2008 SEASON OUTLOOK

BEARS PURSUE NATIONAL TITLE

With a rich history of success on the national stage, California aims to be one of the top contenders for the 2008 NCAA title.

In the last seven years, the Golden Bears have emerged as one of the most consistent programs at the national level, advancing to the NCAA regionals each year and to six NCAA Championships. Cal joined Duke as the only schools to post top-five showings at NAAs from 2004-06, with the Bears' best result being fourth place in 2004 on the strength of Sarah Huarte's NCAA crown.

This year's Cal team is young, but the two juniors, two sophomores and one freshman in the Bears' usual starting lineup have ample experience. Juniors Allison Goodman and Shannon Yocum competed at the 2006 NCAA Championships and have combined to play 156 rounds for Cal. Sophomores Roseanne Niven and Sofia Janer and freshman Pia Halbig have honed their games at the international level.

"All of the pieces are in place for our team to win a national championship," said Cal head coach Nancy McDaniel, who is in her 13th season as the founding coach of the women's program. "We are poised and confident heading into the spring. This year's team is balanced from positions one through five and displays a competitive camaraderie."

McDaniel also mentions several other keys to her team's success this season. The Bears are driven, passionate and high achievers who are positive in everything they do. Those attributes, combined with talent, make it obvious why Cal is coming off a successful fall season.

Cal opened the fall with a 19-shot victory at the Ptarmigan Ram Fall Classic and followed up that performance with three more top-five showings. Yocum won the Ram Fall Classic, her first collegiate title, with a career-best score for 54 holes (-2, 214).

Cal is on pace to set a school record for team-scoring average, carrying a 296.4 mark into the spring (record is 298.1, 2003-04). The Bears' new state-of-the-art Scoring Zone, which opened last fall at Metropolitan Golf Links in Oakland, has helped each player shave shots off of her individual average.

"When players come up to you and say, 'Coach, I can see a difference in my game and my statistics,' you know you have a special facility," McDaniel said.

The Scoring Zone will be a catalyst for Cal to maintain its status as a top academic and athletic choice for elite golfers.

"We've been committed in this decade to shape Cal into a golf school," said McDaniel, whose team enters the spring ranked No. 10 by Golfweek. "This year's mature group of players will help us sustain our spot on the national scene for many years to come."

Yocum is Cal's vocal leader, while Goodman leads by example. Goodman, a San Diego product, is coming off four top-25 results in the fall and sports a career-best 74.8 average, which ranks third on the team. As a sophomore, Goodman led Cal in eight of 11 tournaments, highlighted by a tie for third at the Spartan Invitational and a fifth-place finish at the Pac-10 Championships. Goodman's strong display at the conference meet helped her earn honorable mention All-Pac-10 honors.

"Allie's strengths are her consistency and extensive collegiate experience," McDaniel said. "She's the team's rock. We can count on Allie to come up big when we need it. Her teammates can also depend on her off the course."

Yocum has made huge strides since her arrival on campus in the fall of 2005. This past fall, the Palos Verdes Estates, Calif., native recorded a career-best scoring average of 75.7 behind three rounds below par and one at par. Last season, Yocum garnered a variety of awards, including her second choice as a National Golf Coaches Association Academic All-American and Cal's Most Improved Player.

"Shannon has come a long way since her freshman season," McDaniel said. "It was exciting to see her finish on top at the first tournament in the fall. She has worked really hard on her game and is mentally and physically prepared to be a consistent performer for us."

Niven has shown the greatest improvement on the team since last season. A native of Perth, Scotland, Niven is tied for the team scoring lead with Halbig with a 74.3 average, which is over six strokes better than her freshman year. In the fall, Niven led Cal in two competitions, tying for 10th at the Edean Ihanfeldt Invitational and tying for 11th at the Stanford Intercollegiate with a career-best score of three-under 68 in the final round. Prior to coming to Cal, Niven won the 2006 Scottish Girls under-18 national title.

"Roseanne is quietly competitive and is always prepared when she steps on the golf course," McDaniel said. "Last spring, she didn't play up to her potential, and now you can tell she is prepared to be a driving force for the Bears over the next few years."

Janer, who hails from Bogota, Colombia, performed at a high level for Cal in the fall despite battling chronic elbow pain. She registered two top-10 results, placing seventh at the Kent Youel Invitational and tying for ninth at the Ram Fall Classic. Janer carded a collegiate-low round of three-under 69 in the second round in Hawaii. A highlight of Janer's rookie season came at the Pac-10 Championships when she tied for seventh to garner honorable mention All-Pac-10 accolades.

"It's exciting to see someone golf for the love of the game," McDaniel said of the five-time Colombia junior national champion. "She is our inspiration as she plays through pain to contribute to our success. She epitomizes what it means to play with heart."

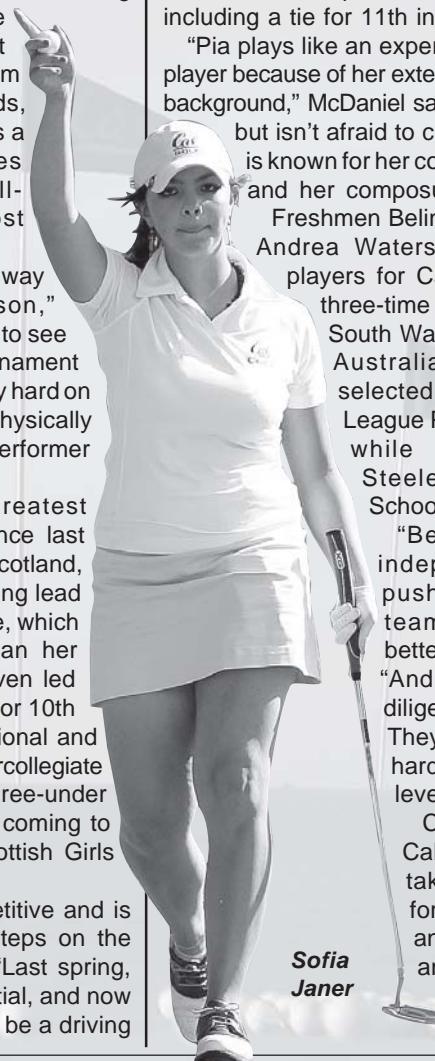

Halbig, who took third at the 2006 German Ladies Championship, has had an immediate impact as a freshman. In her first tournament, Halbig was the runner-up to Yocum at the Ram Fall Classic (even-par 216) with two collegiate-low rounds of one-under 71. The product of Maintal, Germany, finished in the top 30 in all four fall events, including a tie for 11th in Hawaii.

"Pia plays like an experienced collegiate player because of her extensive international background," McDaniel said. "She's serious but isn't afraid to crack a smile. She is known for her competitive attitude and her composure."

Freshmen Belinda Diamond and Andrea Waters are great role players for Cal. Diamond is a three-time selection to New South Wales' state team in Australia. Waters was selected the Grossmont League Player of the Year while competing for Steele Canyon High School in Jamul, Calif.

"Belinda is independent and pushes her teammates to get better," McDaniel said. "Andrea has worked diligently on her swing. They are both working hard to play at the next level."

Clearly, this year's Cal team has what it takes to challenge for the national title and solidify its spot among the nation's elite teams.

CALIFORNIA HEAD COACH

Nancy McDANIEL

Head Coach • 13th Season

Nancy McDaniel, the founding coach of the California women's golf team, enters her 13th season directing one of the most nationally regarded golf programs in the country.

During Cal's rise to the upper echelon of the collegiate women's golf landscape, McDaniel has led the Golden Bears to six NCAA Championships, highlighted by three top five showings from 2004-06. Duke was the only other school during that span to register three straight top five national finishes. After the 2005-06 season, McDaniel was selected the LPGA Teaching Division Western Section Coach of the Year.

The Bears have eight NCAA regional berths to their credit under McDaniel, capped by 2004's program-best finish of fourth at the NCAA Championships. That year, Sarah Huarte won Cal's first NCAA individual title.

Following four top five 2007 fall finishes, McDaniel was recognized as Golf World's Midseason Coach of the Year. She looks forward to the Bears, who are on a school-record pace for team stroke average at 296.4, building on their early season success and challenging for the national title in the spring.

Huarte, a former first-team All-American who is now playing on the LPGA Tour, benefited from McDaniel's tutelage, as she posted a 76.8 stroke average as a freshman but concluded her senior campaign with a new Cal record of 73.82.

In addition to leading Cal to national prominence, McDaniel has guided Cal to six consecutive upper-division finishes at the Pac-10 Championships, including claiming its first conference crown in 2003.

Cal finished 19th at NCAAs in 2001 in its first appearance, 15th in 2002 and tied for 14th in 2003 prior to its best-ever performance in 2004. In 2003-04, the Bears established a school record for season stroke average at 298.1 and finished the year ranked No. 3 by Golfweek (best ever by the publication.)

During the 2002-03 season, McDaniel directed Cal to a nation's-best seven tournament titles, including the Bears' first Pac-10 and NCAA regional (Central) crowns, propelling them to an all-time best national ranking of No. 2 by Golfstat heading into the NCAA Championships.

The program's 2002-03 accomplishments earned McDaniel a collection of prestigious awards - National Golf Coaches Association (NGCA) Coach of the Year, the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) Teaching and Club Professional Coach of the Year and Golfweek magazine's Coach of the Year. She also garnered her second Pac-10 Coach of the Year and NGCA Western Regional Co-Coach of the Year selections and was honored as California's Athletic Alumni Association's Big C Society Coach of the Year.

Under McDaniel's leadership, Cal has garnered

The McDaniel family with Oski

22 All-Pac-10, nine all-region and nine All-America honors. In 2002-03, the Bears achieved a program-high six all-conference citations and received their first-ever All-America picks. Huarte is Cal's only three-time first-team All-Pac-10 recipient, while Sofie Andersson is the Bears' only three-time All-American.

The 2001 Pac-10 Coach of the Year and 2002 West Regional Coach of the Year also has coached the Bears to first-place finishes at 17 tournaments, including 12 since the spring of 2002, and at least one in nine of the last 11 seasons, including this year.

One of the most successful players ever to compete at Washington, McDaniel was team captain as a senior in 1988 and earned one All-America and two Pac-10 All-Star team selections. During her career, she won individual titles at the 1987 Washington and BYU tournaments and finished in the top 10 at seven additional events. McDaniel recorded a 74.3 average her senior year with the Huskies, posting a personal-best round of 69 in the fall of 1987. She was named to Washington's Pac-10 All-Decade team (1986-96) for women's golf and received her bachelor's degree in speech communications in 1988.

McDaniel came to Cal with five years of professional experience on the Women's European, Ladies Asian and Players West golf tours. One of the top players on the Ladies Asian Tour, she finished 13th out of 153 participants in 1993 and ranked 20th during her final season in 1994. Prior to that, McDaniel won the Players West title at the 1992 Las Vegas Classic and won the LPGA sectional qualifier in Mission Hills later that year. She currently is a member of the LPGA Teaching Division.

McDaniel spent three years as a touring golf professional, playing out of Brookside Country Club in Stockton, Calif., before accepting the position at Cal in October of 1994. Originally from Portland, Ore., Nancy and her husband, Jay, the head golf professional at Claremont Country Club, have an 11-year-old son, Tyler, and an eight-year-old daughter, Molly.

COMMENTS FROM THE COACHES

NANCY McDANIEL - HEAD COACH

WHAT MAKES THIS YEAR'S CAL TEAM SPECIAL?

"This year's team is special because they are carving their own way and creating a strong identity for Cal golf. They have so much pride in Cal and what they accomplish as a team. They are young and know they will have the opportunity to finish out a strong year in 2007-08 and have yet another shot at their dreams next year. This team has really come into its own and has shaped its own identity. They are driven, passionate and high achievers who are positive in everything they do."

WHAT DOES ANNE WALKER MEAN TO CAL GOLF?

"Anne helps guarantee a high standard for Cal golf at all times. Anne arrived at Cal in 1998 and from that moment, Cal golf never looked back! She was a three-time Academic All-American and backed up her academics with Pac-10 honors on the course. Anne exemplifies Cal golf and is so versatile in her talents. She brings an air of excellence to the program whether she's mentoring the players academically, challenging them in a short-game contest or holding them accountable on a daily basis. We are so lucky to have a former student-athlete of her caliber be so committed to this program."

IF YOU WEREN'T A COACH, WHAT WOULD YOU BE?

"If I weren't coaching women's golf at the division I level, I dream of coaching a girls' varsity high school basketball team or starting the LPGA Girls Golf Club of Oakland for youth golfers. I can't get away from working with young people. I enjoy mentoring them, learning from them, creating new, fun environments in which they will learn and being a positive, motivational person in their lives. My secret passion at the moment is coaching my third-grade daughter's basketball team."

WHAT EXCITES YOU ABOUT COACHING AT CAL?

"Look at the view! Every day is beautiful. Cal is an incredible place to have the opportunity to coach. The leadership from the top is inspiring (Sandy Barbour and Teresa Kuehn Gould) and my colleagues are the very best at what they do. Most important are the student-athletes who we attract. I am constantly challenged by their intellect and their athletic abilities. I love to offer young people the chance to study and play at the highest level and leave college with a greater understanding of independence."

WHAT DO YOU ENJOY DOING IN YOUR FREE TIME?

"My free time is filled with being outside with family and friends—golfing, hiking, biking, swimming, barbecues, playing cards or whatever the day brings. Camping is the ultimate because it combines all these activities, and the kids absolutely go crazy over it."

WHAT IS INTERESTING ABOUT YOU THAT MOST PEOPLE DON'T KNOW?

"Most people don't know that I love horses. I always wanted to live on a ranch."

ANNE WALKER - ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH

WHAT MAKES THIS YEAR'S CAL TEAM SPECIAL?

"Their chemistry is so natural. We have never once had to discuss the team energy. It has been inspired naturally. You can recruit the top players in the world, but without the kind of energy that is present on our current team, it doesn't mean as much."

IF YOU WEREN'T A COACH, WHAT WOULD YOU BE?

"I can't imagine what I would do. I love coaching, and I can't imagine ever having another job that I would enjoy as much or have the same level of gratification."

WHAT EXCITES YOU ABOUT COACHING AT CAL?

"Coaching at your alma mater is the best! Every time any one of our 27 sports steps on the field, I get excited because they are competing for the same school, colors and tradition that I worked so hard for during my college career. I feel that I have a special bond with every athlete on campus and especially the golfers. We all chose Cal."

WHAT DO YOU HOPE EACH CAL GOLFER GETS OUT OF HER TIME IN COLLEGE?

"I hope they all leave with an incredible sense of pride for the University of California. I hope they feel that they went all out for four years and gave everything they had in the classroom, on the course and in the community. If they leave with the same sense of passion, appreciation and love for Cal that I developed over my time here, I know they will always feel fulfilled by their college experience."

WHAT HOBBY WOULD YOU LIKE TO MASTER?

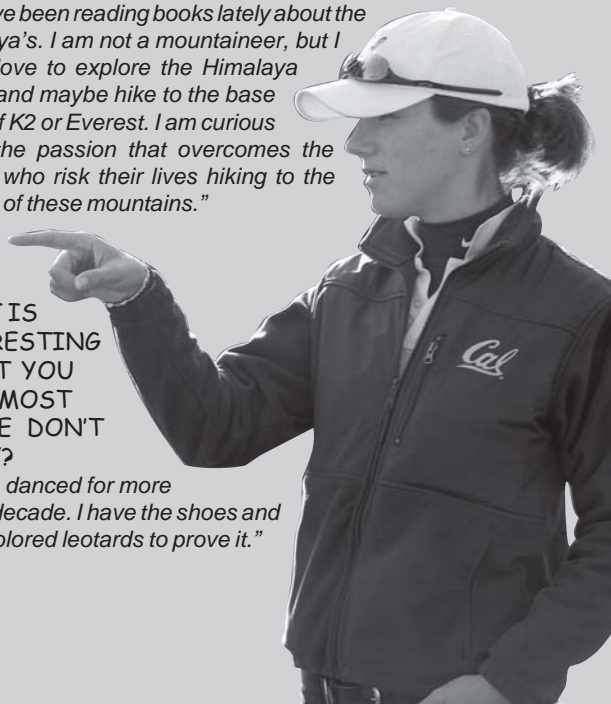

"I don't surf at all, and I actually get freaked out by what is in the ocean. However, I think being a good surfer and having the drive to wake up every day and head out to catch some waves would be the ultimate. Surfers always seem to have their lives in perspective because they spend so much time respecting something way bigger than them—the ocean."

IF YOU COULD HOP ON A PLANE TOMORROW, WHERE WOULD YOU GO?

"I have been reading books lately about the Himalaya's. I am not a mountaineer, but I would love to explore the Himalaya region and maybe hike to the base camp of K2 or Everest. I am curious about the passion that overcomes the people who risk their lives hiking to the summit of these mountains."

WHAT IS INTERESTING ABOUT YOU THAT MOST PEOPLE DON'T KNOW?

"I tap danced for more than a decade. I have the shoes and multi-colored leotards to prove it."

CALIFORNIA ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH

Anne WALKER

Associate Head Coach • Sixth Season

Former California star Anne Walker continues to personify the Golden Bear spirit in her first season as associate head coach, following five years as an assistant coach for her alma mater's women's golf team. During Walker's 10 years of devotion to Cal as a player and coach, she has helped shape the Bears into a consistent national championship contender.

Prior to Walker's first year of competition in 1998-99, the Bears' team-scoring average was 319.8. During her freshman season, the team made the program's biggest scoring improvement to 310.7 and won its first major tournament – the BYU Invitational – behind Walker's first-place finish. This year's team is on a school-record pace of 296.4.

Cal improved each year during Walker's playing career, highlighted by three regional and two NCAA Championships invitations, and has continued to do so with her on the coaching staff.

In Walker's inaugural year as an assistant coach, Cal won a nation's-best seven tournament titles, earned an all-time best national ranking of No. 2 by Golfstat late in the year and tied for 14th at the NCAA Championships. In 2003-04, the Bears posted a school-best finish of fourth at NCAAs and set a Cal season stroke-average record of 298.1. Cal placed fifth at nationals the following two seasons, joining Duke as the only schools with three straight top-five NCAA Championships finishes from 2004-06.

Walker became Cal women's golf's first All-Pac-10 honoree after her freshman and sophomore seasons and received second-team recognition as a senior. She also was a three-time first-team Pac-10 All-Academic choice and an Academic All-District VIII pick as a senior. Her career culminated by being awarded the Pac-10 Medal of Honor as the Bears' top graduating female student-athlete.

Leadership was one of Walker's strong points as a player and has become even more prevalent as a coach. She is Cal's only three-time captain and was the team's only member of the Chancellor's Advisory Committee.

Walker has distinguished herself as one of only three Cal athletes to win two tournaments, grabbing top honors at the 1998 BYU Invitational and the 2002 Bay Area Classic.

In January of 1998, Walker came to Berkeley from Lanarkshire, Scotland, and has represented her country's national team on numerous occasions.

The three-time National Golf Coaches Association Academic All-American earned her bachelor's degree with honors from Cal in geography in May of 2002.

team, including to the first team as a senior. Additionally, she earned three NGCA Academic All-America honors. Bolter joined Anderson on the 1999 Pac-10 Asia All-Star team. She is working on her doctorate in sport and exercise psychology at the

ANNE WALKER

Anne Walker is credited with elevating the Cal women's golf program to national prominence. Cal showed its biggest improvement to that point during Walker's 1998-99 rookie season. The Bears cut their scoring average from 319.8 the previous year to 310.7 and won their first major tournament – the BYU Invitational – behind Walker's first-place finish. A product of Lanarkshire, Scotland, Walker garnered three NGCA Academic All-America citations and became the first Cal player to receive All-Pac-10 kudos. After garnering honorable mention all-conference status as a freshman and sophomore, Walker was picked to the second team as a senior. Her career culminated by being awarded the 2002 Pac-10 Medal of Honor as the Bears' top graduating female student-athlete. She is in her sixth season on the Cal coaching staff and her first as an associate head coach.

BEARS IN THE PROS

SOFIE ANDERSSON

Sofie Andersson became Cal's first three-time All-American during her sophomore through senior seasons (2004-06). Andersson recorded the second-best season stroke average in Cal history at 73.83 as a senior in 2005-06, just behind Sarah Huarte's record of 73.82. The product of Angelholm, Sweden, garnered three All-Pac-10 selections and second-team All-SEC honors as a freshman at Mississippi State. Andersson currently competes on the Futures Tour and won her first pro tournament at the Aurora Health Care Championship June 1-3, 2007. She also holds her LPGA conditional card.

"My golf experience, as well as my education at Cal, brought me to where I am today. The coaches' and the professors' inspiration, knowledge and never-ending interest in improving and learning has affected the way I play, practice and think about golf."

won the Honda Award for Golf. The product of Shingle Springs, Calif., also holds the distinction of being the only three-time first-team All-Pac-10 honoree in Cal history. Huarte competes professionally on the LPGA Tour and has played in the 2005 and 2006 U.S. Open, highlighted by a 23rd-place finish in 2005.

"Being a Cal student-athlete taught me more than anything how to manage and organize my time. While academics can be difficult, my coaches taught me how to prioritize and make the best of the little down time that players can easily waste. These traits have carried over into my professional career as a golfer."

VIKKI LAING

Vikki Laing (2000-04) secured the 2003 Pac-10 individual title, becoming the first Cal women's golfer to win a conference crown. The native of Musselburgh, Scotland, came to Berkeley after gaining valuable experience on the Scottish national team. Laing earned second-team All-America recognition as a senior and was a first-team All-Pac-10 choice in 2002 and 2003. Laing was the first Cal women's golfer to earn her LPGA card. She currently competes on the Futures Tour and claimed her first professional win at the Gettysburg Championship Aug. 24-27, 2007.

"Being at Cal taught me strong organizational skills and to believe in myself. I know how to arrange my time effectively, which is extremely important as a professional golfer. No matter how hard things get, I know I was born to handle it."

SOPHIA SHERIDAN

Sophia Sheridan (2003-06) teamed with Sofie Andersson to lead Cal to three consecutive top five NCAA finishes from 2004-06. A native of Guadalajara, Mexico, Sheridan is a two-time honorable mention All-America pick, a two-time all-region recipient and a four-time All-Pac-10 choice. The 2005 NCAA West Regional champion plays on the LPGA and Futures tours and competed in the 2006 U.S. Open.

"The two most important concepts I learned at Cal are discipline and attention to detail. Cal golf taught me how to organize my life, combining school and golf and doing both at my very best. I learned how to represent my school proudly, and now, I apply the same tools in order to represent myself and my country."

SARAH HUARTE

Sarah Huarte (2001-04) became the first Cal men's or women's golfer to win a national title by claiming the 2004 NCAA individual crown by one stroke with a 72-hole national championship record score of 10-under 278. For her efforts, Huarte became the inaugural first-team All-American in Cal women's golf history and

ANNA TEMPLE

Anna Temple competed for three seasons for Cal from 2001-04 after playing for Wisconsin as a freshman. Temple's scoring average dropped each year during her college career to a low of 76.2 in 2003-04. As a senior, she earned all-region honors by tying for third place at the NCAA West Regional with a two-under-score of 214. The Berkeley product is in her third season on the Ladies European Tour.

"Cal taught me to be independent, responsible and an analytical thinker. I learned so much more from the real life experiences. If it hadn't been for my time at Cal, I never would have had the passion to play golf outside of the U.S. tours."

LIFE AS A CALIFORNIA

BELINDA DIAMOND

On what is special about this year's team

"Our team is extremely diverse. We have girls from five different countries. No two personalities on our team are similar. We are all very different, but we come together as a team and as friends. We see each other almost twice a day, and we are always looking forward to the next time we see each other."

ALLISON GOODMAN

On her experience at Cal

"My experience at Cal has been first class. Not only do I receive the best education in the country that opens my eyes to new ideas every day, but I also receive some of the best training in the world. No other school can beat that!"

PIA HALBIG

On her favorite spot on campus

"My favorite spot is probably the top of the Campanile because from up there you can see all over San Francisco and Berkeley. It is just beautiful."

SOFIA JANER

On what she would do if she wasn't a golfer

"If I wasn't playing golf, I would probably be doing ballet. I danced ballet for many years when I was a little girl. I danced in a ballet academy and had the chance to perform internationally and represent my country. I eventually had to choose between golf and ballet. I couldn't pursue both interests with the intensity required to become a top international competitor."

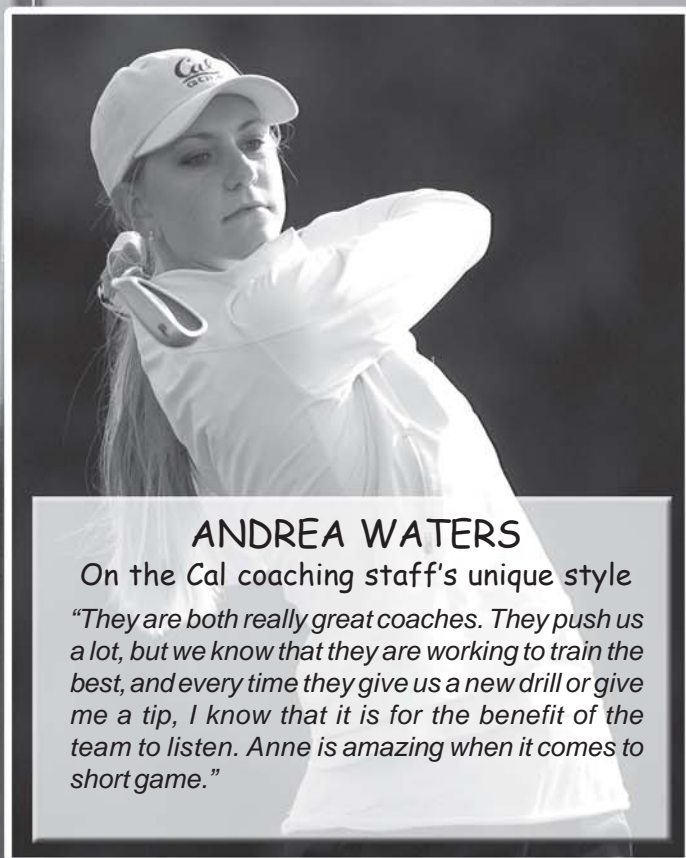

GOLDEN BEAR GOLFER

ROSEANNE NIVEN

On Cal's chance of winning an NCAA title

"The ingredients are all there; they just need refining. We all have a deep desire to win, which takes us halfway there. We have to show our confidence on the golf course throughout the spring. If that happens, we will be competing to win the championship."

ANDREA WATERS

On the Cal coaching staff's unique style

"They are both really great coaches. They push us a lot, but we know that they are working to train the best, and every time they give us a new drill or give me a tip, I know that it is for the benefit of the team to listen. Anne is amazing when it comes to short game."

SHANNON YOCUM

On the value of the new Scoring Zone

"We have every shot available to practice at our new short-game facility. Confidence is the key to golf, and for me, our Scoring Zone is the key to my confidence."

2007 SEASON IN REVIEW

California continued to show improvement throughout the spring of 2007. The Golden Bears tied for second at the Spartan Invitational in March for their best showing of 2006-07.

Cal utilized a strong result at the Pac-10 Championships in April to earn its eighth straight NCAA regional bid. The team placed fifth in the Pac-10 Championships, marking the program's sixth consecutive upper-division performance in the conference. Sophomore Allison Goodman and freshman Sofia Janer earned honorable mention All-Pac-10 recognition by placing fifth (+8, 224) and tying for seventh (+10, 226), respectively, at the conference meet.

After pulling together at Pac-10s, Cal was selected to compete at the NCAA West Regional in St. George, Utah. The Bears finished 19th and didn't qualify for the NCAA Championships for the first time in seven years. Goodman led Cal for the eighth time as a sophomore, tying for 48th at 230 (+17) at the NCAA regional.

Sophomore Shannon Yocum was the only other golfer besides Goodman to pace Cal at a spring tournament by leading the way at the PING/ASU Invitational. Yocum also received her second National Golf Coaches Association Academic All-America honor.

At the spring awards banquet, Goodman was chosen the team's Most Valuable Player, while Yocum earned the Most Improved Player award.

Cal built on its solid efforts in the spring by reclaiming its status as a top-10 program in the fall of 2007. With a school-record tying score of four-over 868, the Bears opened the new season by claiming the Ptarmigan Ram Fall Classic team title by 19 shots. Yocum also won her first collegiate title, firing a score of two-under 214.

By fielding a strong lineup from positions one through five, Cal grabbed four top-five results in the fall, including fifth place at both the Edean Ihlanfeldt Invitational and Stanford Intercollegiate and third at the Kent Youel Invitational.

Allison Goodman

Sophomore Roseanne Niven took top Cal honors at the Washington (T10th, +6, 222) and Stanford (T11th, +5, 218) events, and Janer took seventh in Hawaii (+5, 221) to pace the Bears.

Cal head coach Nancy McDaniel was named Golf World magazine's 2007-08 Midseason Coach of the Year after leading the Bears to a final fall Golfweek ranking of No. 10. Niven and freshman Pia Halbig carry No. 47 and No. 48 rankings, respectively, after the fall. Goodman is 75th.

TEAM BUILDING

THE IMPORTANCE OF TEAM BUILDING

ACCORDING TO CAL HEAD COACH
NANCY McDANIEL

Team building happens before we even tee it up on the golf course. It gives our team a communication framework from which to work, and it lays the groundwork for what we are aiming for throughout the season. Team building is part of every meeting we have throughout the year.

To play for a national championship, the work is not all done on the golf course. It's done every single day of your life with the encounters you have with teammates, coaches and with alumni, to name a few groups. Time management is important, as are the relationships you have outside the team. Team building allows our team to perform at a much higher level and gives the players a stronger appreciation for those around them.

We've brought Rolland Todd in for many years, and I credit him for his work with the team and the level we've achieved as far as playing for a national championship. I really believe how we handle ourselves away from the golf course is an incredible life skill and is something we strive to instill in our players. After graduation, they can immerse themselves in the real world and function at a very high level with their careers and family.

We regularly go off campus. In the fall, we went to Lair of the Bear in Sonora, and in January, we went to Southern California to play golf and focus on getting ready for the spring. The gathering in the fall emphasizes getting to know each other again after being away and getting to know the new players. We learn how to function as a team and not as individuals. We learn that we can function on a higher level when we work together.

SPORTS PSYCHOLOGY

The California women's golf team recognizes the benefits of implementing a specific mental training regimen. The Golden Bears work closely with Jeff Troesch, an internationally recognized expert in the field of mental skills training and performance enhancement, to ensure that they are performing at their best in their quest for an NCAA championship. He serves as the team's mental game consultant.

"Most athletes and teams acknowledge that the mental part of the game is significant when it comes to training and competition," Troesch said. "However, those that don't take the time or put the energy at purposefully working on that part of the game end up hoping something good will happen rather than knowing how to make it happen."

According to Troesch, teams that work at the mental side of sports are more confident, consistent and focused, and are clearer about their objectives and how to achieve them. The athletes are also more capable of dealing with adversity and frustration, and more likely to enjoy their sport.

The players and teams that have a mental training plan learn how to consistently create the with an individual largely in respect to the dynamics that exist between and among the team members, as well as the relationships between each team member and the coaching staff. These interactions make working with a team more complex and more challenging. There are additional aspects that come into consideration for a player when they are representing a university and are a part of a team. When athletes are playing as individuals, they are only responsible for and responsible to themselves. This relationship is different as a member of a team. That being said, the ultimate impact that Troesch can have for each player is done by internal environment that leads to successes. Other teams and athletes wait for successes to create a good internal environment, and then have a hard time figuring out how to repeat it.

Troesch believes working with a team differs from working customizing and individualizing his work with them. There is a lot of individual work done in the team context.

"My experience working with the Cal women's golf team has been among the most enjoyable and rewarding in my 20-plus years of consulting with athletic programs," Troesch said. "The openness on the part of the coaching staff to continue to grow and learn and do whatever it takes to get better is a rare trait in NCAA Division I sports. The enthusiasm with which the staff and the players have embraced the mental training and their diligence in working the process of strengthening their mental games has been inspiring."

Troesch, MA, LMHC, has been involved in training athletes and other elite performers since 1988. Troesch served for several years as director of mental training for David Leadbetters' Golf Academies worldwide, where he was instrumental in assisting in the development of their training programs and methodology. He currently is the director of West Coast operations for the International Junior Golf Academy slated to open in Central California in August 2008.
