. My next walk up song is "Oh Let's Do It" by Lil Wayne because it gets me pumped up to go up to bat. When I hear that Lil Wayne song, it reminds me of let's get it done right here, right now. I have fun with it.

Jolene Henderson - "Stadium" by Cyhi Da Prynce. The opening stanza, "Take me to the stadium I'm going to play my heart out there" is what I do every time I take the field. I love playing this sport, and I love the competition of the sport so it really just hits home."

Victoria Jones - My walk up songs are "Get Down On It" by Kool and the Gang and "Do It Big" by Soulja Boy. My first song was one of my favorites when I was younger, and the lyrics of my second song pump me up.

LaRisa Jones - "You're Not Berkeley Enough" by DJ Fog and Smog, because it reps three things that mean a lot to me - the Bay Area, granola, and obviously organic food. The other is "Toxic" by Britney Spears because who doesn't love Britney?

Cal Softball Clippings

Breana Kostreba - I picked my songs because they calm me and allow me to focus on my at bat. They are also my favorite pre-game songs. I chose "Verbing the Noun" by Bassenectar and "Ghosts N Stuff" by Deadmau5.

Mary Lee - My walk-up songs are "Bad to the Bone" by George Thorogood and "Do You Believe in Magic?" by the Lovin' Spoonful. I chose "Bad to the Bone" because I've had it as a walk-up song since high school, and it is a fun way to characterize myself. I chose "Do You Believe in Magic?" because it is upbeat and you can't help but smile when you hear the song play.

Nikki Owens - My pitching walk-up song is "Rollin" by Lil Wayne because it slaps.

Elia Reid - "Best Love Song" by T-Pain because it's one of those catchy songs that get stuck in your head. "Playa Like Me" by Keak da Sneak because I have to have at least one Bay Area song.

Jamia Reid - "Mirror" by Wayne because it reminds me to be me and no matter what to never give up on myself. "Do My Thing" by Hwood because I really liked the beat of this song and the lyrics say exactly what I am trying to do - do my thing. You have to be yourself and do what works for you. You never have to do too much.

Alex Robben - My walk up song is "Brighter Than the Sun" by Colbie Caillat. It is a different kind of walk up song that makes me smile when I hear it, which positively motivates me when I get up to bat.

Jordan Wallace - Well last year my walk up songs were "Poison" by Bel Biv Devoe and "Magic Stick" by 50 Cent and Lil Kim. I chose Poison because it is my favorite. If I was not redshirting this year, my walk up songs would be "Bad Girl" by Usher because it has been one of my favorite songs for a while. My other song would be "My Humps" by the Black Eyed Peas because that song makes me laugh every time I hear it.

Jace Williams - "Fortunate Son" by Creedence Clearwater Revival because this song is so American and classic I absolutely love it. "Forest Gump" is one of my favorite movies and this song played during one of my favorite scenes. "World A Reggae" by Ini Kamoze is my other song. I am a true Rastafarian at heart, and reggae music is my favorite genre. A lot of the reggae that I like is too mellow for an at bat song so I picked this one by Ini Kamoze because his songs are a little more upbeat than a lot of the other reggae artists I like. Bob Marley is a legend, and no one will ever be as good as he was, I just need to throw that one out there.

Taylor Vincent - My walk-up songs are "I've Got My Mind Set on You" by George Harrison and "Lover, Lover" by Jerrod Niemann because they are both upbeat songs that bring a smile to my face and help me relax in the batter's box.

Britt Vonk - My first song is "Epic" by Sandro Silve & Quintino and the second song is "Calling" by Sebastian Ingrosso & Alesso. They are both techno songs that my brother picked out for me! They get me really pumped up and it reminds me of home!

Lindsey Ziegenhirt - My two walk up songs are "Paradise City" by Guns 'N Roses and "Stronger (What Doesn't Kill You)" by Kelly Clarkson. I chose the Guns 'N Roses song because I enjoy a great guitar, and I chose Kelly Clarkson because I like the motto that her song expresses.

Cal's Valerie Arioto showing she's among softball's best in the U.S.

By Jeff Faraudo – Bay Area News Group – March 23, 2012

In her continuing education as one of the nation's top collegiate softball players, Cal senior Valerie Arioto will bring a new weapon to the diamond this weekend when the No. 2 ranked Golden Bears open Pac-12 play with a three-game series at No. 9 Stanford.

The pitcher/first baseman from Pleasanton, who missed all of last season after breaking her leg, believes she is a more focused player, and gives some of the credit to the one-unit "Laughter and Meditation" class she is taking this semester.

"When I play, sometimes I get stressed out and really anxious," Arioto said. "I thought maybe meditation would help me calm myself."

An online course description suggests the class might allow students to "clear the mind and bring a sense of relaxation and energy (yep, both) to the body."

"I've never done anything like it before," Arioto said. "Maybe it's working."

It certainly hasn't hurt. Arioto has sparked Cal's 26-1 start with a .450 batting average, a team-best 11 home runs, a conference-best slugging percentage of 1.067 and an NCAA-leading on-base mark of .660. As a pitcher, she is 12-0 with an 0.89 earned run average.

"She ranks up there with the best in the country," said Stanford coach John Rittman. "She's really matured into a complete softball player."

Oregon coach Mike White, who worked as an assistant coach last summer when Arioto played on the USA national team, said the 22-year-old from Foothill High is among the five best players in college softball.

"She's taken a team that's probably top 12 and now they're top 2," he said. "Valerie is a big part of that."

The Bears reached the College World Series last season for the first time since 2005, despite the fact that Arioto missed the entire season after fracturing her left fibula in a sliding drill during the team's second practice.

She was healthy enough to hit .368 in 26 games with the USA squad last summer but was strictly an observer during the college season. Coach Diane Ninemire believes the season benefitted Arioto, helping her mature.

"It's taking your ego out of it and just looking at the game objectively and (saying), 'When I come back, how can I help?' That really puts everything in perspective, and I think she's learned a lot from that," Ninemire said.

Arioto agrees. "I realized the people who are having success are the ones who are poised and patient," she said. "I'm still a very feisty person and sometimes I do need to calm that feeling. Mentally, I feel like I've improved."

Patience has become critical this season because opposing teams often are tempted to pitch around her. Arioto has drawn 37 walks -- most in the nation -- contributing to her robust on-base average.

Stanford's Rittman sees the difference but said it's helpful to Arioto that she's surrounded by a potent lineup. "If you don't pitch to her, you're going to have to pitch to someone else who's pretty good," he said. "But she's a patient hitter and knows her strike zone. She's a tough out."

Arioto will play again this summer for the national team, splitting time with the National Pro Fastpitch league's Florida Pride, which recently drafted her in the second round. Her dream summer trip would have been to the London Olympics, but softball was axed from the Olympic program.

"It's very disappointing," she said. "That's the top of the pyramid."

In the meantime, Arioto is eager to help the Bears back to the College World Series, and make her first appearance at the event.

"I think we're up there with the best," she said. "This is the year for us, definitely."

Arioto Set for Long-Awaited Return to the Diamond

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Feb. 6, 2012

BERKELEY - In January of last year, Valerie Arioto seemed poised for the greatest season of her already storied California softball career.

She was coming off a junior season when she earned first-team All-America honors after leading the Bears with 81 walks, a .590 on-base percentage, .819 slugging and .355 batting in addition to a 1.43 ERA in the circle.

Her Golden Bear squad had lost just two starters, Arioto was the lone senior and de facto leader. After losing to an SEC school in Super Regional play for the third year in a row in June 2010, Arioto and her Bears had one goal in mind - make it to the Women's College World Series in Oklahoma City - with all the makings for that to happen. Additionally fueling the fire and prepping her for one last swan song, Arioto spent the 2010 summer playing with the U.S. national team, garnering key experience on both the international and domestic level.

But then, on the second day of spring practice in January 2010, what should have been a routine slide into second base turned into a nightmare for Arioto, her coaches and her teammates for the squad's sole senior broke her leg.

"At first, it hit me hard and I was pretty upset," Arioto said. "But as time went by and I realized how much support and help I had, some of my worries went away."

While Arioto dealt with her demons, the outside world wondered what would happen to the Bears' season.

"I knew this was going to test our team to see who else was going to step up and pick up the slack of Val not being there," Cal head coach Diane Ninemire said. "We had so many hopes and dreams for her last year because of the value that she brings to this team in so many different ways. For any athlete who has an injury and has high hopes, especially being a senior wanting to leave a legacy, I'm sure it was devastating for Val. It was devastating for all of us."

Finding a Place

Arioto's boisterous laugh and effervescent personality veiled any pain so much so that the only markers of her redshirt year were her crutches, and later a walking boot. When her team practiced at Levine-Fricke, Arioto would work on her conditioning. Traveling with the Bears on every trip as if she was still a starter; when her team played, Arioto would help in any way that she could whether it was lending her voice to a cheer, offering a piece of advice to a temporarily sullen teammate or scorekeeping.

"She found ways to participate and give that I don't think she even realized she could," Ninemire said of Arioto's devoted presence last year. "I think the whole experience, as bad as it was, ended up giving us a lot of good things."

Naturally, Arioto is altruistically humble when asked about her contributions.

"Most of the season, I couldn't walk, but I tried to help out the coaches and girls when I could," Arioto said. "With the talent and great girls we had last year, I didn't really need to do much!"

Cal Softball Clippings

However you look at it, Arioto's relationship with her teammates was symbiotic for the unbreakable Golden Bear bond helped bring Arioto out of any dark periods.

"It was physically hard recovering and rehabbing my leg, but I think it was more mentally challenging," Arioto said. "I had a lot of support from my teammates and family, so I began to see my redshirt year as a learning experience. I think it helped me grow as a player and as a person!"

One of the more difficult parts of last year had to be when Cal made it to Oklahoma City for the Women's World Series, a feat not achieved in Arioto's time in Berkeley.

"It was definitely hard - I wanted to play so bad," Arioto said of watching the postseason transpire from the dugout. "But again, I got to see the game from a different perspective and learn a lot about the game, which a lot of players don't get to do until they are done playing or coaching."

The Long Road Back

While her Bears did their workouts in Kentucky and then Oklahoma City, Arioto pounded the pavement.

"I can't say enough about how great our trainers were in helping my recovery process," Arioto said. "As far as getting back into softball shape, I put a lot of work in, but I also reverted back to basics. I just tried to play softball like I had been doing for years and not over think it. Work-out wise, I'm still in the processes of getting back in shape!"

Once the squad returned from the World Series, Arioto laced up her cleats for the first time since her accident to try out for the U.S. senior national team. From June 12-16, Arioto competed with athletes who had played all year for a chance for one of 17 spots on the senior squad.

"I had some doubts," Arioto said of her mindset heading into tryouts. "But I think what helped me succeed was my 'I have nothing to lose' attitude going into it. I went to the tryout more relaxed and ready to play."

Along with her superior softball skill set, her tranquil outlook worked for she made the team.

"I thought it was tremendous," Ninemire said. "To think that she hadn't even really practiced or anything before going out for the tryout, it just goes to show you what an outstanding athlete she is. I don't know very many people who could have done that without putting in the hours of fielding and hitting to be able to have a successful year. She didn't drop off at all. She just won't be denied. I think that her drive propels her to be the very best."

Donning the Red, White and Blue

While Arioto had spent many a summer playing softball, the six-month sabbatical made this a unique experience. The U.S. won gold at the World Cup of Softball, at which Arioto started all six games, paced the Americans in RBI with 11 - 10 of which coming with two outs. She was second in slugging with an incredible 1.063 and third amongst the starters in batting, swinging .438.

"I had a great time playing this summer," Arioto recalled. "The coaching staff is the best and the girls on my team are the best in the world. I got to travel and play softball, not much could be better. I got to experience

Arioto had another priceless experience when she traveled to Mexico for the Pan American Games. With the U.S. and Canada tied 1-1 in the gold-medal game of the Pan American Games, Arioto drove in the go-ahead run to put the Americans up for good en route to their 11-1 victory over their northern brethren to take home gold at Pan Ams on Oct. 23.

"The whole thing was an awesome experience - Mexico was welcoming and we all had a great time!" Arioto said. "It gave me chills to hear our national anthem on foreign soil while we stood on the podium with our gold medals. It's an honor getting the opportunity to represent our country."

2012: Oklahoma City or Bust

With her two gold medals in hand, Arioto returned to Berkeley this January and successfully made it through the second day of practice without another broken bone. In addition to boasting three first-team All-Americans on this year's team, the Bears return all nine starters from the 2011 squad. With the strongest schedule in recent history, it's a long road to the Women's College World Series, but Arioto has her mind in the right place.

"We will see when it gets closer to games, but right now my goal is just to get better every day!" Arioto said. "My role is to hopefully lead by example and help out when I can with my experience. I think we have a great, talented group of girls, so everything else will fall into place!"

The campaign for a national title begins Feb. 10 against fellow perennial powerhouse Tennessee. When the Bears take the field in Arizona on Friday, there will be no one more excited than Arioto.

Freshman Feature: Q&A With Cheyenne Cordes

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Feb. 4, 2012

BERKELEY - Freshman Cheyenne Cordes returned to Berkeley after winter break with a fresh stamp in her passport after winning gold with the U.S. junior national team in South Africa this past December. During her senior season at Rodriguez High School in Fairfield, Calif., Cordes accumulated countless awards, highlighted by the California Gatorade Player of the Year, All-State First-Team, ESPN RISE and Max Preps All-State First-Team, the California Medium Schools Player of the Year, Max Preps All-American and ESPN RISE First-Team All-American. Since her softball resume is quite distinguished, CalBears.com caught up with Cordes to learn more about her as a person.

CalBears.com: What made you chose Cal?

Cheyenne Cordes: The great education, and it's close to home.

CC: Working out, school and family.

CalBears.com: Do you have any unique stories about yourself that set you apart from your teammates?

CC: I was always told that I would never play softball at a Pac-12 college, so that was part of my motivation.

CalBears.com: What's your favorite part about Berkeley and/or the Cal campus?

CC: The campus is very beautiful and the people are friendly.

CC: I am looking forward to being a part of a great softball tradition here at Cal.

CalBears.com: Did you grow up watching Cal athletics? What has it been like to represent them?

CC: Yes, I have watched Cal since the Bears won the 2002 championship. It has been an honor and a privilege to wear the Blue & Gold.

CC: Working out and practicing every day.

CalBears.com: What are you planning on or thinking of majoring in?

CC: Media studies.

CalBears.com: What has been the hardest, most surprising aspect about transitioning from high school to college?

CC: Being away from my family and school has been hard.

CalBears.com: What class did you most enjoy to this fall?

CC: Sex ed.

CalBears.com: Now that you've completed your first semester of college, what advice do you wish someone had told you about college or would you give to incoming student-athletes?

CC: Learn to enjoy reading.

CalBears.com: What characteristic in people do you most admire?

CC: I most admire people's strength and drive. It's amazing what you can do when you have the drive to do it.

CalBears.com: What would you like to be doing in 10 years?

CC: I would like to be an anchor on ESPN with an Olympic gold medal.

CalBears.com: Which three people would you invite to dinner?

CC: Derek Jeter, Natasha Watley and Crystal Bustos.

CalBears.com: What is the best piece of advice you've ever received? What's the worst?

CC: The best advice I have ever received is to always continue to work hard because when you stop that means someone is getting better than you. The worst advice I have ever received is to think while you are playing softball.

CalBears.com: What is your biggest pet peeve?

CC: I do not like the word gross. It is like nails on a chalk board to my ears.

CalBears.com: If you could make a cameo on any TV show, which one would you choose?

CC: If I could I would choose to have a cameo on the show "Modern Family." I really enjoy the series and find it very funny.

CalBears.com: Who is your biggest hero?

CC: My mom. She is the strongest lady I know.

CalBears.com: When you were a little kid, what did you want to be when you grew up?

CC: A softball player!

CalBears.com: If you won the lottery, what is the first thing you would buy?

CC: I would buy a Ford Shelby GT Mustang.

CalBears.com: What is one thing you can't live without?

CC: I cannot live without my family. They are always there for me when I need them.

Golden Bears Chat About Cal Softball Traditions

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Feb. 3, 2012

BERKELEY - With the California softball team in its 40th year of existence, the Golden Bear program is steeped in rich history. The squad still employs certain cheers and traditions that go back years while other customs and rituals are more recent additions. CalBears.com queried the current student-athletes and coaches to find out what their favorite Cal traditions are. One crowd favorite was Ninja, a game the Bears play in which each participant has one chance to knock a teammate out of the game.

Valerie Arioto - My favorite Cal softball team tradition is our “Bear Pride” tradition. It brings us all together before the game starts!

Ashley Decker - My favorite Cal team tradition is practicing and weight training in our costumes on Halloween.

Frani Echavarria - My favorite tradition would have to be either dressing up every Halloween for weights and then practicing in them after, or hearing Val sing her hit song “A Moment Like This” on the bus at the end of every tournament

Arianna Erceg - My favorite Cal softball tradition is the games we play off the field, which include “Just Dance” for the Wii and Ninja!

Jolene Henderson - Of course my favorite Cal tradition would revolve around food. I love it when we go to Hawaii and eat at Benihana. Not only because we’re in Hawaii, but because I love Benihana!

Volunteer Assistant Coach Angie Jacobs - My favorite tradition when I was playing here was when we would come back from the holiday break for spring semester; we would always get together and do something as a team. Before school started, we would always do something like go to Tahoe or have dinner at someone’s house. It was always so great to spend time with everyone.

Victoria Jones - My favorite tradition would have to be playing Ninja.

Assistant Coach Tammy Lohmann - The family atmosphere. We provide a different environment for our kids. I think we have a lot of fun. We get to know them on all different levels. We also challenge them to be better people every day.

Head Coach Diane Ninemire - I like the family atmosphere with all the families supporting the team. Seeing the players and the team and the fans come together and enjoy each others’ company and enjoy the moments, I think that’s really special to see. It’s not just about the wins and the losses but the relationships. I think we do a good job of keeping that family atmosphere here at Cal and the tradition of having fun off the field as well as having so much fun on the field.

Assistant Coach John Reeves - I like it when we win.

Jamia Reid - I would have to say “Bear Pride” because who you stand next to stays the same all year and it’s a ritual before every game.

Alex Robben - Hawaii!!!!!! It is so beautiful, and I love to play out there.

Taylor Vincent - My favorite Cal softball tradition is playing Ninja during warm-ups before we do our dynamic warm-up.

Britt Vonk - When we say “Bears Peace” after every practice.

Jordan Wallace - My favorite Cal softball tradition would have to be playing Ninja!

Jace Williams - My favorite would have to be dinner at Benihana in Hawaii. Every year we have dinner together at Benihana, and it is always delicious. By the end of the season I think I have been to at least 5,929,484 different Walmarts. Wandering around Walmart with the twins is always a good time.

Lindsey Ziegenhirt - I really like our first inning cheer. When I first got to Cal, the older players taught it to us younger players. It’s the only cheer that everyone participates in, and when we do it right, it sounds intimidating and awesome!

National Girls and Women in Sports Day Q&A

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Feb. 1, 2012

BERKELEY - In honor of the 26th celebration of National Girls and Women in Sports Day and the 40th anniversary of Title IX, CalBears.com talked to members of the California softball team to find out what kind of difference playing sports made in their lives.

Valerie Arioto - Sports have really shaped who I am today! Dedication, hard work, competition, accountability, patience, compassion, friendship, heart, diversity, adversity and many more characteristics, I have learned and experienced through sports! I hope other little girls get this opportunity to grow up in a positive atmosphere, learn life values, make life-long friendships and just to have fun!

Cheyenne Cordes - Softball has given me opportunities that I would not have gotten otherwise. First off, I do not come from a wealthy family, so it has given me the chance to get my education at the No. 1 public institution in Cal. Second, it allowed me to play on the USA junior national team and gave me the opportunity of leaving the country. Thanks to softball, I've gone to places like Colombia and South Africa. Lastly, it has given me the chance to be a role model for young girls around the country and world. Having little girls look up to you inspires me everyday to be better on and off the field. All little girls should be given the chance to play sports because competition is healthy and so is social interaction with other people. I have a huge love for the game, and if I was never given the chance to play softball, then I wouldn't know what is like to have that passion or feeling I have for softball.

Ashley Decker - Playing sports has helped me get to where I am now. Along the way, I have met so many people and have experienced so many great things. When I look back on my life, I see great memories that I would never go back and change. All little girls should be given the opportunity to play sports because it is important to be active and experience new things. Sports could help change their lives forever and for the better, like it did for me.

Frani Echavarria - I feel sports have helped me in many ways. It has helped me grow and shaped me into the person I am today. Sports are a part of my identity because it has helped me develop certain characteristics such as mental toughness, leadership, ambition, heart and competitiveness. If I never played sports, I don't know when I would be introduced to things of this nature, and then who would I be today? Sports have also taught me what it's like to be a part of a team and how to work with others. It also helped me build friendships with very special people. Sports give me strength, sports is my haven, and sports lets me express everything I am. I'm proud of who I am and where I am today. I am attending the No. 1 public school, graduating this spring, play in the dominating Pac-12 Conference, and I am a Cal Bear! I feel girls should be given the opportunity to play all sports no matter what it is. Just like how male athletes see sports as a stepping stone or an outlet to help them to become successful in their sport and as people, female athletes have the same dream!

Arianna Erceg - I have been playing sports since I was five-years-old and I couldn't imagine what my life would be without them. Sports have given me life-long friends, a ton of opportunities, and they have taught me life lessons that I couldn't have learned anywhere else. I think that little girls should be given the opportunity to play sports because it allows them to meet new people who share a common interest and it could open many doors for them in the future.

Danielle Henderson - In my lifetime playing sports have helped me find what I truly love to do. I love playing softball and besides it being lots of fun, it has given me a variety of benefits. Softball helped me gain some really close friends and become a part of families. Not only have I been able to gain friends, but it has helped me strengthen other bonds. Softball has made me be responsible, manage my time and learn how to work hard. I would never change playing sports because ultimately it has made me who I am today. All kids should be given the opportunity to play sports because not only is it a way to have your kids be active, it will also help them find who they are because they will be surrounded by girls their own age that have some of the same intentions in life. Sports are fun for kids and the competition enables them to continuously grow to become the best. In the end, sports allow kids to grow up with something they love and enjoy doing.

LaRisa Jones - Being involved in sports has given me a confidence that I don't believe I would have found anywhere else. Young girls should always have the option to be involved in sports because it can give them so many opportunities and a chance to push themselves to excel and succeed.

Victoria Jones - Playing sports has allowed me to develop life-long friendships and has given me athletic ability and competitive attitude to allow me to accomplish anything in life. Girls need to be able to have that competitive mindset and allow them to have fun in sports just as little boys do.

Breana Kostreba - Playing sports has allowed me to make many strong and lasting friendships. I have also learned many life skills through playing sports, such as determination and punctuality. All little girls should be given the chance to play sports because it keeps them active and gives them access to many opportunities. Above all, it is fun.

Mary Lee - By playing sports, I get to be active and competitive. It is a lot of fun to meet and play with so many athletes and friends. All little girls should be given the opportunity to play sports because it's a great atmosphere for competition, exercise, teamwork, commitment and fun!

Nikki Owens - Playing sports has given me the opportunity to meet tons of really cool people and learn how to manage my time and energy efficiently. I also have gotten to see a lot of new places through traveling for tournaments. All little girls should be given the opportunity to play sports because they will be missing out on some really valuable experiences and lessons if they don't.

Elia Reid - Playing sports has helped me become a leader and has helped my work ethic off the field. It has also given me the opportunity to play at a higher level. It teaches young girls responsibility and gives them better opportunities for success. Girls are just as capable as boys and should be given the same opportunities.

Jamia Reid - I think it is important for all little girls should have the opportunity to play sports because it opens many doors. Sports allow you to meet people from different backgrounds, which can potentially help you when looking for a job. Sports help you overcome diversity. But not all sports are for any kid, so I would have to say it's important to find something you love and stick with it.

Alex Robben - Sports have given me the opportunity to go to an amazing college such as Cal. All little girls should be able to play a sport because it benefits them in the long run by having such a variety of talents.

Cal Softball Clippings

Taylor Vincent - Playing sports has allowed me to develop my character, make lifelong friends and grow into a leader. This is reflected not only on the field but in life in general. All little girls should be given the opportunity to play sports because even if you are very successful, sports are a great way to make friends and exercise in the process.

Britt Vonk - Playing sports has done so much for me, so much more than I ever expected. I have traveled around the world, met a lot of great people, and it's made me appreciate everything I have. Girls should play sports so that they have a chance to have great experiences and have an opportunity to develop a strong work ethic.

Jace Williams - Playing sports has afforded me the opportunity to receive a top-notch college. Growing up, my father always told me that he expected all of his children to receive a college education. Knowing that the college fund he started for me can go to my brothers for them to have more opportunities makes me appreciate the true impact sports has had on my life and my families! Sports impact everyone's life differently. Playing sports allowed me to channel and express a lot of different emotions I had growing up, so for me it was more like a safe haven. Sports always made me feel like I had something that was truly mine. No one can ever take your talent away from you!

Lindsey Ziegenhirt - Playing sports has given me a competitive edge that I carry into the classroom and life. I know if I work hard, I can be the best at whatever I do. Girls should be given the opportunity to play sports because it's a great way to help create friendships, exercise and encourage a competitive attitude. It also helps teach that failure isn't a stopping point but rather a turning point to work harder and try again.

Q&A With the Bears About Their Coaches

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 31, 2012

BERKELEY - Using success on the field as a marker, it's no secret that the Cal softball coaching staff continues to excel year in and year out. This past June, after garnering the attention of the nation with a trip to the Women's College World Series, the California coaching staff earned recognition from its peers as the Pacific Region coaching staff of the year. But another yard stick for measuring coaches is how they interact with their student-athletes, and head coach Diane Ninemire, assistant coaches John Reeves and Tammy Lohmann along with volunteer assistant coach Angie Jacobs are some of the best in that category. CalBears.com polled the current Golden Bears to find out why playing for the Cal coaching staff is so rewarding and what some of their favorite coaches' sayings are.

Valerie Arioto - Coach John has a new corny joke every day, so just hearing what he has come up with is always a good time! He looks forward to hearing my great fake laugh! His jokes can break up tension from a stressful practice!

Cheyenne Cordes - I enjoy playing for these coaches because they have a lot of knowledge to share with me, and they are a lot of fun.

Ashley Decker - The best part about playing for the Cal coaching staff is that they are always finding ways to make the team better and to be successful. Plus, they are all easy to get along with, and they all have a sense of humor.

Arianna Erceg - My favorite thing that one of the coaches has said would probably have to be Coach John's jokes that he tells me in the bullpen.

Danielle Henderson - I like playing for this coaching staff because they care about every player and they push the team to perform better every day. They push us to be better, but they also help us to keep loving the game.

Jolene Henderson - Coach John always has these jokes that make me laugh or a turkey for me to look at on the hill. He is an amazing guy and really always takes the time to talk to me about life and makes me work harder on the field and off. The entire Cal coaching staff has definitely given me a lot of laughs, and I am thankful for coaches that want to win but also know how to tell good/bad jokes!

LaRisa Jones - Coach Ninemire has so many classic sayings. One of my favorites is when we're the runner at third and she tells us to be a "Mickey Mouse. Not a Minnie."

Breana Kostreba - My favorite quote is "Clean up your room; recruits are coming," said by Coach Ninemire. Playing for the Cal coaching staff is great because they have so much experience and knowledge to offer.

Mary Lee - Our coaches always emphasize attention to detail, which is a reminder that all the little things count and the effort we put in during the off-season will add up and pay off. The Cal coaching staff is very supportive and enthusiastic, and it is an honor to play for them. I always look forward to softball.

Nikki Owens - My favorite Coach John saying is "Well, the nice thing about [whoever's catching] is that they always give the ball back to you." He says that whenever he notices me getting frustrated over throwing a bad pitch or missing my location in the bullpen. It helps me relax and not take myself so seriously. I love the coaching staff because each of them brings something unique to the table and they are very experienced and wise.

Jamia Reid - My favorite part about playing for the Cal coaching staff is that all of them are all so passionate for the game and they care about their players. They all have a different aspect of the game, which is great. There is a lot of diversity among the three of them.

Alex Robben - When Coach Tammy says "Sissy lalas," when we aren't playing at to our potential. The coaching staff tells it how it is and pushes us to become better.

Taylor Vincent - I love Coach John's jokes. He only has about five of them, but he tells at least one each practice.

Britt Vonk - I love how Coach Ninemire always calls me "Dutch Crunch." It's been great playing for this coaching staff. They have taught me a lot of great things since last year and this year! I can't wait for more!

Jordan Wallace - The best part about playing for this coaching staff is never knowing what you are going to get. Always expect the unexpected!

Jace Williams - Everything Coach Ninemire says is funny. She's old school and that's why she's so awesome. My favorite saying of hers has to be the time she yelled words of encouragement from home plate to center field where Frani was working on her throws to home plate. She yelled, "Come on, Frani, put it in the OVEN." I instantly fell on the dirt laughing. Coach was dead serious and had no idea why we were laughing so hard. Apparently, she did not know that none of us had ever heard that saying before. It still makes me giggle thinking about it!

Lindsey Ziegenhirt - The whole coaching staff is fun to be around because there are so many different personalities that all complement each other.

Freshman Feature: Q&A With Mary Lee

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 29, 2012

BERKELEY - Though freshman Mary Lee is the only one of the five freshmen to not hail from Northern California, her Cal roots run deeper than any of the other first years for she has been a Golden Bear fan for years. Lee attended her first Cal football game at age three and her first softball game - one against Stanford - at age 10, so selecting Berkeley was an easy choice for the San Diego native. As a senior at Torrey Pines High School, Lee earned the Varsity Golden Falcon Award, claimed an All-Palomar League Honorable Mention and landed on the San Diego Union-Tribune All-Academic Team. In 2010 as a junior, she was lauded with the CIF Div. I Championship Game Sportsmanship Award, Falcon Fiesta Championship Game Sportsmanship Award and All-Avocado League Honorable Mention and was on the San Diego Union Tribune All-Academic Team after leading her team to second place in San Diego Section and Avocado League championship. Lee captained her club team - Power Super 187 Gold - from 2010-11 and played at nationals in 2010 with her club. CalBears.com chatted with Lee to learn more about her.

CalBears.com: What made you choose Cal?

Mary Lee: I've been rooting for Cal softball since I was a kid. I chose Cal for its strong academics, top engineering program and school energy!

CalBears.com: What are your hobbies outside of softball?

ML: Outside of softball, I enjoy playing beach volleyball, scrapbooking, shopping and eating frozen yogurt.

CalBears.com: Do you have any unique stories about yourself that set you apart from your teammates?

ML: I have played all nine positions in the last four years.

CalBears.com: What's your favorite part of Berkeley and/or the Cal campus?

ML: Some of my favorite things about Berkeley are all the people I meet and all of the opportunities available to students.

CalBears.com: What is the best thing about being a part of Cal softball?

ML: The best part about being a part of Cal softball is being able to represent my school and play with such an incredible team.

CalBears.com: Did you grow up watching Cal athletics? What has it been like to represent them?

ML: I've been a Cal fan attending Cal football games since before I can remember. As I got older, I became a Cal softball fan, and now it is such an honor to be able to represent Cal! It is really special to wear a Cal jersey and do something I love.

CalBears.com: What has been your favorite part of college life so far?

ML: I've really enjoyed meeting new people, learning about and studying a lot of topics I am interested in, and being a part of such a welcoming team.

Cal Softball Clippings

CalBears.com: What are you planning on or thinking of majoring in?

ML: I am majoring in mechanical engineering.

CalBears.com: What has been the hardest, most surprising aspect about transitioning from high school to college?

ML: Being away from my family and doing things, like my own laundry, took some getting used to.

CalBears.com: What class are you most enjoying to this fall?

ML: I really enjoyed Engineering 7, which was my first programming class, using MATLAB.

CalBears.com: Now that you've completed your first semester of college, what advice do you wish someone had told you about college or would you give to incoming student-athletes?

ML: Make sure you sleep well and take advantage of the opportunities available to you so that you get the most out of your first semester; it will go by quickly.

CalBears.com: What were your initial impressions of Berkeley?

ML: Coming to Cal was always fun for me since at a young age I was either going to a Cal football or softball game.

CalBears.com: What characteristic in people do you most admire?

ML: I most admire kindness and humor.

CalBears.com: What is the best piece of advice you've ever received?

ML: The best advice I've received is to "be happy" and "not stress over the little things."

CalBears.com: Who is your biggest hero?

ML: My parents!

CalBears.com: When you were a little kid, what did you want to be when you grew up?

ML: When I was younger, I always wanted to be an elementary school teacher.

CalBears.com: What is one thing you can't live without?

ML: I can't live without frozen yogurt... and my family!

USA Softball Q&A With Cheyenne Cordes

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 26, 2012

BERKELEY - While many student-athletes were spending their first half of December studying for finals and then spending time with their families, freshman Cheyenne Cordes was chasing gold in South Africa with the U.S. junior national team. At the International Softball Federation Junior Women's World Championship, the Americans defeated Japan 4-1 in the title match to secure gold and finish the tournament with a 10-1 record. In South Africa, Cordes started all 11 games and paced the U.S. squad with 15 hits, 12 RBI, 28 total bases and slugging 1.077. Cordes also spent a good chunk of her summer playing with the junior team, facing off against current teammate Valerie Arioto on several occasions. CalBears.com chatted up Cordes about the last six months with USA/ASA Softball, especially about winning gold in South Africa.

CalBears.com: What was the overall experience in South Africa like for you?

CC: My experience in South Africa was one that I will never forget. South Africa was such a wonderful place to hold a world championship. I learned a lot, met a lot of people and won a gold medal.

CalBears.com: What was the food like in South Africa?

CC: The food in South Africa was very similar to food here in the USA, only I feel it is better there. They eat a lot of fruits and veggies, but they also have fast food like McDonalds and KFC.

CalBears.com: What was the softball experience like for you?

CC: The softball experience was great. We played a lot of games against many different countries. It is always interesting to see how people play and teach the game in other countries.

CalBears.com: How do you think your team performed in South Africa?

CC: I feel that we performed very well in South Africa. We did what we needed to do and we were able to pick up the intensity to rise to the challenges that other teams would present us with.

CalBears.com: You guys only lost once in 11 games, which is crazy impressive. What was that loss like? Were you concerned you wouldn't win the next game?

CC: Our loss against Japan was a learning experience. We came out lacking intensity and the Japanese took advantage of it. After our loss, I knew we were not going to lose again in the tournament. Losing 9-0 is a very humbling thing, but it was exactly what we needed to be able to win the gold medal.

CalBears.com: What's it like to play with all these girls from programs across the nation now that you'll be playing against them instead of with them during the Cal season?

CC: I feel it is an advantage and a disadvantage. I know each and every girl very well, but they also know me very well. I also think I benefitted from play with girls that are so talented because they have pushed me to also try and be the best I can be.

CalBears.com: How was it to balance your first finals week

Cal Softball Clippings

while being in South Africa?

CC: Balancing school in South Africa was a very stressful thing because of the huge time change. Cape Town is a 10-hour time difference.

CalBears.com: What's your favorite memory from the last six months of playing with the U.S. junior national team?

CC: My favorite memory is winning the gold medal in South Africa and the celebration after the game. I also enjoyed the medal ceremony.

CalBears.com: What was it like to play against future teammate Valerie Arioto over the summer?

CC: Playing against Val this last summer was fun. I really enjoyed socializing with her and asking her questions about school. She is also a great ball player from whom you can learn from just by playing against her and watching her.

CalBears.com: Talk to us about the Under Armour Game. What was it like? How was it to share that experience with future Cal teammates Jolene and Danielle Henderson?

CC: The Under Armor All-American game was a lot of fun. The game itself is a lot like a showcase where everyone gets playing time and everyone gets at bats. Being able to share such a big experience with Jo and Dani made it so better because we are very close and enjoy each other on and off the field.

Pre-Game Rituals Q&A With the Bears

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 23, 2012

BERKELEY - What do not stepping on the chalk line, swinging the bat three times before stepping into the batter's box and putting on the left cleat before the right have in common? They're all superstitions that are commonplace in the sport of softball. CalBears.com caught up with the 2012 Golden Bears to find out about their pre-game rituals and superstitions.

Valerie Arioto - I am not superstitious, but I do enjoy listening to music before the game! You have to get pumped up!

Cheyenne Cordes - I do have pre-game rituals but they are constantly changing according to how my team and I do in each and every game.

Ashley Decker - I always say a prayer before every game.

Frani Echavarria - My first pre-game ritual is to set small goals I want to accomplish in the game that day. Second, I listen to my pre-game playlist which is normally nothing but R&B.

Arianna Erceg - One game last year, Jolene [Henderson] and I decided to switch ribbons. Ever since then, before every game we make sure she has one of mine and I have hers.

Danielle Henderson - I always tape my forearm, listen to my music and write my number in the on-deck circle.

Jolene Henderson - I just sit on the bus on the way to the game or in the dugout before I go out and listen to my iPod. Before I go out to warm up, I make sure I listen to the song "Only Hope" by Switchfoot and then I stretch a lot. That's just the way I get into my mindset.

Angie Jacobs - I always double, triple and quadruple check my bag to make sure I have everything - charts, signs, directions, pencils and all my stuff. I don't want to get somewhere and have Coach ask for something and not have it. I'm total type A in double-checking things.

LaRisa Jones - Playing a few rounds of Ninja with the team. One day I'll beat Val.

Victoria Jones - I listen to music before every game. The same play list.

Mary Lee - I just always braid my hair the same way and don't step on the baselines before the game starts.

Tammy Lohmann - I don't have any real superstitions, but I do have things I do pregame. I definitely have to have my hair in a ponytail and a visor on. One time I had my hair down with no visor, we lost. I was informed by Coach that I wear my hair up in a pony tail with a visor. At the World Series, I always took out my photo of Bebe and then put it in my right pocket so she was always with me.

Diane Ninemire - I always wear and kiss my lucky necklace. One of the girls in a camp, Lauren, gave me a necklace that she said would bring us good luck. I told her that if it would bring us enough good luck, she'd be my bat girl at the World Series. And wouldn't you know it, but that happened last year and she came out to Oklahoma City. She sent me a new one for this year.

Nikki Owens - Before a game, I have to listen to good music to get me pumped up. I also make sure my hair looks good so my swag isn't thrown off.

John Reeves - I don't have any pre-game superstitions. I never have.

Jamia Reid - I would say my pre-game ritual would be listening to my iPod and just trying not to actually think about the game.

Alex Robben - The first thing I do is plug in my iPod to slow jams and listen to that the whole warm up.

Taylor Vincent - One of my pre-game rituals is to hold onto my lucky Superman action figure.

Britt Vonk - I always wear ankle socks underneath my softball socks. I always used to do that because I had holes in my socks but then I got used to it and kept doing it. Besides that, I always listen to techno music.

Jordan Wallace - I do have several pre-game rituals that I practice. First I wake up, and make sure to turn my swag on. I also eat the same thing and get ready the same way for each game. My dad always told me that you play how you look, so if you look good you will play good, so I take that into strong consideration. I listen to a specific playlist on my iPod and eat a bag of purple Skittles during warm ups.

Jace Williams - I always listen to my techno iPod playlist during warm ups. Before home games, I like to have lunch with my aunt, uncle and boyfriend; so I guess that can be considered a ritual. When we play in Arizona or anywhere warm I like to read by the pool and catch some rays before a night game.

Lindsey Ziegenhirt - I don't really have a ritual, but I do enjoy listening to music on the bus before a game. John Mayer is one of my go-to artists.

Freshman Feature: Q&A With Danielle Henderson

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 22, 2012

BERKELEY - For those close to the California softball program, one freshman will be a familiar face for Danielle Henderson has finally joined her big sister Jolene in Berkeley. Having attended Golden Bear softball games for years and owning a softball resume that has garnered national attention, the younger Henderson was more than suited to don the Blue & Gold. At the conclusion of her senior season at Sheldon High School in Elk Grove, Calif., Henderson had played for the No. 1 team in the country, led the Huskies to multiple CIF championships, was a three-time scholar-athlete, a three-time member of the All-Delta River League First Team and the 2011 Sacramento Bee Player of the Year. Additionally, on the club circuit, Henderson won 16U nationals and more with the Lady Magic and also played in the 2011 Under Armour All-America Game. CalBears.com caught up with Henderson to learn all things Danielle.

CalBears.com: What made you choose Cal?

Danielle Henderson: I chose Cal because it is the No. 1 public school in the nation, and because my sister and I knew we wanted to play together. I also liked how Cal has a bunch of crazy people, so I fit in perfectly because I'm not normal.

CalBears.com: What are your hobbies outside of softball?

DH: I like to color in coloring books. I know it sounds childish, but I like to stay within the lines.

CalBears.com: Do you have any unique stories about yourself that set you apart from your teammates?

DH: I've had the number 8 since I started softball. I started with it because it was my mom's favorite number and I have had it ever since! When I didn't make the all-star team and was in tears, my sister took number 8 for me.

CalBears.com: What's your favorite part of Berkeley and/or the Cal campus?

DH: I like how Cal has a bunch of crazy people, so I fit in perfectly. It's interesting to walk around and see a variety of stuff.

CalBears.com: What is the best thing about being a part of Cal softball?

DH: The best parts about Cal softball are my teammates! They are the best!

CalBears.com: Did you grow up watching Cal athletics? What has it been like to represent them?

DH: I've watched Cal athletics since I was a freshman in high school because I knew then that I was interested in Cal and that it was the school for me. I've been ecstatic to represent them and have the opportunity to wear their uniform. Ever since I verbalized, I've been picturing it. It's everything I have ever imagined.

CalBears.com: What has been your favorite part of college life so far?

Cal Softball Clippings

DH: I love how I go to college with my brother and sister.

CalBears.com: What are you planning on or thinking of majoring in?

DH: I plan on being a pediatrician because I find it amusing to entertain little kids. I have always found an interest in the medical field because you change people's lives every day. It's still not set in stone, but it is definitely the idea.

CalBears.com: What class did you most enjoy this fall?

DH: The class I enjoyed most was History of Hollywood. I liked how I was able to put what I used into daily life because I love movies, and we analyzed them.

CalBears.com: What were your initial impressions of Berkeley?

DH: Dang, I have to walk these hills!!! But, that it was so different and beautiful. I absolutely loved it!

CalBears.com: What would you like to be doing in 10 years?

DH: Making peanut butter and jelly sandwiches for the kids and being a pediatrician.

CalBears.com: What is the best piece of advice you've ever received?

DH: Failing to prepare is preparing to fail. You can only do as well as you have set out for yourself. If you have worked and done everything possible, then there's nothing else to worry about.

CalBears.com: What is your biggest pet peeve?

DH: When people walk down hills so hard you can hear their footsteps. This is my pet peeve ever since I got to Berkeley.

CalBears.com: Who is your biggest hero?

DH: I wouldn't say I have one hero, but my number one heroes would be my family. They have been with me through everything and have helped me grow. My family has shown me which path to take. They taught me that determination pushed you only as far as you want, but combined with hard work you are unstoppable.

CalBears.com: Do you have a hidden talent? What is it?

DH: My hidden talent is being really good at Pictionary.

CalBears.com: What is one thing you can't live without?

DH: I can't live without my family!!! They mean way too much to me and have made a huge difference in every aspect of my life.

Q&A With Elia Reid

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 21, 2012

BERKELEY - Underneath Elia Reid's athletic 5-4 frame beats the heart of a consummate competitor. The starting right fielder for the past three years, Reid was a 2011 All-Pac-10 Honorable Mention. Last year, she was fifth on the team with her .254 batting average and slugged .485 with 26 RBI and seven stolen bases. Off the field, the Buena Park, Calif., native is known as a jokester, all the while being more serious than her twin sister, Jamia Reid, who plays left field for the Golden Bears. CalBears.com caught up with Elia Reid to get all the details on her, as well as with a few of her teammates to get the real dish on Elia.

CalBears.com: What is your favorite thing about Cal softball?

Elia Reid: Being able to make new friends each year. And sharing laughs with Coach Ninemire in the outfield with the other outfielders.

CalBears.com: How did you get started playing softball?

ER: My mom signed Jamia and I up when we were eight-years-old, just so we would have something to do because cheerleading and dance class were not working out for us.

CalBears.com: What made you choose Cal?

ER: I wanted to challenge myself, not only athletically but academically as well. A degree from Cal is an accomplishment that will help me succeed in life after softball.

CalBears.com: What is it like being on the team with your sister? Is there any sibling rivalry?

ER: I love being able to play with my sister and it would be hard to play without her. No, there isn't any sibling rivalry. We are both always looking to help each other get better.

CalBears.com: If you could play any other sport besides softball, what would it be?

ER: I would run track because I was really successful in that sport out of all the sports I've played besides softball.

CalBears.com: What is your favorite thing about Berkeley?

ER: This is a tough question, but I would say seeing all the dressed up people on the street that you would only see in Berkeley. And this past year the protesting was a good sight to see.

CalBears.com: What is something about you that Cal fans don't know?

ER: I have extreme OCD. I like things clean and in order. I never liked to clean in high school but I am a clean freak now.

CalBears.com: You started slapping first and then your sister. Do you think you usually try things before your sister or does it go back and forth?

ER: I would say it goes back and forth because normally when one of us is going to do something, the other one will try it.

CalBears.com: How would you say you're different than your sister?

Cal Softball Clippings

ER: Well she likes to smile a lot while I'm the more serious one when you look at us. But sometimes people say I'm mean because I'm the serious but really I'm the nice one the majority of the time.

CalBears.com: What is your biggest pet peeve?

ER: It bothers me when people put their jacket strings in their mouths and chew on them.

CalBears.com: What is your favorite Holiday? Why?

ER: I would say Christmas because I get to share it with my family.

CalBears.com: If you could have one superpower, what would it be?

ER: I would want to be able to read peoples minds. That would be a good superpower to have so I know what others around me are thinking.

CalBears.com: Would you rather spend a day at the beach or in the snow? Why?

ER: I would much rather be in the snow because I already get enough of the sun. And I would be able to build little snowmen all around.

CalBears.com: When you're not playing softball or studying, what are you most likely doing?

ER: I am most likely watching movies on Netflix or talking on Skype with my boyfriend.

CalBears.com: If you could be on a reality TV show, what would it be?

ER: I would start my own reality TV show called "Life as a Twin." But if I had to choose I would say the "Love & Hip Hop." I think that's the most exciting one.

CalBears.com: What is one thing you want to do before leaving Cal?

ER: Graduate, of course. But making it to the Women's College World Series and coming home champions would be a great achievement.

What Her Teammates Are Saying:

Jace Williams: Elia is an all or nothing type of player! She does not know how to go half-speed. She goes 100 percent after balls in the outfield, throws a million miles an hour, beats out routine ground balls from the right side of the plate! She is an absolute monster in the weight room and incredibly fast, agile and athletic! She can make "impossible" plays look easy without ever leaving her feet. She is a heads-up player, who really knows this game in and out! Off the field she is hilarious! She has a blunt sense of humor that I find to be quite hilarious. She is always kidding, but if you don't know her personality and take her seriously then she will probably scare your britches off. She always tries to intimidate me, and it usually works, which is funny. She is a crazy driver, but not as crazy as her twin sister Jamia! Watch out for these Geminis!

Bears Share Favorite Memories From 2011 Season

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 20, 2012

BERKELEY - The 2011 campaign for the California softball team was one of the most prolific ones in recent history. After losing star senior Valerie Arioto in the second practice of the year, the outlook may have looked bleak to the outside world, but the Golden Bears mustered a season of epic proportions. Cal took second in the Pac-12, breezed through Regional competition and won its first-ever Super Regional over an SEC school to return to the hallowed grounds of Oklahoma City. With 21 days remaining until the start of the season, CalBears.com chatted with the returning Bears about their favorite memories from the 2011 season.

Valerie Arioto - My favorite memory from the 2011 season was the opportunity to watch and learn. I grew a lot as a player and a person from watching my redshirt season.

Ashley Decker - My favorite memory from the 2011 season was definitely making it to the World Series.

Jolene Henderson - My favorite memory of 2011 was our Super Regional in Kentucky. I feel like my team really stepped up big in every way and took on a mentality that I had never seen before. It was in the postseason, which is the most important part. After losing that second game, we all came together and there was no way we were going to lose. That feeling is something that I want to have all year this year and something that was amazing to be a part of! The other top memory was being in the World Series!!

Frani Echavarria - My favorite moment would be the whole experience of being at the College World Series.

Arianna Erceg - My favorite memory of the 2011 season was beating Kentucky in that last game of Super Regionals, which allowed us to advance to the World Series.

Angie Jacobs - Being a part of the postseason and the World Series experience. Competing at the World Series was so exciting.

LaRisa Jones - It was being locked in Alex Robben and Ashley Decker's hotel room during the tornado warning in Kentucky, and watching Alex hide in the bathtub like that was going to save her from the tornado.

Victoria Jones - My favorite memory would have to be playing at the College World Series in front of that many people.

Tammy Lohmann - Definitely the entire World Series experience of going there and seeing the girls have such a great opportunity to play on such a big stage. When I was a player, I always said I would never go and watch a game at the World Series unless I was playing in it. As a coach, I always said I would never go and watch a game at the World Series unless I was coaching in it. To have the opportunity to go to the World Series and experience it myself for the first time was amazing. It was great to finally achieve that goal.

Diane Ninemire - I think when we swept UCLA and took two of three at Arizona. It was a big turning point for us. It helped build confidence in the girls that we could win really important games. It showed that we were reestablishing ourselves, and those wins really propelled us into the postseason.

Cal Softball Clippings

John Reeves - My favorite memory was the entire postseason road trip. I am still amazed how well these guys carried it off. It was a long time to travel, but there were no bumps in the road. It was one of the best road trips I've ever been on.

Elia Reid - Hitting a homerun at the College World Series.

Jamia Reid - My favorite memory of 2011 was making it to the College World Series and being in OKC. It was a great experience, and I can't wait for 2012 season.

Alex Robben - My favorite memory was traveling for three weeks. It actually let me get a lot closer with my team and that is going to benefit us this year. There is no way a team is closer than ours.

Taylor Vincent - My favorite memory of the 2011 season was winning Super Regionals in Kentucky.

Britt Vonk - The World Series was a great experience, but my favorite part was the final game against Kentucky. There was so much pressure but we stayed cool and we won! That was a great feeling.

Jordan Wallace - My favorite memory of the 2011 season would have to be making it the Women's College World Series.

Jace Williams - Without a doubt the way I felt after that last out in Lexington was something I can't describe. It's my driving force for this year's season. I want to feel that all over again! Looking in the stands and seeing our group of 15 parents/fans lost amongst a sea of royal blue Kentucky fans cheering as loud as they could was insane! That Super Regional win lit my fire that has now transformed itself into a large raging bonfire!

Lindsey Ziegenhirt - I loved the postseason. Being on the road for three weeks was challenging, but the chance to participate in the World Series was definitely worth it all. I would say it was a once in a lifetime experience, but we are all working hard to make sure we go back. By the end of my senior season, I want to be able to say it was a three times in a lifetime experience!

Freshman Feature: Q&A With Breana Kostreba

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 19, 2012

BERKELEY - Freshman Breana Kostreba is one of three freshmen who were named to the prestigious 2011 All-California Team, and CalBears.com relished the opportunity to chat with the Aptos, Calif., native. An exceptional prepster at Aptos High School, she was named 2008 MVP of the Santa Cruz Coast Athletic League and to multiple Cal-Hi Sports teams as a sophomore and a junior. As a senior, was named a MaxPreps Second-Team All-American and ESPN RISE All-American, SCCAL Softball MVP of the Year and to the All-League First-Team. As the starting third baseman on nationally ranked Sorcerer 18 Gold, Kostreba's club team was the 2009 ASA 18 Gold National Champion. Further rounding out her resume, she was also involved in the award-winning Aptos High School Robotic Club.

How the Bears Spent Their Winter Break

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 17, 2012

BERKELEY - For students at the University of California, the time between the last final and the first day of classes is a wonderful span called winter break. As part of the 30-day lead into the season, CalBears.com chatted with the Golden Bears to see how they spent their winter vacation and if they have any special holiday traditions.

Valerie Arioto - I spent a lot of time at our beach house this winter break! Eating a lot of good Italian food is a tradition for my family during the holidays! We love food!

Cheyenne Cordes - I spent the first half of my break in South Africa competing in the World Championships with the USA Junior National Team. I brought home the gold and spent the rest of my break enjoying the time I had left with my family.

Ashley Decker - I spent my winter break with family and friends. A tradition we have is that every Christmas Eve, we have a white elephant and exchange all kinds of gifts! My favorite part of break was sleeping in and spending time with family and friends.

Frani Echavarria - I spent Christmas at home with my family. For New Year's I went to San Francisco and watched the fireworks over the bay at midnight with my family and boyfriend. Throughout my break, I worked out and hung out with friends. My favorite part of break was the home-cooked meals and catching up on sleep.

Arianna Erceg - I spent winter break at home with my family and friends. One holiday tradition that my family has is that we always make white chocolate-covered pretzels and give them as gifts. My favorite part about break was just being able to spend time with family and being able to see my friends.

Danielle Henderson - All I really did was hang out with my family and work out. I just loved being back home and surrounded by my family. There were lots of family parties for birthdays and holidays. For Christmas, we always have two Christmas parties with both sides of the family, and that's always fun. On my mom's side of the family, we have started making it a tradition to play Pictionary. But our family is always competitive, so it's tough. While I was on break, I feel like the best part about it was being at home with my family.

Jolene Henderson - I spent my break hanging out with family, working out, and sleeping until noon or 1 p.m. every day. I go to this gym and did crossfit and conditioning workouts. I also did a lot of Bikram yoga to get more flexible and just relax. Our holiday traditions consist of a lot of food and a lot of family. The favorite part about my break is just being home because I won't be there for a while, so I definitely enjoyed it while it lasted.

Angie Jacobs - I got to go home to Salt Lake City. When I was in California, I was able to get out and ride my road and mountain bikes. Our family always goes to a movie on Christmas Eve, and then we have a big breakfast Christmas morning with all the good holiday foods.

LaRisa Jones - I spent most of my break just relaxing at home with my family.

Victoria Jones - I spent my winter break with family and friends. My favorite part of break was being able to be home without stress and being able to spend time with my family.

Breana Kostreba - I spent my winter break with my family and friends back home. I went to Las Vegas with my parents for a week, and saw many shows while we were there. I also worked on my game, along with my strength and conditioning.

Mary Lee - I spent my winter break with friends and family at home in San Diego. I went to the Holiday Bowl to root on our Cal football team and spent a lot of time at the beach. As far as holiday traditions, my family always opens gifts on Christmas morning then usually plays a family football game, which we call the "Baby Jesus Bowl," before eating dinner. I enjoyed getting to relax and catch up with my friends and family over break, while training for the spring season!

Tammy Lohmann - The holidays are a big thing for my family. We always get together, even though we're living in different parts of the country. All the siblings stay at my parents' house on Christmas Eve, which is a big family tradition. On Christmas morning, we always open presents. The rest of the family comes over for breakfast and we open more presents. My favorite memory of this winter break was playing Michael Jackson: The Experience with my 85-year-old grandmother.

Diane Ninemire - I was anxious for the season to start, so I spent some time watching game film.

Nikki Owens - I spent my winter break training and spending time with friends and family. My favorite part of break was getting another tattoo and working out at my old gym, where I spent most of my summer.

John Reeves - I just enjoyed the time off and the peace and quiet. Our winter break comes at a great time. It's a great time to store up your energy before starting the season. My family does go to Cracker Barrel whenever we can. If we're in a state with Cracker Barrel, we go.

Elia Reid - I spent my first 19 days of winter break in Norman, Okla., with my boyfriend. I would say my favorite part about winter break was being able to spend my Christmas and New Year's in different states.

Jamia Reid - This winter break I spent time with family and friends. I helped take care of my nieces Madison and Lilah, who are also twin girls. My favorite part of winter break is being able to spend time at home with my family because once season starts, I can't really go back home.

Alex Robben - I went to Disneyland for a week with my family. It was a good way to end my winter break.

Taylor Vincent - I spent my winter break at home with my family. One of my family traditions is that my parents hide a pickle ornament in the family room and the first one to find it in the morning gets a special present. This past Christmas, I found it on top of the fan and had to get a ladder out in order to retrieve it.

Britt Vonk - I finally got to go back to Holland, which was a long flight, but it was all worth it! In Holland, at least in my family, the month December is pretty special. On the fifth of December we have a special Dutch holiday that we call "Sinterklaas." Of course, there are Christmas and New Year's Eve. It was great to be back home with my family and friends. My favorite part was Christmas with my family and the trip to Berlin with my friends.

Jordan Wallace - For majority of my break I slept in and caught up on my favorite TV show, "The Game." I figured since I do not get to do either one of those things on a regular basis, I might as well take advantage when given the opportunity. My family and I always make sure to take time out and go to Candy Cane Lane in my hometown. Candy Cane Lane is about two to three blocks long full of extremely over the top decorated houses, the kind of stuff you only see on the movies. We get hot cider, walk the blocks together and just admire the time and effort these people put into decorating to bring out the Christmas spirit. My favorite part of the holiday season would have to be spending every day with my family. They are by far the most important thing to me, and what better way to spend the best time of the year with the best people in your life.

Jace Williams - San Diego was blessed with incredible weather over the winter holidays, and I took full advantage of it. If "beach bum" was in the dictionary, my name and picture would be included in the definition. I had quite the routine going: wake up, walk my dog, lift at the gym, go on a run, hit, then go to the beach and play volleyball from 12-4! Coming back to Berkeley with a winter tan is pretty epic. Every year, my grandma hosts a Christmas Eve party with all our close friends and extended family members. My grandma, aunt and mom (and me for the first time this year) cook a huge Christmas dinner that takes all day to cook. We all spend the night after the Christmas Eve party and open gifts together on Christmas as a family. This year, I cooked breakfast and almost ruined Christmas dinner by locking the potatoes in the oven. I "locked" the oven with what was not a lock but indeed a self-cleaning lever. We had to turn off the oven and wait for it to cool before we could get the potatoes out. It was a near disaster, but my potatoes turned out great!! I haven't seen my little brother on Christmas in five years, so it was a real treat being able to spend the break with him. Seeing my little brother and going to the beach every day was the best part of my break.

Lindsey Ziegenhirt - My winter break was interesting. I had surgery three days after my last final to remove my tonsils and adenoids. I lost 20 pounds in a week because I couldn't eat, and the only thing I could drink besides the medication was ice chips. For some reason all I would watch is Food Network shows (even though I couldn't eat). Paula Deen and Giada De Laurentiis have some amazing-looking recipes I wanted to try when I felt better. I decided to make tiramisu and buttermilk pie, and they turned out to be really yummy. I really enjoyed gaining some weight back by eating my desserts. Basically, during my winter break I was either miserable on my couch or baking dessert.

Bears Celebrate Holidays With Friends of Jaclyn Adoptee

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 16, 2012

BERKELEY - Before departing Berkeley to spend the winter break with their families, the California softball team spent time with an important members of its Golden Bear family - Bebe Wiggs and her family.

In 2010, the Golden Bears adopted Bebe, a local child with pediatric cancer, through the Friends of Jaclyn Foundation. The Friends of Jaclyn Foundation (FOJ) is a non-profit, charitable organization that improves the quality of life for children with pediatric brain tumors and their families.

This past December, the Cal softball team joined the Wiggs family for a holiday celebration. Everyone enjoyed a delicious dinner at the newly opened Simpson Center for Student-Athlete High Performance. Following the meal, the group headed to the softball squad's brand-new locker room for presents and a big surprise for Bebe.

Prior to the dinner, the Bears and staff selected a locker that will be Bebe's for the duration. They filled it with presents for her and then gift wrapped the locker for Bebe.

"It was one of our holiday highlights, to bring a little joy to Bebe and her family," head coach Diane Ninemire said. "They have gone through so much with all of her diagnoses and her treatments. I think it made everybody on the team feel that good that we can give back. At that time of the year, too, it really helps you to be appreciative of all the things that you do have."

Each of the coaches and student-athletes donated gifts to Bebe, ranging from princess-themed items to a softball bat and glove to stuffed animals.

"The party with Bebe showed the true Christmas spirit with every present she unwrapped," sophomore catcher Taylor Vincent said. "She was so excited for each and every gift and had a smile plastered on her face the whole time. The whole party felt really great. Her parents sent a heart-warming thank you note that pretty much made my Christmas."

Assistant coach John Reeves gave Bebe her own recliner for her to sit in when she visits the locker room. Bebe even received her very own Cal softball jersey with "Bebe" on the back.

"It was really cute to watch her open each present and how much she loved everything," LaRisa Jones said.

Bebe and her family have been out to several Cal softball games to throw out the first pitch and interact with the Bears. The Cal helmets sported a BW sticker in Bebe's honor for the playoffs in 2010. During the historic 2011 postseason run, the Bears and each of the coaches had a picture of Bebe in their batting helmets or short pockets, respectively.

"I think it's good for the girls to understand that there are a lot of things they can do to make a difference in other people's lives," Ninemire said. "It's a joy for us to be able to do that. It was a wonderful opportunity for us to spend time with Bebe and her family."

Freshman Feature: Q&A With Nikki Owens

By Anna Oleson-Wheeler – CalBears.com – Jan. 14, 2012

BERKELEY - As the California softball team prepares to celebrate the 10-year anniversary of the 2002 national championship, it is quite fitting that one of this year's freshmen has direct ties to that team. Nikki Owens notes her biggest role model is former Golden Bear Jocelyn Forest, with whom Owens spent the past year training. Owens - who hails from Scotts Valley in the Santa Cruz mountains - only played part of her senior season at Scotts Valley High School but still went 8-4 in 74 innings of work the circle, with a 0.48 ERA and limited opposing teams to a combined .065. CalBears.com chatted with Owens to find out more about the freshman who was home schooled until eighth grade and is a full year younger than her first-year compatriots.

CalBears.com: What made you choose Cal?

Nikki Owens: I chose Cal because it was close to home and offered a great education as well as the opportunity to play on one of the best teams in the country. I fell in love with Berkeley on my visit.

CalBears.com: What is one thing you can't live without?

NO: Music.

CalBears.com: What are your hobbies outside of softball?

NO: I like to hang out with my family, go out with my friends and read.

CalBears.com: Do you have a hidden talent? What is it?

NO: My biggest talent is my ability to write an eight-page paper in under an hour. I'm also a kind of legit rapper.

CalBears.com: Do you have any unique stories about yourself that set you apart from your teammates?

NO: I was homeschooled until eighth grade. I also skipped kindergarten, so I am a full year younger than the other girls in my recruiting class.

CalBears.com: What's your favorite part about Berkeley and/or the Cal campus?

NO: I love the people you see and meet in Berkeley. I have seen some of the weirdest, funniest sights of my life just in the four months I have spent living here so far.

CalBears.com: What is your biggest pet peeve?

NO: People who have bad manners. I also have a pretty serious foot phobia.

CalBears.com: What is the best thing about being a part of Cal softball?

NO: All the time you get to spend with the team, and how much of a family we are. You know someone always has your back and cares about you through whatever.

CalBears.com: What is the best piece of advice you've ever received? What's the worst?

NO: The best advice I have ever received was that success is the best revenge, especially when it comes to all of the people I had growing up who told me I would never be able to play in college, especially on a team like Cal.

CalBears.com: Did you grow up watching Cal athletics? What has it been like to represent them?

NO: I watched a lot of Cal softball growing up and can remember being so in awe of the players on the field. It's still hard for me to believe that I get to wear the Cal uniform this season because it was my dream for a very, very long time.

CalBears.com: Which three people would you invite to dinner?

NO: Jesus, Tyga and Drake. But probably not all at the same time because that could get awkward.

CalBears.com: What has been your favorite part about college life so far?

NO: I love the memories I've made with the team as well as the other people I have met while living in the dorms and all of the hilarious stories I have from my experiences with them.

CalBears.com: What are you planning on or thinking of majoring in?

NO: Originally, I planned on majoring in astrophysics, but my interests have since shifted towards something in the mathematics realm. I would like to do something involving statistics in relation to advertising or marketing.

CalBears.com: What has been the hardest, most surprising aspect about transitioning from high school to college?

NO: At first, it was a big struggle to balance all the new-found freedom with the load of responsibility suddenly dropped on your plate. As an athlete, we have a lot of people at Cal here to help us. But at the end of the day, it is on you to wake up on time for morning workouts, get your massive amount of homework done, and somehow find time to sleep and eat in between the two.

CalBears.com: What class did you most enjoy this fall?

NO: My favorite class this fall was my English writing class. My professor was tight.

CalBears.com: Now that you've completed your first semester of college, what advice do you wish someone had told you about college or would you give to incoming student-athletes?

NO: Be prepared to read, a lot. Get used to fitting in 15-minute power naps whenever you can and wearing sweatpants every day of your life. Know yourself in regards to what works for you when it comes to study habits and time management.
