2004 SEASON OUTLOOK

Cal Sets Sights on NCAA Title

With three consecutive NCAA Championships appearances to its credit, the California women's golf team looks to show it's a perennial national title contender in 2004.

The Golden Bears have improved each season they have advanced, from 19th in 2001 to 15th in 2002 to a tie for 14th last spring. However, the disappointment of last season's NCAA showing, when they entered the competition with a No. 2 ranking, has provided the motivation for Cal to not just return to the 2004 NCAA Championships but to strive for the winner's podium.

"There's a bitter taste in their mouths," said ninth-year head coach Nancy McDaniel, who was named the 2003 National Golf Coaches Association and Golfweek Coach of the Year. "We're learning from that every day. We're staying on top of our commitments and not letting anything slide. Our seniors have a lot of pride and take last year's NCAA performance to heart."

Even though last season didn't culminate as the Bears would have hoped, there were many highlights. Cal claimed a nation's-best seven tournament titles – three in the fall and four in the spring – including its first ever Pac-10 and NCAA regional championships. Vikki Laing, who has since graduated and has joined the LPGA tour, won the school's first conference individual title over the 2003 NCAA champion, Mikaela Parmlid from USC, and took second at the NCAA Central Regional.

Laing and Sarah Huarte were chosen as Cal's first All-Americans for women's golf. The Bears also had a program-record six golfers earn all-conference recognition – Laing and Huarte on the first team, Ria Quiazon on the second team and Claire Dury, Sophia Sheridan and Mika Takayama received honorable mention honors.

The Bears are deep again this season, with five golfers being ranked in the top 80 nationally by Golfweek and six sport fall averages under 76. They also benefit from international experience, as Dury (New Zealand), Sheridan (Mexico) and Sofie Andersson (Sweden) all have played for their country's national teams.

Three seniors look to make sure Cal's 2003-04 season ends as well as it started. Huarte led the Bears to a season-opening 20-shot victory at The Topy Cup by taking second in the individual race. A second team Golfweek preseason All-American, Huarte led Cal during the fall with a 73.4 stroke average, which is on pace to break Laing's school record of 74.3 set last season.

"We called upon Sarah to get more experience at the national level, and she played tournaments all summer," said McDaniel of the nation's No. 17-ranked golfer. "She came back with a fire and maturity about her that's going to take her a long way. If she stays on top of her game, she will likely lead our team in the spring."

Dury has been a sparkplug for the Bears since enrolling at Cal for the spring 2002 semester from Massey University in New Zealand. She has performed well at NCAA regionals each year, tying for 12th with a 222 at the 2002 West Regional and earning all-region accolades for a fourth-place showing (221) at the 2003 Central Regional.

"Claire attacked her weaknesses in the offseason," said McDaniel. "A breakout for her is right around the corner. We look for big things from her this spring."

Sofie Andersson

Anna Temple has shown the most improvement of Cal's returners. As a junior last season, the Berkeley native was chosen as the team's Most Improved Player after posting a 77.2 stroke average. Entering the spring, Temple is ranked No. 34 nationally with a 74.3 average.

McDaniel credits Temple's recent development to the 34 days she spent travelling and competing over the summer on the Collegiate Asian Tour.

"It was an awesome opportunity for Anna," said McDaniel. "She was not a big traveler, and then she went over to Asia and saw things she never saw before. She came back with a perspective on her golf game that's going to carry her through her senior season."

Two super sophomores bolster the Bears' lineup. Sheridan is back after posting top 30 results in seven of the 10 tournaments she competed in as a freshman and all three 2003 fall events. Her best performances last season were at the Bay Area Classic, where she took second place, and at the Kent Yoeul Invitational in Hawaii, where she grabbed fifth.

"Sophia's passion for the game is contagious," said McDaniel. "She's an enthusiastic player who hits the ball a mile. Her spirit, coupled with her new-found consistency, have elevated her to a new level this season."

The other sophomore, Andersson, is in her first season at Cal after competing as a freshman at Mississippi State and brings poise to the Bears. Andersson earned second team All-SEC recognition in 2002-03 on the strength of eight top 20 finishes, including four in the top 10. During the fall at Cal, she battled a back injury, but still entered three of four events and placed seventh at the Edean Ihlanfeldt Invitational.

"Sofie has been a terrific addition to our team," said McDaniel. "Her attitude and calculated practices each day are valuable to our program. Sofie's attention to detail has resulted in strong iron play."

The future of Cal golf lies with freshmen Danielle Nash and Eunice Yum, who are in-state products from Roseville and Torrance, respectively.

Nash twice saw action in the fall, at the Stanford Intercollegiate and at the Hooters Collegiate Match Play Championship. She carded a low collegiate score of 72 in the opening round at Stanford. With Nash on the squad last year, St. Francis High School continued its streak of six consecutive Northern California golf championships.

"Danielle is completely coachable," said McDaniel. "We're going to see some outstanding golf from her in the next few years. With each collegiate tournament, she becomes a better player."

Yum will likely redshirt the 2003-04 season. She is a three-time MVP of South High School's golf team and is the school's three-time Athlete of the Year.

"Eunice has been a great team player," said McDaniel. "Developing her distance is one of her focuses. Once she gets that down, she'll be ready to play in our top five."

Cal's lineup is clearly stocked with athletes who can put Cal in the national championship picture again this year.

"They approach everything they do with a national championship in mind," said McDaniel. "We want to be in the mix, not the light mix, though. We want to be in the last group, on the last day, at the last tournament, and have a good time playing good golf."

With that attitude and their prior NCAA experience, Cal may return from Alabama in late May with the sweet taste of victory and a national championship trophy.

NANCY McDANIEL

Head Coach • Ninth Season

After leading California to three consecutive NCAA Championships appearances and earning several national coach of the year honors, Nancy McDaniel enters her ninth season as the founding coach of the school's women's golf program.

The Golden Bears finished 19th in 2001 in the program's first-ever NCAA Championships appearance and have steadily improved to 15th in 2002 and a tie for 14th in 2003.

Prior to last year's national competition, McDaniel directed Cal to a nation's-best seven tournament titles, including the Bears' first Pac-10 and NCAA regional (Central) crowns, propelling them to an all-time best national ranking of No. 2 by Golfstat heading into the NCAA Championships.

The team's 2002-03 accomplishments earned McDaniel a collection of prestigious awards – National Golf Coaches Association (NGCA) Coach of the Year, the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) Teaching and Club Professional Coach of the Year and Golfweek magazine's Coach of the Year. She also garnered her second Pac-10 Coach of the Year and NGCA Western Regional Co-Coach of the Year selections and was honored as California's Athletic Alumni Association's Big C Society Coach of the Year.

Under McDaniel's leadership, Cal has garnered 13 All-Pac-10, three all-region and two All-America honors. Last season, the Bears achieved a program-high six all-conference citations and received their first-ever All-America picks.

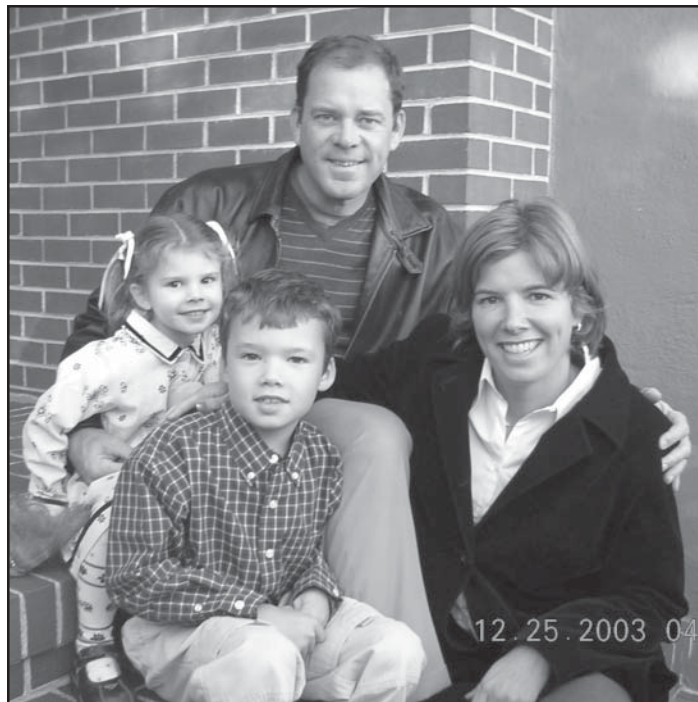

In less than a decade as a Division I program, Cal has shown dramatic improvement under McDaniel's guidance. The 1995-96 inaugural squad placed 10th in the Pac-10 Conference and wrapped up the season with a 333.5 stroke average. In comparison, the Bears enter the 2004 spring campaign with a 295.8 stroke average and boast national rankings of No. 4 by Golfstat and No. 5 by Golfweek.

The 2001 Pac-10 Coach of the Year and 2002 West Regional Coach of the Year also has coached the Bears to first-place finishes at 15 tournaments, including 10 since the spring of 2002.

One of the most successful players ever to compete at Washington, McDaniel was team captain as a senior in 1988 and earned one All-America and two Pac-10 All-Star team selections. During her career, she won individual titles at the 1987 Washington and BYU tournaments and finished in the top 10 at seven additional events. McDaniel recorded a 74.3 average her senior year with the Huskies, posting a personal-best round of 69 in the fall of 1987. She was named to Washington's Pac-10 All-Decade team (1986-96) for women's golf and received her bachelor's degree in speech communications in 1988.

McDaniel came to Cal with five years of professional experience on the Women's European, Ladies Asian and Players West golf tours. One of the top players on the Ladies Asian Tour, she finished 13th of 153 participants in 1993 and ranked 20th during her final season in 1994. Prior to that, McDaniel won the Players West title at the 1992 Las Vegas Classic and won the LPGA sectional qualifier in Mission Hills later that year. She currently is a member of the LPGA Teaching Division.

McDaniel spent three years as a touring golf professional, playing out of Brookside Country Club in Stockton, Calif., before accepting the position at Cal in October of 1994. Originally from Portland, Ore., Nancy and her husband, Jay, the head golf professional at Claremont Country Club, have a seven-year-old son, Tyler, and a four-year-old daughter, Molly.

ANNE WALKER

Assistant Coach • Second Season

Former Golden Bear standout Anne Walker enters her second season as an assistant coach for the California women's golf team.

During her six years at Cal as a player and coach, Walker has been instrumental in Cal's rise to being a national championship contender. Prior to Walker's first year of competition in 1998-99, the Bears' team scoring average was 319.8. During her freshman season, the team made the program's biggest scoring improvement to 310.7 and won its first major tournament – the BYU Invitational – behind Walker's first-place finish.

Cal improved each year during Walker's playing career, highlighted by three regional and two NCAA Championships invitations, and has continued to do so with her on the coaching staff.

Last season, Cal won a nation's-best seven tournament titles, earned an all-time best national ranking of No. 2 by Golfstat late in the year and posted the school's best-ever finish (tie 14th) at the NCAA Championships.

Walker became Cal women's golf's first All-Pac-10 honoree after her freshman and sophomore seasons and received second team recognition as a senior. She also was a three-time first team Pac-10 All-Academic choice and an Academic All-District VIII pick as a senior. Her career culminated by being awarded the Pac-10 Medal of Honor as the Bears' top graduating female student-athlete.

Leadership was one of Walker's strong points as a player and has become even more prevalent as a coach. She is Cal's only three-time captain and was the team's only member of the Chancellor's Advisory Committee.

Walker has distinguished herself as one of only two Cal athletes to win two tournaments, grabbing top honors at the 1998 BYU Invitational and the 2002 Bay Area Classic.

Walker came to Berkeley in January of 1998 from Lanarkshire, Scotland, where she has represented the country's national team on numerous occasions.

The three-time National Golf Coaches Association Academic All-American earned her bachelor's degree from Cal in geography with honors in May of 2002.

2002-03 NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

Enjoying perhaps the greatest overall athletic season in school history, Cal claimed ninth place in the 2002-03 Directors' Cup standings, which signifies the best overall sports programs in the country.

In garnering their lofty standing, the Golden Bears fielded 11 teams that finished among the nation's Top 10 during the past school year. Cal tallied a school-record 884.75 points, while seizing its first-ever Top 10 ranking among the 326 NCAA Division I universities.

Cal's best previous finish in the Directors' Cup was a 12th-place showing in 2000-01, and the Bears have been in the Top 20 each of the past four years.

The Directors' Cup measures a school's overall level of success based on performances of teams in 20 selected sports – 10 men's and 10 women's.

In addition to Cal's teams' success, six Golden Bear coaches were voted Conference Coach of the Year and three student-athletes received Conference Player of the Year honors.

2003 SEASON IN REVIEW

The California women's golf team emerged as a national title contender in 2003. After winning three tournament titles in the fall of 2002, the Golden Bears continued their momentum into the spring of 2003.

Cal won an additional four tournaments in the spring for an NCAA-best seven titles during the 2002-03 campaign. Behind Sarah Huarte's first collegiate victory, the Bears opened the spring by defending their Bay Area Classic title. After top five performances at the Spartan Invitational and Pioneer Classic, Cal posted a one-shot victory over Texas at the PING/ASU Invitational against a nationally-loaded field.

The Bears won their first conference title by five shots over three-time defending champion Arizona, and Vikki Laing became the first Cal women's golfer to win a conference championship. She did so by one stroke and held off two of the nation's top golfers in USC's Mikaela Parmlid, the 2003 NCAA champion, and Arizona's Erica Blasberg. The Musselburgh, Scotland, native concluded the season with a Cal record stroke average of 74.3.

After the Pac-10 meet, Cal claimed a 20-shot win – the biggest in school history – at the NCAA Central Regional.

On the heels of three straight tournament trophies for the first time in school history, Cal entered its third consecutive NCAA Championships with an all-time best No. 2 national ranking by Golfstat. The Bears finished in a disappointing tie for 14th, fueling their determination heading into the fall of 2003.

The fall began on a high note with a victory at The Topy Cup in Fukushima Prefecture, Japan. The Bears then tied for second at the Edean Ihlanfeldt Invitational, their best-ever showing at that competition. Cal placed fourth to other top teams at the Stanford Pepsi Intercollegiate but was encouraged by its school records for 36 (577) and 54 holes (869). Huarte took fifth and set the Cal individual record for 54 holes (212). Hurate and Laing also set the school record for 36 holes (140) at different 2003 tournaments. Cal wrapped up the fall at the first-ever Hooters Collegiate Match Play event. Entering the spring, the Bears are ranked No. 4 by Golfstat and No. 5 by Golfweek.

Laing and Huarte became the first Cal women's golfers to earn National Golf Coaches Association (NGCA) All-America honors in 2003, with Laing being named to the second team and Huarte earning honorable mention recognition. Huarte was named a 2003-04 preseason second team All-American by Golfweek.

A league-best and school-record six Cal golfers received All-Pac-10 honors. Laing and Huarte earned back-to-back first team selections, followed by Ria Quiazon on the second team and Claire Dury, Sophia Sheridan and Mika Takayama as honorable mention choices.

Cal head coach Nancy McDaniel garnered national recognition for her team's banner 2002-03 year. The founding coach of the Bears' program was named NGCA Coach of the Year, the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) Teaching and Club Professional Coach of the Year and Golfweek magazine's Coach of the Year. She also garnered her second Pac-10 Coach of the Year and NGCA Western Regional Co-Coach of the Year selections and was honored as California's Athletic Alumni Association's Big C Society Coach of the Year.

Current LPGA player and 2003 Pac-10 individual champion Vikki Laing poses with the Pac-10 Championship trophy.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

One of the real success stories for the University of California in recent years is the development and growth of a comprehensive academic support program for its student-athletes — the Academic Programs for Student-Athletes.

In 1984, campus officials and Athletic Department administrators decided that a greater emphasis needed to be placed on helping Cal student-athletes with their academic pursuits. The Academic Programs for Student-Athletes was thus born and charged with developing an academic support program geared to the needs of NCAA Division I student-athletes. It was a significant development for an academically-oriented institution such as Cal to recognize the special needs required for a modern student-athlete's success both as an athletic competitor and in the classroom.

The Academic Program for Student-Athletes, which is housed under the University's Student Life Educational Development cluster, is the tutorial and academic support program for the nearly 1,000 student-athletes at Cal. Centrally-located in the César E. Chavez Student Center, the program provides a spacious and comfortable arboretum for quiet study, separate classrooms for individual and group tutorials, and a computer lab for word processing and required course work.

Geared around the understanding of the amount of time student-athletes must devote to practice, training, physical therapy and team travel, the program creates an environment where students can cultivate good study habits, receive individual or group tutoring and obtain counseling from academic advisors.

The tutorial component promotes and enhances students' academic skills and progress by providing individual tutoring, group workshops, study groups, credit courses and intensive special programs. The program focuses mainly on freshman and sophomores, and the Center uses between 50-60 tutors per semester to guarantee that as many courses as possible are covered. Tutorial sessions are also offered at night enabling student-athletes to receive help after practices when they have more time to devote to studying.

The advising component offers a broad range of services and programs to meet the unique needs and bipolar demands of student-athletes, including assistance in understanding and complying with University, college and NCAA rules, developing time management skills and resolving personal issues unique to student-athletes. During the freshman year, advisors typically try to help student-athletes make a successful academic transition from high school, while during the sophomore year, they assist student-athletes in making decisions on appropriate majors and fields of study. For the final two years, advisors take more of an exiting approach, ensuring that proper academic progress is being made and referring juniors and seniors to areas on campus that can help with internships, graduate school applications and career planning.

In addition, the Academic Program for Student-Athletes offers a six-week Summer Bridge program designed to help ease the transition from high school to college.

Because of the overall success of its advising and tutorial programs, the academic performance and graduation rates of Cal's student-athletes have improved significantly.

Cal golfers are well prepared for life after graduation regardless of their interests. For example, Eden Anderson (class of '00), a Phi Beta Kappa honoree, is attending Cal's nationally-renowned Boalt Law School and Annie Donnelly (class of '99) is enrolled at USC's School of Dentistry.

STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

An integral part of the athletics department at the University of California is the strength and conditioning program. Saleem Muhammed works closely with the women's golf program. The program's overall philosophy is geared towards helping each student-athlete achieve the highest level of athletic development.

Saleem Muhammed

The Cal golf team is immersed in a regimen that is customized to meet its needs. The program utilizes a combination of medicine ball, physioball, and balance bar exercises to develop each athlete's balance, stability and flexibility. These areas are important to the improvement of the power and range of a golfer's swing and the prevention of injuries.

Golfers are tested for their range of stretching. Forest then designs a corrective stretching program and monitors each athlete's improvement.

"Our golfers benefit from a cutting-edge strength and conditioning program," said Cal head coach Nancy McDaniel. "Through the use of plyometrics, medicine balls and specific cardiovascular exercises, we have seen the time in the weight room translate into results on the golf course."

Cal features state-of-the-art weight rooms at Haas Pavilion and Memorial Stadium. The newer weight room at Haas Pavilion includes six Olympic platforms, more than 5,000 pounds of Olympic bars and bumper plates, and an array of aerobic and anaerobic equipment. The facility is brightly designed and overlooks Evans Baseball Diamond to the west. The 2000-square foot weight room in Memorial Stadium offers similar equipment and panoramic views of the entire region.

All workouts are closely monitored and designed to help each athlete increase her ability and ultimately perform at her peak.

TEAM BUILDING

The California women's golf team has a tradition of devoting the first weekend of the fall session to team building. The players and coaches retreat to either the mountains of Tahoe, the East Bay Hills, or simply stay around campus and make use of the wonderful sports facilities. The tradition started in 1998 and has become an important part of the season. During that weekend, the team hikes, plays a number of different sports and games, watches movies and eats a lot of pizza.

The Golden Bears work with The Todd Company during the retreat. Roland Todd, a former NBA Portland Trailblazers coach, and his wife, Sharon, meet with the team for a five-hour session, helping the team build a solid foundation of commitments. The goals are to create team unity and to quickly integrate the freshmen into the program. The Todd Company has worked with many national championship teams, including the 2002 California softball squad. The group also works with many professional teams and athletes.

"Roland and Sharon help us work on our championship team model, define our goals and commitments, and provide us with techniques to deal with conflict," said former Bear Ria Quiazon. "They are an essential part of the engine that keeps our team driving forward."

"When we return home from our team-building weekend, there is a strong feeling of confidence within the team," said Cal assistant coach Anne Walker. "We are confident in our friendships, in our commitments and in our ability to win a national championship. It sets the tone for the rest of the season."

The team members feel that teamwork is the ability to work together toward a common vision and to direct individual accomplishments toward organizational objectives. The Cal women's golf team also believes teamwork is the fuel that allows common people to attain uncommon results. The team-building weekends and bi-monthly meetings are a time to review our championship team model, which is based around: honest relationships, commitments, leadership, support, straight talk, proactive listening, speedy resolutions and coaching as the catalyst.

Team building is an essential part of the Golden Bears' program. Working on relationships, integrity and graciousness are as important to the team as working on their own individual skills.

THE UNIVERSITY

The University of California is one of the world's leading academic institutions.

The school, known throughout the world as "Cal," is truly a prototype of a contemporary university. It attracts what many consider the finest applicant pool in the country, generates an ethnically and culturally diverse student population on campus, and provides one of the finest learning experiences in the world today.

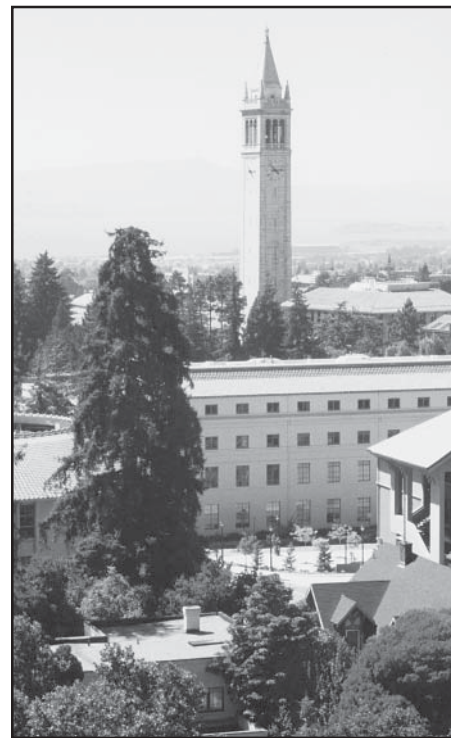

The Berkeley campus is renowned for the size and quality of its libraries and laboratories, the scope of its research and publications, and the distinction of its faculty and students. National rankings consistently place Cal's undergraduate and graduate programs among the very best. The faculty includes eight Nobel Laureates, 124 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 19 MacArthur Fellows, 81 Fulbright Scholars, three Pulitzer Prize winners and more Guggenheim Fellows (138) than any other university in the country.

The quality of Cal's diverse and independent student body complements the stature of the faculty. More than 33,000 students annually enroll at Cal. Of these, about 23,000 are undergraduates. Students come to Berkeley from all over California, in addition to every state in the union and more than 2,000 students from 75 countries around the world.

Overlooking San Francisco Bay, the campus is a lush and tranquil 1,232-acre oasis in an urban setting. The grounds have retained much of the beauty of their rural beginnings. Spacious lawns, hiking and running trails, as well as groves of oak, redwood and eucalyptus blend with the Neoclassical architecture of John Galen Howard. The University is bordered by the wooded rolling hills of Tilden Regional Park and the City of Berkeley, one of America's most lively, culturally diverse and politically adventurous municipalities.

By any standard, Cal offers its students one of the best educations available. Since its birth it has earned a reputation unmatched by any public university in America. According to a recent study by the National Research Council, Cal ranks first nationally in both the number of graduate programs in the Top 10 in their fields (97 percent) and the number of "distinguished" programs for the scholarship of the faculty (32 programs).

Although Cal is well known for its stellar graduate programs, undergraduate teaching is a campus priority. Nearly half of all courses offered at the undergraduate level have 25 students or fewer, and many lecture courses include smaller laboratory or study group sections which allow close interaction with professors and other instructors.

Cal offers a wide arena for academic endeavor and personal growth with more than 7,000 courses in nearly 300 degree programs. Exceptional support services such as the Student Learning Center, Career and Graduate School Services, the Disabled Students' Program, and campus and alumni mentor programs reflect Cal's strong commitment to undergraduate education. Study abroad is available to undergraduate students through the Education Abroad Program, which maintains more than 90 study centers in countries such as Australia, Costa Rica, Egypt, Hong Kong, New Zealand and Thailand.

Each year, more than 8,500 students receive degrees from the University – about 5,500 bachelor's degrees, 2,000 master's degrees, 900 doctorates and 200 law degrees.

The excellence of the University's intercollegiate athletic program rivals the school's academic reputation as Cal boasts one of the finest all-around programs in the nation. Twenty-seven sports – men's and women's basketball, crew, cross country, golf, gymnastics, soccer, swimming and diving, tennis, track & field and water polo; men's baseball, football and rugby; along with women's softball, volleyball, field hockey and lacrosse – are sponsored by the University. Over the years, Cal has captured more than 60 national team championships – most recently softball, men's crew and rugby in 2002 – while claiming over 105 NCAA individual championships in a variety of sports. This past season, six coaches received Conference Coach of the Year honors, Natalie Coughlin was named the NCAA Swimmer of the Year and the tandem of Christina Fusano and Raquel Kops-Jones were chosen the national Doubles Team of the Year in tennis.

In addition, Cal has a host of other features, including public lectures and concerts, campus-sponsored forums and seminars, clubs and workshops, dramatic presentations, international festivals, art, photographic, design, architectural, anthropological and archaeological exhibits and displays, and dozens of bookstores within one-square mile – all of this making Berkeley one of the most intellectually stimulating communities in the country.
